MARTIN INSULL IS LOCKED UP

O'BRIEN NAMED IN NEW YORK TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Walker Withdraws from Race.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Surrogate John P. O'Brien was nominated for mayor of New York City on the Democratic ticket tonight. He was named after former Mayor James J. Walker had stepped out of the political picture with a radio message in which he said he preferred to put his party loyalty above his personal ambitions.

Mr. Walker's withdrawal as a vindication candidate for mayor was received in the midst of an unprecedented gathering of 30,000 Democratic delegates in Madison Square Garden busy with the routine of nominating Surrogate O'Brien who had been selected by the Tammany leaders late this afternoon as a "harmony nominee."

Roosevelt's Name Booed.

With the exception of the Bronx delegation it was a Tammany controlled crowd from the rafters to the auditorium floor. Roaring boos greeted the names of Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee, who succeeded Mr. Walker when he resigned under fire, and of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who heard the Seabury charges against Mayor Walker.

Mayor Walker's dramatic announcement of his withdrawal was contained in two radio messages, the last filed from the liner Europa on which Walker is hurrying home from a European vacation. Both messages were addressed to Tammany leader, John F. Curry. The first, from Naples, dated Sept. 23, gave failure to regain his health as a reason for withdrawal of his name. The second was in reply to a message from Mr. Curry and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, offering Walker the nomination.

Walker Explains Stand.

In his reply Mr. Walker said he could not make a campaign without repeating charges of "unfairness" in conducting the hearings against him on the part of Gov. Roosevelt.

". . . I would not pussyfoot about it," radioed the former mayor, "and this in my opinion would do the Democratic ticket no good."

Then Mr. Walker concluded with a request that "rather than jeopardize the hopes of Democracy in the nation I request that my name be withheld from the convention."

District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, a close friend of both Mr. Curry and Surrogate O'Brien, placed Mr. O'Brien in nomination. First Mr. Crain paid tribute to the ability of former Mayor Walker.

Crain Praises Walker.

"It took a man of courage and party loyalty to send such a telegram as has just been read," said the white-haired old gentleman. "The man I propose to nominate——" he continued, but a shouting convention drowned out his words with cries of: "We want Walker! Walker! Walker! Walker!"

Over on the Bronx side of the Garden there were shouts of "McKee! McKee!" but they were greeted with boos from other sections of the hall.

Mr. Crain, when permitted to resume his speech, referred to Mr. O'Brien as one who for years had "helped the poor." He spoke of his years in the corporation counsel's office and his service as surrogate. There was a scattering of applause but it did not meet the volume given to Walker.

Bronx Leader in Line.

Edward J. Flynn, the Bronx leader and Roosevelt chieftain who had been holding out for McKee, arose to demonstrate his party regularity. Mr. Flynn seconded the nomination of Mr. O'Brien, declaring he wanted nobody "to question the regularity of one who served under Charles F. Murphy, George W. Olvany and John F. Curry," Tammany leaders in the order of their succession.

A roll call by assembly districts followed and Mr. O'Brien was nominated unanimously for mayor.

Taking his place on the platform the nominee was mildly cheered. He spoke in praise of Mr. Walker and then said:

". . . I am sure, at the moment, you do not expect me to delve into matters of municipal policy. All of these things will be taken up in due course."

Mr. Curry, just before adjournment, offered a resolution pledging fealty to "Franklin D. Roosevelt, our candi-

REVEAL MONTHS OF VANDALISM; 2 OTHERS HELD

Methods of Blast Ring Told.

State's Attorney Swanson announced last night that he had obtained from two dry cleaners confessions which will clear up five bombings and 350 smaller acts of vandalism conducted over a period of a year by rival groups in the cleaning business.

Morris Cohen, 3202 West 22d street, and Walter Silver, 1242 North Kimball avenue, managers of shops of the Checker Cleaners, Inc., made the admissions. The state's attorney and his assistant, Charles Lounsbury, quoted Cohen and Silver as saying they were the negotiators who hired and paid bombers and window smashers with funds gathered through assessments against the thirty-one Checker shops.

Three Others Implicated.

They implicated John J. Klein, manager of a Checker shop at 6441 South Green street, as a third negotiator. According to the confessions, however, the real heads of the bombing conspiracy were Louis Williams and Louis Hollman, owners of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers at 1339 West 63d street.

Williams and Hollman, it was asserted, ordered bombings, breaking of windows, and the placing of destructive chemicals in competing plants, collected the assessments and handed over the money to the negotiators, but only after inspecting the destruction and deciding it was done with the proper ferocity.

The Michigan Cleaners and Dyers concern is headed by Hollman and is the controlling factor in the Checker lineup. Hollman is being sought by the police. Williams and Klein are in custody with Cohen and Silver, but Klein has made few admissions and Williams none.

$2,100 Paid for Bombing.

In their statements Cohen and Silver admitted promoting the bombing of the New City Cleaning and Dyeing company at 3010 Lake street on Nov. 29, 1931. The building was wrecked and adjoining structures were damaged. It was such a good job, the confessors declared, that they paid a young hoodlum $2,100 for it and the higher-ups felt the money was well spent.

All the shops against which this gang of bombers directed their efforts were members of the Cleaners and Dyers institute. One of the most interesting aspects of the present investigation is that the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers and their Checker allies have in the past frequently been bomb targets and have protested on occasion to the state's attorney that creatures of the institute members have been bombing them.

Complain to Prosecutor.

As late as Aug. 18 two south side cleaners went to the state's attorney and asserted they had been told they would get into bombing trouble if they didn't quit sending their work to the Hollman plant and transfer it instead to the New Drexel Cleaners and Dyers, 4722 Cottage Grove avenue. The latter concern is partly owned by Murray Humphries, a Capone gangster. Cohen's own shop was bombed in early August.

"We used to hire boys to break windows with bricks," Silver and Cohen said. "Fifty cents was the price for a little window and $2 for a big one. Some of the boys used to make $8 or $9 a night working for us. When Hollman and Williams wanted the New City job done we tried to hire some Saltis and O'Donnell gangsters on the south side. But their price was too high and we had to get somebody else."

Cause Damage to Clothing.

They described the methods by which acid and phosphorus compounds were sent to the competing shops sewed in clothing. These compounds would either eat through clothing to be cleaned or would cause fires.

Mr. Swanson said that books of the Hollman organization showed that $150 costs had been levied against each Checker shop in the last five weeks. Williams and Hollman, it was said, collected this under the official pretext that it was for Christmas presents to be given the Checker employes.

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of the four men in custody will be held before Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court today.

CARRYING THE BURDEN

CLEANING ACID RUINS WINDOWS IN POSTOFFICE

Federal officials yesterday were confronted with another problem in connection with the first cleaning of the federal building ever attempted. Due to financial difficulties of the contractor all work on the building stopped a month ago, with the job only half finished. Yesterday officials discovered that approximately $10,000 will be needed to replace windows ruined by the acid used in the cleaning process.

Ropes and scaffolding dangle against the side of the building and piles of coke and old buckets still clutter the adjacent streets. At the Dearborn street entrance a steam boiler is beginning to rust as a result of the month's lack of care. The contract was awarded by the supervising architect's office in Washington, and settlement of the present difficulty has been referred to that office by Anthony Czarnecki, custodian of the building.

The Superior Sandblasting and Waterproofing company of Rochester, N. Y., was awarded the contract with a low bid of $11,100, the next low bid being $25,000. According to federal officials the bonding company has a choice of forfeiting the $5,600 bond or finishing the work itself, including the replacing of the ruined windows.

Order Seizure of Churches in Vera Cruz

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The legislature of the state of Vera Cruz late tonight approved a decree declaring all Catholic priests had lost their citizenship rights and empowering the governor immediately to take over all Catholic church property and convert it to other uses.

Vera Cruz put into effect last summer a law limiting the number of priests to one to each 100,000 inhabitants, the strictest limitation in Mexico. Most of the priests withdrew from the state when that law went into effect.

Sift Archbishop's Acts.

As an aftermath of the expulsion from Mexico of Archbishop Leopold Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate, senators and deputies belonging to the National Revolutionary party decided today to investigate Archbishop Pascal Diaz.

They will seek to determine whether he is performing religious functions and whether he is qualified to do so by being registered under the ecclesiastical laws.

To Investigate Further.

The caucus of the party, which is the dominant political party, also decided to conduct an investigation to determine whether the federal district regulatory law is being enforced. This law limits to 26 the number of churches in the Mexico City area and permits only 26 priests to function.

Kidnaped by Bandit Gang, Cashier Reports to Police

Robert Montgomery, 5108 West 13th street, Cicero, a cashier for the Daily Racing Form Publishing company, reported to the police early today that he had been kidnaped by five men who tried to force him to tell the combination of the safe in the company offices at 441 Plymouth court. He gave them figures, but they were wrong. While one man kept guard over him the others went to the office and, failing to open the safe, then ordered him to get the contents and bring them to a rendezvous on the west side. Instead Montgomery went to the police. The kidnaping occurred a few blocks from his home.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The terms "fruit cocktail" and "fruit punch," used to designate drinks taken before meals, create a wrong attitude in the minds of Canadian youth, the Ontario branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance union decided today. The convention of the union recommended that its members refer to such concoctions as "tomato appetizers," "fruit cups," or "fruit nectar."

Mussolini Pays Fine for Faulty Rifle Etiquette

ROME, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini smilingly paid a fine of five lire [about 26 cents] today after he had made an almost perfect score at the national rifle tournament. He fired 24 times, each shot hitting the target and 12 clipping the bullseye. But as he turned from firing he failed to open the breech block of the rifle and Secretary Battistoni said: "I am sorry, your excellency, but you are fined five lire."

Governor's Veto Beaten; Alabama Drinks Near Beer

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Alabama, driest state in the Union, became semi-wet tonight. The bill legalizing the sale of near beer passed by the legislature, vetoed by Gov. B. M. Miller, was passed today by both houses over his veto. Half an hour afterward near beer began pouring into the state from New Orleans. It was the hardest blow the drys received in this state since 1909.

PUT IN CANADIAN JAIL; HUNT SAMUEL IN LISBON

BULLETIN.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lisbon police announced tonight they had received instructions to search for and arrest Samuel Insull, who, they had been informed, had left Paris en route to Portugal.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—It was believed to have been definitely established tonight that Samuel Insull, deposed utility magnate now under indictment in Chicago, has departed from Paris. The information about the departure came from the management of the hotel where Insull and his wife were living when their son, Samuel Insull Jr., arrived from Chicago. Insull and his son have not been seen since they left the hotel yesterday.

It was also learned that Insull's new address is known to his wife, for the manager of the hotel pleaded vainly with her to wire her husband for authorization to make a statement to the press so that the force of newspaper men besieging the hotel would be called off. Whether the missing financier still is in France or whether he has gone to some country where no extradition treaty with the United States exists could not be learned.

Neither Expected Back.

THE TRIBUNE was informed that neither Insull nor his son is expected back at the hotel. According to information furnished by the hotel, Mr. Insull's and young Insull's rooms were emptied of their belongings this morning and prepared for a new tenant. Hotel employes, however, insist that all baggage of the whole family remains in Mrs. Insull's room.

Mrs. Insull did not descend from her room all day and refused to answer any telephone communications or receive visitors. She was described as not manifesting the slightest signs of worry over her husband and son and there is every reason to believe that their departure was assisted by her.

Stimson to Ask Arrest.

That the departure was timed just right to elude arrest by French police was proved tonight when dispatches from America revealed that Secretary of State Stimson was expected to ask the French government for Insull's arrest tomorrow. That Samuel Insull will actually be jailed when and if found is considered doubtful, but police will keep him under close surveillance while the French courts are considering the extradition demand.

While the search for the Insulls was going on steps were taken here in an effort to recover Samuel Insull's assets in Europe for the benefit of European investors. A committee is being formed to hunt for these assets and start legal action to attach them. Large amounts of Insull securities were sold in Europe, according to the organizers of the committee.

London Search Fails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Rumors from Paris late Thursday night that Samuel Insull and his son might have left for London could not be substantiated by THE TRIBUNE'S investigations today. A search of London hotels and inquiries at airports and ship offices throughout the day failed to elicit information that the Insulls had arrived by any of the usual routes.

Extradition Hearing in Ontario Set for October 14.

BY HAL FOUST.

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Martin J. Insull, former president of the Middle West Utilities company, under indictment in Chicago on charges of embezzlement and larceny, tonight surrendered to Canadian authorities and was lodged in the old graystone Simcoe county jail here.

Questioners who tried to persuade him to talk about his Chicago affairs were met with the same reticence that has characterized Insull's conduct since he left Chicago in mid-June and moved to a modest boarding house in Orillia, 24 miles from here.

Refuses to Answer Questions.

"You should make some statement about the charges against you," the former utilities magnate was told shortly before the jail doors closed upon him.

"My policy has not changed," was his response.

"You are charged with embezzling large sums of money. Your silence will be interpreted unfavorably in Chicago," said one of the questioners, a Chicago newspaper man.

"My friends know that I have always been honest," replied Insull.

Preceding Insull's incarceration there had been a brief arraignment in the home of the county judge, Dudley Holmes. The judge, after reading the provisional warrant, commanding his arrest, set a hearing on the extradition of Insull to Chicago for Oct. 14 and then gave the formal order of imprisonment.

Prosecutor Gets Warrant.

The king's justice had moved swiftly in the case during the day. Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton of Chicago, who arrived in Toronto by airplane yesterday, obtained the provisional warrant from a Supreme court justice in the afternoon and then hurried here.

He placed the writ in the hands of James Putman, inspector of provincial police, and requested that it be served at once. There had been rumors that Insull had left his Orillia retreat and might have fled to a new refuge. But these fears were quieted when it was learned the former Chicagoan and his wife had merely gone for a farewell automobile ride.

Gives up to Police.

Inspector Putman promised that Insull would be apprehended during the evening. About 9:40 p. m. a car drew up before the police headquarters and the driver was sent in to inform Mr. Putman and Prosecutor Hampton that Insull had come to be locked up.

With the one time head of a billion dollar utility holding company were three attorneys, J. C. McGruer and S. S. Mills of Toronto and Ely Aaron of Chicago. Assistant State's Attorney Hampton and Inspector Putman walked through rain that was mixed with sleet to join them at the curb and the trip to the judge's home followed.

Shakes Hands with Prosecutor.

In the judge's living room Insull, who had chided Prosecutor Hampton for interrupting his sleep the night before, when he urged him to surrender voluntarily, made a gesture of peace. He shook hands with the man who had brought about his arrest.

"I hope you get some sleep tonight, young man," he remarked.

Mr. Hampton, who had not ceased work long enough to nap for 24 hours, said he thought he would.

The formality of arraignment finished, the prisoner, his counsel and the inspector drove to the jail at the north edge of the town. Insull's soft hat was pulled low over his eyes and the collar of his brown overcoat was turned high, as he stepped from the car and walked the few steps into the county prison—they spell it gaol here.

Prisoner Enters Jail.

As the portal swung open to receive him he took off his hat and his gray hair was rumpled by the wind. He staggered a little and steadied himself with a hand against the jamb. In a few minutes he was just No. 23 on the jail records. No one was allowed to follow him inside except his attorneys.

The jail, medieval in outward aspect, has few conveniences within. It was reported Insull was placed on the second floor tier of cells. These have no windows. There is no running water and the furnishings of the cells consist of a night stand and a cot with a thin mattress.

Moreover, the jail regulations provent smoking or the striking of matches. Insull, an inveterate pipe smoker, probably will suffer from this rule, it was said.

It was disclosed that William H. Barker of Highland Park, an old friend of Insull, who went to Orillia Wednesday to visit him, accompanied him to Barrie and left town only after the doors had been locked upon the former utility magnate.

Lawyers Silent on Plans.

No application for bail was made tonight, it was reported, and the Insull attorneys declined to make any comment on their plans.

There now remains to be accomplished the slower process of obtaining the extradition warrant which alone can force the former utility company head to return to Chicago. Mr. Hampton was informed this afternoon that his chief, State's Attorney Swanson, had requested Acting Governor Fred E. Sterling of Illinois to forward the requistion to the department of state in Washington and that this had been done.

Mr. Hampton, accompanied by the two detectives from State's Attorney Swanson's office who came here with him, will fly back to Chicago in the plane tomorrow.

Warrant for Insull's Arrest.

The provisional warrant for the arrest of Insull was issued in Toronto by Justice William Alexander Logie of the Supreme court of Ontario after a hearing in his chambers in Osgood hall, the century old stone building in the provincial capital which houses the highest court of the province.

The proceedings before Justice Logie were carried out with the traditional ceremonies of a British court of justice, but the action was likewise characterized by the speed imputed to those courts. The old hall of the courts is itself a picturesque building. Although it now stands in the midst of a city of some 500,000, it still has around it the iron fence built a hundred years ago to keep the cows off the courthouse lawn.

Assistant State's Attorney Hampton was represented in the proceedings by Edward J. Bayly, K. C., a deputy attorney general of the province of Ontario. Counselor Bayly appeared in the case as a special attorney for Cook county, however, and not in his capacity as a provincial official.

Lawyers Present Contrast.

The Canadian barrister and the young Chicago prosecutor made an interesting contrast as they entered Justice Logie's chambers. Since the hearing was in chambers neither Mr. Bayly nor the justice wore the black robes and white wigs common to courts throughout the British empire. Mr. Bayly, a short, stout, and dignified man, was attired in a formal frock coat, however.

Mr. Hampton, tall and spare, the "typical" American, was attired in a plain business suit. It was not too well creased, and his eyes were red-rimmed, for he had not slept since he left Chicago by plane twenty-four hours before the hearing.

He had been on the move throughout the night, first rushing by automobile from Toronto, where the plane landed, to Orillia to rouse Martin Insull at 3 o'clock in the morning. He met with the reproaches of the indicted man for calling at that hour and with Insull's flat refusal to waive extradition and go voluntarily to Chicago. The engagement of Mr. Bayly and preparations to ask for the provisional warrant kept Mr. Hampton busy until his court appearance.

Prosecutor Kisses Bible.

In the chambers his rôle was that of a witness. He was sworn, kissing the small worn Bible which was presented to him. He then identified sworn copies of the three indictments in which the Cook county grand jury charged Martin Insull with larceny and embezzlement from the properties which made up the utilities empire of his brother Samuel.

Mr. Hampton described the crimes with which Insull is charged.

The hearing was an ex parte proceeding, in which Insull was not represented. In issuing the provisional warrant, Justice Logie made some remarks which presaged ill for the success of Insull's fight to avoid extradition. He first pointed out that it is the custom of the Canadian courts to construe the extradition treaty with the United States more liberally than they do the Canadian and provincial statutes, and that it is not their custom to allow technicalities to stand in the way of extradition of persons accused of crime.

SWANSON ACTS FOR ARREST OF SAMUEL INSULL

State Starts Extradition Wheels Moving.

Informed last night of the content of foreign dispatches indicating that Samuel Insull was suspected of having gone from his Paris retreat to Lisbon, Portugal, State's Attorney Swanson declared he would consider such a move on Insull's part "an overt act," warranting his immediate arrest.

The state's attorney said he would immediately telegraph Acting Gov. Fred E. Sterling at Springfield, notifying him of the newest developments in Samuel Insull's case and requesting him to communicate the reports to Washington.

"The reports of the last twenty-four hours that Insull had slipped away from his hotel in Paris were, of themselves, disquieting," Mr. Swanson said. "It may be that he has only changed his residence to another hotel to escape newspaper men. If it turns out that he has left Paris, I shall consider that an overt act indicating that he has put himself in the position of a fugitive from justice."

Sterling Asks U. S. Action.

Earlier in the day Mr. Sterling, acting in the absence of Gov. Emmerson, had telegraphed Secretary of State Stimson, requesting that the powers of the federal government be invoked to arrest Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin Insull, and to hold them until they can be extradited to face trial on the larceny and embezzlement charges growing out of the two billion dollar failure of the Insull utilities system. This message was sent before Samuel Insull's departure from Paris was definitely established and before word came that Martin Insull had surrendered to the authorities at Barrie, Ont., and had been placed in jail there.

Mr. Sterling's message to Secretary Stimson was as follows:

"Gov. Emmerson was requested by John A. Swanson, state's attorney of Cook county, to ask you to request the Canadian government to arrest and detain Martin Insull, who is residing at Orillia, Ont., and to request the French government to arrest and detain Samuel Insull Sr., who is residing at the Prince de Galles hotel, Paris.

"Both have been indicted in Cook county for the crimes of larceny and embezzlement and extradition papers are being prepared and will be forwarded.

Quotes Swanson's Statement.

"In answer to an inquiry by Gov. Emmerson as to what assurance would be given you that any expense involved would be met by Cook county, State's Attorney Swanson wired the following:

"'In reply to your inquiry as to what assurance I can give that expenses of the extradition of the Insull brothers will be paid by the county, please be advised that I am now conferring with the county board on the subject. I assure you that the people of Cook county will never permit two men who are charged with having swindled thousands of persons out of many millions of dollars to escape for lack of funds to pay the cost of extradition proceedings.'

"In the absence of Gov. Emmerson from the state, I am therefore respectfully asking that you request the arrest and detention of the men named."

Washington Is Silent.

The office of the secretary of state was silent last night on whether Acting Gov. Sterling's request had been received or acted upon. Washington dispatches said the state department invariably refused to comment on such cases until an arrest had been effected.

It was considered probable, however, that the department had acted immediately on Mr. Sterling's request and had cabled Paris police to hold Samuel Insull on a provisional warrant.

Such is the regular procedure in extradition cases, the dispatches explained. The formal warrant for extradition, it was pointed out, requires the signature of the President and the secretary of state, the impress of the seal of the United States, and a recital of the charges, all incorporated in a document which could not be transmitted by cable, but must be sent by steamer.

In the light of the reports that Insull might be in Portugal, it was expected that the state department would act promptly to have Insull arrested on a provisional warrant at Lisbon or at any other city where his presence might be suspected.

OFFICIALS OF R. F. C. STUDY IDEA OF LOAN TO MIDDLE WEST CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Informed today that the Irving Trust company of New York will act as intermediary for the receivers of the Middle West Utilities company in seeking a 21 million dollar loan to liquidate bank debts contracted by the National Electric Power company, bankrupt Middle West subsidiary, officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation declared that the Irving Trust as a banking institution is clearly eligible for a loan from the federal agency.

It was pointed out, however, that in granting loans to banks the board of directors of the finance corporation considers the purpose for which the loan is sought. In view of the fact that the R. F. C. act does not permit loans directly to public utilities it was said that the legal department of the corporation may disapprove granting the receivers' request even indirectly through the Irving Trust company.

Officials of the corporation said they have had no formal notification of the intention of the Middle West receivers with regard to the proposed loan. No application for such an advance has been received here, it was said, nor has word come from Chicago that the application has been filed at the corporation's branch there.

Gardner Cowles, a member of the corporation's board of directors, said the Middle West application, if it is received, would be placed in the hands of the legal department, where it will remain until experts of the corporation have had an opportunity to study it.

$50,000 BOND SET FOR GLAESER IN $500,000 FRAUDS

Attorney Charles F. Glaeser, who made a voluntary confession on Monday that he had defrauded clients of $500,000 in fraudulent mortgage deals, was charged with forgery yesterday in the Felony court. Judge Frank M. Padden fixed bond of $50,000 and continued the case until Oct. 21.

Mrs. Marie Heinrich, 2607 Blaine place, testified the signature of a John Smith on a $1,000 mortgage note she purchased from Glaeser on Aug. 25, 1931, was a forgery. She identified nine other forged mortgages and said her total loss was $28,500.

Glaeser asked that a bond of $25,000 be set in order that he might be released to try to obtain assets to repay some of the losses. Judge Padden said he might reduce the bond shortly if the prosecution agrees.

Ray Baker's Brother Heads College in Massachusetts

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The trustees of Massachusetts State college today elected Dean Hugh P. Baker of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracute university president of the college. He succeeds Roescoe V. Thatcher, who resigned Sept. 1 because of ill health. President Baker is a native of St. Croix Falls, Wis. He is a brother of Ray Stannard Baker of Amherst, biographer of President Wilson. Baker will assume office about Feb. 1, 1933.

Blast and Fire Destroy Garage; Woman Burned

Mrs. A. R. Resta, 30 years old, was seriously burned early today when an explosion, followed by a swiftly spreading fire, occurred in a garage conducted by her husband on Aptakisic road, three miles north of Wheeling. Three automobiles and a motorcycle in the place were destroyed. Mrs. Resta, who was asleep in the garage at the time, was carried out by her husband.

19 Year Old Mother Held to Jury on Robbery Charge

Mrs. Rita Bennett, 19 year old mother of a year old baby, waived examination yesterday and was held to the grand jury in bond of $5,000 by Judge J. William Brooks on a charge of robbery. She admitted holding a revolver while two men companions robbed the Gaide Clothing store, 6222 South Halsted street.

INSULL HOLDING CO.'S HOLDINGS IN CANADA LISTED

The Middle West Utilities company, holding concern for the Insull utilities system, has extensive interest in the Canadian province of Ontario, from which Cook county authorities are trying to extradite Martin Insull, former president of Middle West, to face trial in Chicago on charges of larceny and embezzlement. Middle West also has large holdings in the province of Manitoba.

The Insull Canadian interests are controlled by the Middle West Utilities company of Canada, Ltd., a subholding company launched by Martin Insull in March, 1930, with a capitalization of $6,600,000. In the city of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Middle West operates the Great Lakes Power company, which sells power at wholesale to the city itself, and supplies power under contract to the Abitibi Paper and Power company and other industrial concerns.

In the city of Winnipeg, Man., Middle West of Canada controls the National Utilities corporation, Northern Public Service compoeration, and Winnipeg Heating company, all situated in or adjacent to Winnipeg. Hundreds of Canadian investors are said to have money in Middle West of Canada. A son of J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, is reported to be an official of the Insull companies in Winnipeg.

IOWA SUSPENDS HALSEY-STUART COMPANY PERMIT

The permit of Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment house, to operate in Iowa was suspended yesterday by Charles Fischer, Iowa state securities commissioner. The action followed the indictment of Harold L. Stuart, president of the company, and five other officials in New York and Chicago by a federal grand jury at Milwaukee charging use of the mails to defraud.

The company will be given a hearing on Oct. 18 at Des Moines to determine whether the suspension shall be made permanent, Fischer announced.

Stuart and the other officials, who surrendered and gave bond in Chicago on Wednesday, are to be arraigned in Milwaukee next month. They are charged with selling $2,500,000 in gold debentures of the Wardman Realty Construction company with knowledge that the debentures were worthless.

500 INVESTORS HELP SWANSON IN INSULL QUIZ

Five hundred Insull investors crowded into the library at the Criminal court building last night at a mass-meeting called by State's Attorney Swanson.

The prosecutor explained that his purpose in calling the meeting was to lay the foundation for new indictments naming not only Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, already indicted on charges of larceny and embezzlement, but naming lesser officials of the Insull organization with the brothers on charges of conspiracy to violate the blue sky law.

With the aid of Mr. Swanson's assistants, each investor filled out a questionnaire setting forth the circumstances under which he or she had purchased Insull securities, stating the price paid; the representations made and the dividends received. Nearly a fourth of those attending the meeting were women.

Tells of His Difficulties.

At the outset Mr. Swanson set forth some of the difficulties he has encountered with the county board in securing a $10,000 appropriation to cover the expenses of returning the Insulls to this country for trial.

"The county board is in bad shape financially, but the condition of the state's attorney's office in this respect is worse," he said. "The trials of the Bains and other bankers and the successful prosecution of the former city sealer, Dan Serritella, has exhausted my contingency fund.

"If I were one of the Insull brothers and conscious of innocence I would return voluntarily to face my accusers. From present indications the Insulls intend to do otherwise. The county board seems to regard the matter as trivial, but the fact is that we have uncovered in the Insull case one of the most amazing and intricate swindles in history. I do not believe the people of Cook county will permit the county board to hamper this investigation."

At the conclusion of the prosecutor's address Charles F. Lorenzen, 920 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, who said he had lost his savings of $15,000 in Insull securities, offered a resolution supporting Mr. Swanson's position and demanding a $10,000 appropriation by the county board.

Carries Fight to Jury.

Earlier in the day Mr. Swanson went before the grand jury that returned the Insull indictments in his fight to compel the county board to grant him the additional appropriation. His appearance before the jurors was made at the request of their foreman, Thomas F. Kinsella.

Mr. Swanson was reported to have given the jury an accounting of the manner in which he had spent his special contingency fund, which fund the county board has refused to replenish on the ground that the county budget has been passed and cannot legally be amended.

In obvious sympathy with Mr. Swanson's position, Foreman Kinsella requested subpoenas to summon to the jury chamber at once Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, and Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the board's finance committee.

A search of the county building and numerous telephone calls failed to reach either Whealan or Kavanagh. Later in the day, following adjournment of a county board meeting, the two county commissioners learned of Foreman Kinsella's summons and promised to be in the juryroom at 10 o'clock this morning.

Board to Consider Plea.

Shortly before 6 p. m., Mr. Whealan issued a statement, charging the prosecutor with making a "political football" of the county board, and promising to consider the state's attorney's request for a $10,000 appropriation for the Insull inquiry at a special board meeting at 4 p. m. today. Before the board meeting the commissioners will hold an executive session to enable Mr. Swanson to reiterate his demands. Mr. Swanson has pointed out that only a few days ago the county board appropriated $9,000 at Judge Harry Fisher's behest for a special grand jury not in session.

Mr. Whealan opened his statement with an assertion that the state's attorney had never requested a $10,000 appropriation, claiming rather that the demand was for $50,000 for a general bank and Insull investigation.

"I am calling the meetings tomorrow to show the people that this board is not trying to embarrass the state's attorney in any way," Mr. Whealan said. "The state's attorney's misstatements are so glaring that it is apparent there is an attempt to put the Democratic county board in a bad position. I don't intend he shall make a political football of us."

ASSAIL MYERS FOR REPLY ON TEACHERS' PAY

President L. E. Myers' explanation to the teachers of why the school board tax anticipation warrants have gone begging was termed "a little less than candid" yesterday by C. L. Vestal, president of the Men Teachers' union.

"First," said Mr. Vestal, "we asked why the citizens' committee had not seen fit to fulfill its promise to the board of education to put on a drive to induce payment of taxes and do whatever else it could to bring financial relief to the schools. For answer Mr. Myers refers us to the committee itself.

"Second, why did not the banks care to buy board of education warrants? As to this question Mr. Myers' reply would, on superficial view, seem sufficient. To those who know the history of the situation his reply must seem a little less than candid because it is not so long ago that the banks were willing to take city corporate warrants, but were not willing to take board of education warrants, although the taxes for paying both were in the same tax bill to the citizens. Mr. Myers does not touch that point."

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, today declared she "will go back to Hawaii if any attempt is made to whitewash" her four alleged attackers.

Mrs. Massie is now residing in an apartment in Lansdowne, a suburb of Philadelphia. Her husband is attached to the U. S. S. New Mexico, which is undergoing modernization at the Philadelphia navy yard.

It has been intimated that a second trial of the four alleged attackers might not be held.

"I am fighting now for my good name," said Mrs. Massie.

MRS. INSULL JR. ADMITS HEARING FROM HUSBAND

Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., in her home at 1242 Lake Shore drive, said yesterday that she had heard from her husband on Wednesday. Mr. Insull and his father were reported missing that morning from their hotel in Paris.

According to Mrs. Insull the message was of a personal nature and she could not discuss it. She also refused to discuss her husband's present plans or his whereabouts, stating that he would issue a statement when one was to be made.

HOLLYWOOD HAS DRAMA OF HIGH AND LOW POLITICS

Story of Lofty Ambition, Poverty and Reward.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Hollywood's newest all-talkie big-time drama of vaulting ambition, devotion, high and low politics, riches, poverty and reward of the deserving begins with a scene in a tailor shop. A starry eyed Jewish youth, the tailor's apprentice, is pressing a pair of pants—yes, pants. He dreamily moves the goose to and fro—so dreamily, in fact, that the pants catch afire and in the ascending smoke the movie art depicts that of which the youth is dreaming: the White House.

Our hero, the dreamy pants presser, it turns out, is none other than Louis Mayer, whom destiny had early marked for fame. Years pass and we next behold our hero a magnate of the moving picture world, wafting his scepter over a mimic empire, surrounded by lovely ladies, ministered to by processions of footmen and otherwise lapped in that luxury which either the movies have copied from real life or real life has derived from the movies.

At Last "In" White House.

More years pass and we again glimpse the great man of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, sitting in political conferences, showing old line politicians how to dramatize a candidacy, financing drives for Hoover with film made millions and at last in an unforgettable long shot we behold our hero entering the White House—a guest of Hoover.

The scene ends with a closeup showing the erstwhile tailor's apprentice sinking to slumber in an early Victorian bed once occupied by Andrew Johnson, the tailor President. And in a fadeout we see again the smoke ascending from the scorching pants in which is limned the White House. The dream had come true.

Now, going back some years, we view the progress upward of another lad—none other than Mark L. Requa of San Francisco. We see him planning with Herbert Hoover, mining engineer, the acquisition of vast California oil properties of great promise. When next we see them Requa is an oil millionaire, Hoover is President, and Requa is the oil ambassador at the Hoover court. The Requa diplomacy aims at the creation of a Sherman law oil trust—all perfectly legal, of course—to conserve the supply and boost the price paid the producer without raising the cost to the consumer—very much.

Weeps for Sherman Act.

With the aid of another Californian, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Requa succeeds—not entirely, but measurably. Whereat, in a historical fadeout, we observe great glycerine tears rolling down the cheeks of Senator William Edgar Borah, who weeps for the Sherman act trampled under foot by the guardians of the law themselves.

Requa, who had long been a star boarder at the White House when Mayer arrived, now reaches the pinnacle of his career. By favor of Hoover he is made Republican national committeeman for California and delegated to carry the state for the reelection of the President.

But what does he find when he squares away at his task? Utter political chaos. The Republican organization is shot to pieces. Hoover has given the patronage of three and a half years to mining friends, to food administration associates, to welfare workers—in short, to everybody except the politicians who deliver the votes on election day. In revolt against Hoover are most of the politicians, including William H. Fowler, chairman of the Republican central committee of Los Angeles county, which casts 55 per cent of the state's vote.

Also in revolt or apathetic are the great business interests of the state, which are in the dumps over the depression and either unable or unwilling to come across with the customary campaign contributions. It looks blue for Hoover in his home state. What to do?

High Powered Action.

We now get a closeup of National Committeeman Requa in action. We see him whisked here and there in the high powered car with which the movies have made us familiar. We see him dashing in and out of tall buildings, disappearing into elevators, crashing into directors' meetings, reading the riot act to fat, complacent merchants, bankers, oil magnates, public utility potentates, railroad monarchs, citrus fruit satraps and other barons of big business, demanding of all and sundry whether they are willing to let this country "go to hell in a back" for want of the funds to reelect Herbert Hoover.

Then he calls on the capitalists to put aside their private business in September and October and devote themselves to the business of reelecting Hoover, adjuring them to send forth their employes to win votes for Hoover on the ground that the election of Roosevelt would mean less business and less employment.

Next Mr. Requa turns to his fellow star boarder of the White House, Mr. Mayer, who, if Roosevelt is elected, will be compelled to stop at a hotel when he goes to Washington about the prosecution of the motion picture trust and other business. Mr. Mayer has millions of his own which he liberally distributes and an uncanny faculty of inducing other powers of the Hollywood realm to shell out millions for this and that cause.

Mr. Mayer shells out and brings home the bacon from the other Hollywood studios and is rewarded by election to the position of Republican state chairman, in place of Mr. Fowler, resigned. The interests assaulted by Mr. Requa himself shell out and altogether a fund is amassed that would make any politician's mouth water in this year of poor pickings.

We now are given a glimpse behind the scenes of Chairman Mayer's political masterpiece in production. You will not see any such campaign activity in the country, not even at the national headquarters at the Palmer house. The California state committee occupies an entire ground floor.

Organized Activities.

Then stretching down a long corridor one sees the signboards denoting other organized activities: The Citizens' Hoover committee, the radio division, the speakers bureau, the organization division, the women's division, the publicity division with scenario writers busily beating out on typewriters the cantos of the saga of carrying California for Hoover.

Many are the movie stars that have enlisted to do their bit for Hoover, among them Ethel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Conrad Nagel and Wallace Beery.

Envious Democrats Enter.

Casting envious eyes upon Mr. Mayer and the Mayer millions working for Hoover, the Democrats have enlisted the Warner Brothers' support of Gov. Roosevelt. Also championing the Democratic candidacy are Marion Davies and numerous other stars. Gov. Roosevelt while here a fortnight ago was the guest of honor at the present given jointly for the motion pictures actors' relief fund and the Marion Davies hospital at which Miss Davies appeared with W. R. Hearst, chief journalistic supporter of the Democratic candidate.

Thus flows Hollywood's political drama to a final curtain on Nov. 8 and a meal ticket for one side or the other at the White House from March 4 next.

TEXT OF CANADIAN WARRANT FOR ARREST OF MARTIN J. INSULL

The warrant for the arrest of Martin J. Insull, issued yesterday at Toronto, Ont., by Justice W. A. Logie of the Ontario Supreme court, read as follows:

"Whereas, it has been shown to the undersigned, as judge under the extradition act, that Martin J. Insull, late of the city of Chicago, in the state of Illinois, one of the United States of America, is accused of the crime of theft of the sum of $344,720, the property of the Middle West Utilities company; $66,000, the property of the Middle West Utilities company, and the sum of $104,222, the property of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, between the 15th day of October, 1931, and the 16th day of February, 1932, in the county of Cook, state of Illinois, within the jurisdiction of the said United States of America;

"I, therefore, do command you, in his majesty's name, forthwith to apprehend the said Martin J. Insull and bring him before me or some other judge under the said act, to be dealt with according to law, for which this shall be your warrant."

TOO LITTLE FOOD MAKES JOE DULL BOY IN SCHOOL

Gifts for Lunches Needed to Protect Health.

In Fulton school, 53d and South Hermitage avenue, teachers have detected a general decline this fall in mental and physical vigor in many of their pupils. The cause, they say, is inadequate food.

No free lunches of hot soup, thick with meat and vegetables are available this year. There is no money to buy the food, the principal, William R. Bowlin, said yesterday.

Last year the Hungry School Children's fund helped to feed 180 children in Fulton school. The teachers gave additional money, a part of which was lost in a bank failure. An effort is now being made to make up the deficit through the sale of "hot dogs" at recess, to older pupils able to buy them.

Lose Desire for Play.

"The food the children get at home sustains life but it is inadequate for their growing needs," Mr. Bowlin said. "The teachers come to me with complaints that the children aren't doing well in their studies. They seem sleepy and want to rest their heads on their desks. At recess they don't feel like going out to play. More than one teacher has said to me:

"'I don't know what to do with little Joe. I can't seem to wake him up. I guess it's just because he's hungry.'

"These children need supplementary food at school. They need fresh milk and fresh meat and the vegetables they get in soup. If they don't get these foods their health may suffer in years to come. They will be malnourished and underweight.

"It is heart breaking to watch the children at recess look longingly at their favorite luxury, a 'hot dog.' I saw several ragged children watching the more fortunate ones eating them the other day. They seemed so hungry and wistful. I reached down in my pocket for several nickels and fed the lot of them. They had a real feast."

Grateful to Fund's Friends.

"We were very grateful for what the Hungry School Children's fund did for us last year," Mr. Bowlin added. "We can only wait and hope that the fund will help us this year. We know that we cannot serve free lunches ourselves. If help comes it will be a Godsend to our pupils."

Throughout Chicago are many such schools "waiting and hoping" that some of the Hungry School Children's fund will come their way. Less than $700 is in the fund. That can't last long, or go very far.

The contributions yesterday totaled $116.50 and were headed by a gift of $31.50 from "a few Chicago Cub fans."

"We read with interest the article on the first page of yesterday morning's TRIBUNE about the campaign for contributions for the Hungry School Children's fund," they wrote. "We wish you the fullest measure of success in this worthy cause."

Pledge Regular Gifts.

Another contributor was A. A. Paddon, who visited The Tribune Tower to leave his gift. Among those who pledged weekly or monthly contributions were Mrs. H. J. Millhauser, Mrs. Katherine F. Reder, and Ruth Boas, "when possible."

The contributions came from the following:

$10.50—W. E. Perkins; E. S. Lindquist; Mrs. Joseph Holzheimer; Mrs. C. H. Judd.

$5.00—E. J. Hufford; A. A. Paddon; Mrs. H. J. Millhauser; H. R. Chittenden; J. B. Noelle; Mrs. Ruby C. Dehler; A. Friend; H. R. Fertig.

Grigsby-Grunow Co. Wins Suit; Awarded $74,000

Newark, N. J., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Grigsby-Grunow company, Inc., of Chicago, was awarded $74,000 by a jury today in its suit against the North Ward Radio company, Inc., of Newark. The plaintiff sought $100,000, the amount it charged was due for merchandise sold and delivered the defendants. B. J. Grigsby, president and chairman of the board of the plaintiff company, attended the trial but returned to Chicago before the verdict. The jury deliberated five hours.

CONVICTS TELL JURY OF DEATH IN "SWEATBOX"

Testify Former Guards Made Threats.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Fellow convicts in black and white stripes told a jury today of threats by two former guards against young Arthur Maillefert, who was strangled to death in a prison sweat box last June, and of their disregard of warnings that he would never come out of the box alive.

Solomon Higginbotham, charged with murdering Maillefert, a Westfield, N. J., youth serving nine years for a filling station robbery, was quoted as saying he would "rather kill Maillefert than eat."

At another time he was alleged to have said he would have shot the youth during one of his breaks for freedom, but was prevented.

Tells of Placing Chain.

George Courson, former captain at the camp, placed around the youth's neck the chain with which the state charges he was strangled, it was testified, and said he would keep Maillefert in the sweat box "until Christmas—if he ain't dead."

"Ain't that chain too tight?" another convict was quoted as asking Courson.

Upon the captain's negative reply, it was testified, the prisoner told him Maillefert "won't be alive in the morning," but Courson paid no heed.

"The chain ain't tight enough—he can still drink water," Higginbotham was quoted as saying after a fellow convict had given Maillefert a drink in the sweat box.

45-Year Man Witness.

The testimony was given by William Roberts, serving 45 years for robbery, and Cleo Drew, serving his third prison term. Each testified to part of the remarks alleged to have been made by Courson and Higginbotham.

Both told the jury Maillefert was weak and hungry when he was placed in the sweat box, his feet in stocks and the chain from his neck to a rafter overhead.

Roberts said he did not see Maillefert fed at all while he was in solitary confinement from June 1 to June 3, when he was found dead in the box.

"Captain, it's done," Roberts quoted a trusty as telling Courson when Maillefert was found slumped against the chain.

Dead When Taken Out.

When the prisoner was taken out of the box he was dead.

The chain and stocks in which the body was confined were introduced in evidence. The convict witnesses used them in demonstrations of the position of the body.

Mrs. Julia Maillefert, mother of the dead youth, cringed as the instruments were first brought into the courtroom. She all but collapsed as the witnesses showed the jury how her son's body hung.

Along with the chain and stocks the state introduced a barrel in which Maillefert had been confined the day before his death, nude and with only his legs and head protruding from each end. He gnawed his way out of the barrel and fled, only to be recaptured and placed in the sweat box.

Spends Night in Barrel.

The night before, Roberts said, Maillefert had spent the night in the barrel inside the sweat box, but on June 2 was allowed to walk around the grounds in the barrel.

Maillefert's confinement in the barrel began, Drew said, on June 1 when he complained of feeling too ill to work and was sent back from a road working party to the camp.

Drew placed the stocks on his legs and demonstrated for the defense the position of Maillefert's body when the door of the sweat box was opened to reveal the youth dead.

BANDIT KILLED AND 2 ARE SHOT; HOLDUP FOILED

Tear Gas Drives Robbers from Iowa Bank.

BULLETIN.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The car stolen by the two bandits who eluded Davenport police today following the attempted holdup of the Northwest Home Savings Bank and Trust company there was wrecked in a collision near Dubuque late tonight. The two occupants fled.

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Within two hours after an attempted holdup of the Northwest Savings bank was foiled this afternoon one bandit was slain by peace officers, another was twice wounded, a city policeman was shot in the arm, and three bandits were being pursued by authorities in automobiles and an airplane.

Papers in the pockets of the dead bandit identified him as Ned W. Hills, 32, of Gary, Ind. The wounded bandit, at a Davenport hospital, gave his name as James Russell, but he refused to tell his place of residence.

Tear Gas Routs Bandits.

The five bandits, all displaying guns, entered the bank just at closing time and ordered the employés to hold up their hands. The bank was held up several months ago and $20,000 taken, and since that time employés have been on their guard. Herbert Langfeldt, assistant cashier, when menaced by a bandit's gun, dropped to the floor and pressed a button releasing tear gas. At the same time he shouted "Duck."

Gus Reinhold, a mechanic working on the door of the vault, also dropped, and as he did, a bullet, fired by one of the would-be robbers, whizzed by his head and caromed off the steel door. The bandits fled, cursing and gasping as the gas spread. No money was obtained.

Fugitives' Auto Wrecked.

The bandits' car went into the ditch three miles from the city and the bandits scurried into a cornfield which was surrounded by officers and citizens.

After a short gun battle three of the bandits broke through the cordon, raced down a road, halted Owen Mosier of Davenport, who drove up, took his car away from him and kidnaped as a hostage Raymond Peterson, son of the farmer in whose field they hid.

HILLS ARRESTED IN GARY.

Hills was arrested last April in Gary, charged with the kidnaping of Nick Bikos, owner of the Roosevelt theater there, while Bikos was having trouble with the motion picture operators' union. Bikos withdrew his identification of Hills and four other suspects after the labor dispute was settled. Hills also was sought as a parole violator from the Illinois reformatory at Pontiac, Gary police said. Recently he had lived with his brother, Richard, at 1300 West 5th avenue, Gary.

HARRIS MYSTERY SUIT IS DUE FOR EARLY HEARING

The $300,000 mystery damage suit against Norman W. Harris, son of the chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, is due for an early hearing in court. This was the announcement yesterday of Attorney Lloyd Whitman who represents James G. Clark of Mount Kisco, N. Y., the complainant in the action. Attorney Whitman has taken the place of Attorney Thomas Hart Fisher, who withdrew from the case.

The suit was filed in the Circuit court last spring. The declaration alleged that Harris had promised to pay $500 a month to Clark during the latter's lifetime "for a certain chattel." The declaration said that the contract was signed on Aug. 4, 1931, and payments made under it until the month of February this year when they ceased. In a brief answer Harris' attorney, John M. Martineau of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, asserted that his client had entered into no such contract.

Attorney Whitman said that he would appear soon before Judge John R. Caverly to whom the case has been assigned to demand an immediate trial. Questions put to him concerning the nature of the suit elicted no information. An investigation has disclosed that Clark formerly was a student at the University of Wisconsin. He was divorced by Mrs. Dorothy Funk Clark, formerly of Des Moines, Ia., in Reno, Nev., last fall. Clark was given the custody of his two children by the court.

U. S. ACTS TO END CENSORSHIP OF PRESS MESSAGES

MADRID, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Robert Pell, press attaché of the league of nations, arrived in Madrid today to assist the American delegation to the international telegraphic conference.

Particularly, Mr. Pell is to take part in consideration of censorship and other press matters. The censorship question probably will be discussed in committee within the next few days.

American representatives are considering proposals to abolish censorship if possible, and, if not, to put through regulations protecting the sender, such as obligatory notification that his messages have been held up or must be revised.

RIOT AT RELIEF STATION; RED IS SLAIN BY POLICE

Two Detectives Beaten by Crowd; 6 Held.

Two detectives were dragged from a squad car by a group of communist agitators during a demonstration in front of the relief station at 1701 String street yesterday morning. The agitators beat the policemen with iron pipes and bricks. Detective John Touhy, his back against a freight house wall, pulled out his revolver and fired three times into the crowd, fatally wounding one of the assailants.

The wounded agitator was identified at the Bridewell hospital as Joseph Sbosab, 39 years old. He died soon after he reached the hospital. An address found on papers in his pocket, 12048 Emerald avenue, was not his home, and police are seeking his relatives. Six other leaders of the mob, estimated at about 300 persons, were arrested and held at the Maxwell street station.

Brick Opens Hostilities.

Answering a riot call from the relief station, Detectives Touhy and Fried were the first police to arrive at the scene, they said. Some one shouted, "Down with the police." A brick crashed through the rear window of the squad car.

"We drove through the crowd trying to break them up," Detective Touhy said. "Several men jumped on the running board and we stopped. One bunch grabbed Fried and another grabbed me. They pushed me against the freight house wall. They were kicking and pounding. I went down on my knees. I could feel one of them reaching for my gun, so I got it out and yelled for them to get back.

"Six or seven of them lunged for my gun and I let go at them." Later Touhy was treated by a neighborhood physician for a black eye and brusied ribs.

Police Shots Calm Crowd.

The three shots calmed the crowd. They fell back and police reinforcements, headed by Acting Capt. Phil Parodi of the Maxwell station and Supervising Capt. John Stege arrived. The crowd was dispersed after the six alleged leaders had been arrested. Those held gave their names as: Lawrence Mole, whose address was not learned; Tony Andruska, 66 West Van Buren street; James Jesson, 254 West Monroe street; Jesse James, Negro, 727 Barber street; Adam Nahnees, 1626 South Morgan street, and William McGill, 583 West Randolph street.

Miss Marie Vernier, manager of the String street relief station, which employs 101 persons, said such demonstrations and riots had become so common that the work of the station was not disturbed.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, was asked what caused the riot and if additional riots are to be expected because of the shortage of relief funds.

Grocery Orders Reduced.

"The commission has allocated all of its cash on hand and those allocations must last until Nov. 1," he said. "The allocations were 25 per cent less than the amount requested for Cook county. The commission was forced to make that reduction because it has no more funds. The relief agencies in Cook county were ordered to cut in half the orders for perishable groceries given to each family for this month. That means the families of unemployed will receive only one order for groceries instead of the usual two this month. Any suffering caused by that reduction probably would occur after the middle of the month."

Resolutions describing the need for relief in Cook county and calling upon the legislature to take definite action toward raising additional funds for relief were made public yesterday by the Chicago Methodist preachers' meeting and the Chicago Workers' Committee on Unemployment.

WAUKEGAN UNION AGENT INDICTED FOR TERRORISM

Otto J. Burandt, 24 South Butrick street, Waukegan, business agent of a Lake county teamsters' union, was indicted yesterday by the Lake county grand jury at Waukegan on two charges of conspiracy growing out of a bombing and several sluggings imputed to labor racketeering. According to State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county, Burandt's union is affiliated with the Chicago unions once controlled by George (Red) Barker, slain gangster and racketeer.

In one indictment Burandt and other persons, unknown to the grand jurors, are charged with bombing the garage of Cornelius Lindhout, 613 North Butrick street, Waukegan, a coal and ice dealer. Lindhout charged that Burandt threatened him after he reduced the price of ice and that the bombing followed within a few days, on Sept. 12.

A second indictment charges Burandt and two other men with slugging several teamsters in an effort to force them and their employers to drop their affiliations with a union connected with the American Federation of Labor and to join Burandt's union. The others named in this indictment are Bernard Bollman and James Farmer of Chicago. They are being sought.

75 NOBLEMEN APPLY FOR JOB IN NIGHT CLUB

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Down the steps of Will Oakland's Willow Night club, in a basement in West 51st street, traipsed today more than seventy-five representatives of noble, ancient, impoverished European families. There were one prince, twenty barons, and nine counts. There were other members of the nobility.

"They are the real McCoy in the nobility line," said Jay Faggan of the night club as he surveyed the titled men.

"A couple of nights ago Will Oakland decided that what he needed was a good, thoroughbred, all around nobleman to act as host. So he ups and puts an ad in the papers. This morning he got 100 letters and then the noblemen started arriving in person. We got a house full of them. I wish they were customers."

Several of the visitors were moneyless. All wore business suits, all carried birth certificates, army discharge papers, and other credentials.

Among the applicants are Baron Othor A. van Gunddtach, a baron listed in the Almanach de Gotha as a direct descendant of King Louis XIV., and Prince Oblensky, who said he was a member of a Russian house dating from the tenth century.

EIGHT HIGHWOOD BANKERS NAMED IN INDICTMENTS

Officials and Directors Accused of Plot.

The Lake county grand jury yesterday returned an indictment before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan, charging Lyle Gourley, president of the closed Highwood State bank of Highwood, and seven other officials and directors of the bank, with conspiracy.

Those indicted with Gourley are his father, John J. Gourley, a Highland Park coal and lumber merchant and a director of the bank; Harry Olander, vice president; John E. Engquist, cashier, and John J. Flannigan, William J. Brown, Walter E. Maierhoff, and Guy Vitti, all directors. Lyle Gourley is a city commissioner of Highland Park, and Brown is a former city commissioner there.

Bank Closed in July.

The bank closed on July 28. At the time it had liabilities of $200,000 and held $25,000 in cash. State's Attorney A. V. Smith started an investigation of the institution after he had received complaints that a number of the directors and members of their families had withdrawn large sums from the bank just before it closed.

The investigation disclosed that Olander had withdrawn $1,500 shortly before the closing, and Flannigan $5,000. The indictment charges that the officers and directors were aware that the bank was insolvent on July 27 and for some period before that, but that they continued to receive deposits and operate the bank.

Members of the grand jury asked permission of Judge Dady to present, along with the indictment, a resolution criticising State Auditor Oscar Nelson for the conduct of his office, on the ground that no examination of the bank was made by his office between October, 1931, and last July, shortly before the bank closed. Judge Dady refused to receive the resolution, holding that the grand jury's powers were confined to the presentation of indictments and no-bills.

Five Indicted as Bandits.

The grand jury also indicted five Chicagoans as the bandits who held up the Lake County State bank in North Chicago on Sept. 7, obtaining $2,017 and seriously wounding a woman bookkeeper in the bank. The bookkeeper, Mrs. Monetta Steffen, was shot in the neck and jaw, and for a time it was feared that her wounds would be fatal. The five men were charged with robbery and assault with intent to commit murder.

Four of them, Clifford Heaney, 21 years old, 1649 Juneway terrace; Joseph Beck, 19 years old, 5407 South Justine street; Frank Wagner, 19 years old, 5252 South Marshfield avenue, and Ernest Repprecht, 25 years old, 1748 West 51st street, an ex-convict, have been arrested and are in jail at Waukegan. The fifth, Charles Tisevich, 23 years old, 7010 South Campbell avenue, is still sought by police.

ESCAPE POLICE IN GUN BATTLE.

Three hoodlums escaped Sergt. Louis Starr and his Grand Crossing police squad early yesterday after a running gun battle through south side streets. The men speeded away when the squad tried to question them at Jeffery avenue and 73d street.

KING OF SWEDEN SPURNS WEDDING OF HIS GRANDSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COBURG, Bavaria, Germany, Oct. 6.—King Gustav V. of Sweden, the prince of Wales, and other nobles have refused to attend the wedding here on Oct. 20 of Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Gustav Adolph, son of the crown prince of Sweden.

It is known that Prince Leopold, father of the bride, is insisting that Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, be among the guests of honor. The groom's grandfather, the king of Sweden, accompanied his note of regret with the explanation that bad times prevent him from attending.

The crown princes and crown princesses of Sweden, Norway, and Bavaria, King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and sixty other dukes and lords apparently have no objection to meeting the Nazi chief, since they have sent notes of acceptance.

TWO TRAPPED IN TAX FIXING PLOT FREED ON BONDS

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Baleyans, false pretenses, sentenced to Bridewell for 1 year by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Samuel Moore, Hazle Dixon, larceny, sentenced to Pontiac reformatory 1 to 10 years each; Henry Fiane, possessing burglar's tools, sentenced to penitentiary 1 to 2 years; Joseph Larynisk and Herman Wagner, sentenced 1 to 2 years each, Pontiac reformatory; Claude Widenhause, larceny, sentenced 1 year in Pontiac reformatory; Joseph Yonta, larceny, sentenced to penitentiary 1 to 10 years, by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Arthur Hollamann, deputy assessor, and Patrick J. Carey, a certified public accountant of 1 North La Salle street, who were trapped Wednesday afternoon after they had promised to "fix" 1931 personal property taxes for a large piano company, were charged with conspiracy to violate the state revenue laws and falsifying assessments at the detective bureau last evening. They posted bonds and were released pending arraignment today in Felony court.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday investigated the recommendation by which Hollamann had secured his job as an extra clerk five months ago. The application showed he was recommended by one of the largest firms of public accountants in the city. Hollamann also is a public accountant with a record of 12 years employed among the largest steel companies in the east. The assessor suggested he might have been driven to the scheme when the county fell four and one-half months behind in its pay rolls.

The assessor said Hollamann's statement that he could "fix" assessments by inserting fraudulent schedules in the office records was untrue. The records, he said, are kept in triplicate by different staffs and closely checked to prevent possible fixing.

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN BOMBING OF BIG CO-OP DAIRY

Farmers Forced to Dump 8,000 Pounds of Milk.

While authorities were delving yesterday into the causes of the bombing of a $30,000 farmers' dairy plant at Burlington, Wis., earlier in the day farmers had to dump 8,000 pounds of milk which they had hauled into the destroyed plant and make immediate efforts to find another market outlet.

The bombing was done by five masked men who forced entrance to the plant of the Burlington Coöperative Pure Milk association and bound and kidnaped the night watchman, John Eisenbard. The plant was wrecked, only one wall remaining after a blast which shook the entire town. Eisenbard was released by the bombers a mile and a half from Burlington.

Motive Is Mystery.

Officials of the Burlington coöperative, as well as those of the Pure Milk association in Chicago which had financed the dairy, were unable to give a motive for the bombing. They announced that steps would be taken immediately to replace the plant, which had been operating as a coöperative dairy only since Sept. 22. It was the twelfth farmer owned milk plant in the region which supplies the Chicago market.

At the time the plant was opened, farmers of Burlington, Lyons and Kansasville, Wis., obligated themselves to pay for it by monthly deductions from their milk checks. The move resulted in depriving two independent dealers near Racine from getting milk. One of them was selling to a cut rate dairy in Chicago.

Two bomb experts from Chicago were investigating the explosion in coöperation with Burlington police. They declared the bombing was a professional job.

Christ Connor, an employé of the Walworth county highway commission, brought two empty dynamite boxes and 20 feet of fuse to the sheriff's office at Elkhorn last night. He said he had found them in a culvert on highway 36, about seven miles south of Burlington. This highway leads to Chicago. All identification marks had been removed from the boxes, one of which contained a Chicago newspaper, dated Sept. 30.

Meeting to Consider Loss.

Meanwhile Don M. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, which had supplied the Burlington farmers $30,000 to renovate the plant in September, has been summoned home from San Francisco as a result of the bombing and is scheduled to arrive this morning by airplane. A meeting of the association has been called for Oct. 18 to decide who will pay for the loss.

Attorney Edgar Cook, representing the Meadowmoor dairies, 1334 South Peoria street, which have been selling "cut rate" milk at 9 cents a quart, complained yesterday to State's Attorney Swanson that a "milk monopoly" existed in Chicago. He was advised to seek warrants in the Municipal court after charging that a "campaign of terror" had been directed against his concern.

FARM PICKETING RENEWED; HALT STOCK AND GRAIN

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 6.—(AP)—From the peaceful persuasion policy of their leaders, farmers' holiday workers near Sioux Falls, S. D., today turned to highway picketing to keep live stock and grain from reaching markets in South Dakota's largest city.

Simultaneously, an investigation was progressing in Yellow Medicine county, Minnesota, into the fatal shooting Tuesday night of Nordahl Peterson, 25, a farmer and a holiday picket.

Ole Anderson, 57, and his son, Leonard, 19, were in custody, but County Attorney S. N. Knutson said no charges would be filed until he got "at the bottom of the affair."

Pickets established outposts on thirteen principal roads into Sioux Falls and truckers, heeding a warning given them yesterday, made only a few unsuccessful attempts to go through the blockades.

Early today about forty truck loads of live stock were brought to Sioux Falls markets, compared to a normal number of 200. Pickets declared they would maintain their patrols 24 hours a day. They used cables, planks with spikes, and rubber belting to stop vehicles.

One holiday sympathizer said 2,000 men would join the picket lines before the movement was ended. Plans were abandoned by Minnehaha county officials to deputize 25 or 30 men to clear the highways after patrols on five roads had been visited.

Near Dayton, Minn., not far from Minneapolis, several trucks were stopped by pickets who carried sticks and stones, but were allowed to proceed after their drivers were warned

SANITARY BOARD 1931 TAX LEVY IS CUT 25 PER CENT

Reveals Saving as City, County Pay Salaries.

Trustees of the sanitary district yesterday reduced their 1931 tax levy, for which bills will go to taxpayers on Jan. 1, by $6,417,270. This reduction, 25.4 per cent of the original levy of $25,303,218, is the largest yet accomplished by any local government in Cook county, but the trustees made an even larger reduction in their levy for operating expenses. This was reduced from $8,000,000 to $5,000,000, a 37.5 per cent cut.

This action was taken as employés of the city and county received a two weeks' payment of their overdue salaries. The pay days were made possible by tax warrant purchases by downtown banks, after city officials had promised a reduction of approximately $4,800,000 in various tax levies for 1931.

County Blocks Increase.

The county commissioners also acted yesterday to prevent their corporate and highway fund tax levies being increased in case the 1931 assessment totals are higher than the original estimates on which the levies were passed.

The Democratic members of the sanitary board voted unanimously to reduce their tax levy. Trustee Howard W. Elmore, the sole Republican on the board, passed his vote without explanation. The original levies passed by the board on Jan. 16, and the reduced levies adopted yesterday are as follows:

Fund—	January levy.	Present levy.
Bond retirement...	$ 9,330,500	$ 8,208,500
Bond interest.....	7,972,718	5,677,453
Operating	8,000,000	5,000,000
Totals	$25,303,218	$18,885,953

The reduction of $3,417,260 in the levies for bond maturities and interest payments, it was explained, was made possible by the fact that the board has been unable to sell a large amount of the bonds which it was authorized to issue to finance the sewage disposal program demanded by the United States Supreme court in its ruling in the lake diversion case.

Result of Three Years' Work.

In January it was necessary to levy for retirement and interest payments on the full amount of these bond issues, but since not all of them have been sold it is possible now to reduce the levies. The total reductions will make possible a reduction of 15 cents on each $100 valuation on the bills of all taxpayers living within the sanitary district.

"This is not the sudden, magic result of any process of figure juggling," said President Thomas J. Bowler in explanation of the reduction. "It is, instead, the net result of three years of diligent effort on the part of the present trustees to reduce expenses in all departments of the district.

"Talking of economy amounts to nothing until it is reflected in the tax bills," added Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, who introduced the resolution.

"Encourage" Taxpayers.

"We have reached a point where we can see our way clear to a lower tax levy and it becomes our duty to pass the savings on, with whatever encouragement it may offer, to the taxpayers."

In January, at the demand of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, the sanitary district joined with other local governments in slashing its budget for 1932. The present reduction, it was indicated, was made without pressure from the citizens' committee, which has been active in urging reductions upon the city and county.

Mayor Cermak and other city officials will renew their conference today with Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, and other members of that body. While the administration leaders agreed Tuesday to other tax levy cuts, they held out against the demand of the committee for elimination of the $4,000,000 levy for the city's working cash fund. The purpose of this fund, when it has reached sufficient size over a period of years, is to make it unnecessary for the city to finance its operations by borrowing on tax anticipation warrants.

Lists Urgent Problems.

City Controller Szymczak summarized the most urgent problems of financial policy facing the city yesterday as he prepared for today's conference. As he listed them, they are:

1. Measures must be taken to provide for the retirement of 1928 and 1929 city and school board tax warrants which are still unredeemed by tax collections.

2. The city council must settle the question of the abolition of the working cash fund levy.

3. The council also must approve the proposed reductions in levies for police, firemen's and municipal employés' pension funds, which already have been approved by Mayor Cermak and trustees of the pension funds.

4. The council must decide upon the best method of financing bond interest and principal payments due on Jan. 1. The city must have $17,000,000 in cash on that date if it is to avoid default on its bonded debt.

Cermak Defends Fund.

"If the city will be obliged to borrow more because it doesn't levy for the working cash fund, then I'll stick up for retention of that levy to save the taxpayers the burden of interest payments on tax warrants," Mayor Cermak said.

County employés got half a month's pay yesterday as the county board met and ratified President Emmett Whealan's previous agreement with the citizens' committee to hold down the 1931 corporate and highway fund levies. The board passed a resolution instructing County Clerk Sweitzer to adjust tax rates so that the net proceeds of the levies, after deduction of loss and cost of collection, shall not exceed $10,080,000 for the corporate fund and $1,800,000 for the highway fund.

Some city employés also got their two weeks' pay checks for the first half of July yesterday, but not all of them will be paid off until today, or perhaps tomorrow. School employés are also to get two weeks' pay as a result of the banks' tax warrant purchases, but the process of transferring this money first to the city treasury and then to the school board will not be completed in time to pay this week, officials decided yesterday. School checks, accordingly, will probably be distributed Monday or Tuesday.

GOV. ROOSEVELT INCREASES LEAD IN DIGEST POLL

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt has increased his lead over President Hoover in the poll conducted by the Literary Digest and now holds a clear majority of about 2,000,000 votes tabulated.

Figures from 20 states, to be printed in next Saturday's issue of the magazine as the third set of returns in the national straw vote, give Mr. Roosevelt 404,992 votes out of 793,049 thus far counted. This is 50.75 per cent. The Hoover vote is recorded at 388,845, or 49.32 per cent. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, receives 6.65 per cent, and five minor candidates divide the remainder.

Of the 20 states involved, Mr. Hoover carries six, with a total of 54 votes in the electoral college. Mr. Roosevelt carries 14, with 244 electoral votes.

In New York, Gov. Roosevelt has swung into the lead after having run behind Mr. Hoover in earlier returns, and is now credited with 117,232 New York state votes to 106,708 for the President.

In California, the President's home, the returns tabulated thus far are Roosevelt, 35,873; Hoover, 16,402.

CALLS ON VOTERS TO KEEP HOOVER IN PRESIDENCY

Mrs. James W. Morrison, Republican woman leader for many years, who is a member of the speakers' bureau of the women's division of the Republican national committee, yesterday gave some reasons why she believes there should be no change in the presidency.

"We must think of all the people before our pity leads us to snatch at any remedy—plausible but untried—before we repudiate the man who in the midst of a world-wide economic hurricane has never lost his head or courage and whose wisdom and quick action have saved us from a far worse fate," Mrs. Morrisson said.

HOOVER PHRASE PUT TO WORK FOR ROOSEVELT

"In Same Boat" Made "Very Much at Sea."

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today turned a phrase of President Hoover's own choosing to indicate the President's admission that farmer, worker, and business man are "now all of them very much at sea."

Mr. Hoover's Democratic rival spoke via a radio hookup to luncheon meetings of 400 branches of the Roosevelt Business and Professional Men's league throughout the country.

Telling how he has stressed the need for bringing prosperity equally to agricultural, cattle and mining interests as essential to restoring general business prosperity, Mr. Roosevelt referred to the President's farm speech at Des Moines, saying:

"I am happy that the President in his speech on Tuesday finally has come to agree with me on this point when he says 'Every thinking citizen knows that the farmer, the worker and the business man are in the same boat, and must all come to shore together.'

"I am glad also that he thereby admits that the farmer, the worker and the business man are now all of them very much at sea."

Repeats Plea for New Deal.

Then Gov. Roosevelt launched into a discussion of economic issues, redefining his hopes for "a new deal" and emphasizing the part of public spiritedness which he thinks big business must and will play. He added:

"Business leaders now are expected to assume the responsibilities which accompany their power. It must be the policy of the government to see that they do it. A good deal can be done in this way, especially if we mobilize public opinion.

"It is a way we must honestly try. The time has come when industrial leadership must serve the public interest."

The governor spoke of effecting a "concert of interests" in charting a course across national difficulties, and of extending his policy across "north, south, east, and west—agriculture, industry, mining, commerce, and finance."

"Credit," he said, "is, of course, a necessity of business. But today we know that our recent use of credit was ungoverned and unmeasured. To reduce it to homely terms, people incurred more debts than they could safely carry. The incurrence of that debt, encouraged as it was by reckless statements from Washington, had much to do with the crash that we have experienced.

Would Avert Overexpansion.

"To prevent such a recurrence of unmeasured expansion of credit is the task of statesmanship in the next few years. This is not to say that I favor complete government control over the use of credit, but that I do propose the use of governmental assistance in bringing to the attention of producer and consumer alike such enlightened information as will enable the people to protect themselves against unwarranted and headlong plunges into excessive debt.

"It is up to the government to maintain its most sacred trust to guard the welfare of its citizens. And such a trust requires the regulation of such balance among productive processes as will tend to a stabilization of the structure of business.

"It is my hope that interference of government to bring about such a stabilization can be kept at a minimum, limiting itself perhaps to a wise dissemination of information."

Declaring that the "disproportionate income" of the farmer had a big part in throwing economic life out of balance, Gov. Roosevelt said: "It is a proper concern of the government to use such wise measures of regulation as will bring this purchasing power back to normal."

Talks of Factory Workers.

In the same vein of thought he spoke of the workers in other industries.

"We need for them," he said, "a greater assurance of security. Old age, sickness and unemployment insurance are minimal requirements in these days. But they are not enough. Whether we are thinking of the heart breaking problem of present distress and the possibility of preventing its recurrence in the future, or whether we are merely thinking about the prosperity and continuity of industry itself, we know now that some measures of regularization and planning for balance among industries and for envisaging production as a national activity must be devised."

The business men were asked by Gov. Roosevelt to accept Republican leadership as "unable to do more than put temporary patches on a leaking roof without any attempt to put a new roof on our economic structure."

The Roosevelt Business and Professional Men's league was organized for pre-convention activities. It is being continued under the general direction of Jesse Isidore Straus, president of R. H. Macy & Co. of New York.

Others to Answer Hoover.

Gov. Roosevelt touched lightly today on the Hoover farm speech, but he said that more comprehensive replies would be made during the next fortnight by former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri who will consult with Mr. Roosevelt in Albany tomorrow and by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Senator George Norris of Nebraska, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland.

MAYOR CERMAK IS ENROLLED IN ROOSEVELT CLUB

Mayor Cermak yesterday was the first to be enrolled in the drive of the Illinois division of the Roosevelt Motor club to sign up 200,000 members before the election Nov. 8. The club is sponsored by the Democratic national committee and Chicago headquarters are in the Congress hotel.

A total of 1,000,000 members, each to be given a bronze medallion for the radiator of his automobile, is the national goal.

The mayor yesterday also was enrolled as one of the Horner Minute Men, an organization of professional and business men who will campaign for Judge Henry Horner for governor. Leaders of the organization who called on Mr. Cermak to make him a Horner Minute Man were: Dr. Frank Furch, general chairman of the Minute Men; Dr. Orlando Scott, chairman of the medical unit; E. H. Blume, chairman of the business men's unit; Chester E. Lewis, chairman of the legal unit, and Dr. C. A. Field, chairman of the dental unit.

PRESIDENT MAY MAKE TWO MORE TALKS IN WEST

Appeals Are Pouring In from Leaders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover tonight had under consideration plans calling for a marked amplification of the part he will play in the final weeks of the presidential campaign. The President may decide to make two more trips into the west, one of which, coming in late October, would take him all the way across the continent to the Pacific coast.

All indications tonight were that the Republican campaign plan will be revamped to allow Candidate Hoover to make more speeches than the two now tentatively scheduled. The first speaking trip according to reports around the White House would take him into Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, and Indiana within the next two weeks. If the second vote getting expedition is decided upon Mr. Hoover would go to California via Minneapolis where he would make a final effort to swing the disgruntled farmers of that section into the Republican fold.

Appeals for More Speeches.

Immediately upon the arrival of the President at the White House this morning at the conclusion of his first invasion of the west during the campaign, telegrams began to come in from party leaders urging the Republican candidate to speak in their states. In most cases the President was told that it was imperative he get out into the field and fight for his reelection and the success of the party. In this connection the President was told, according to White House attachés, that the reception accorded his speech at Des Moines and his short talks at other points along the route demonstrated that he and he alone was able to capture the attention of the people and gain a real hearing for the Republican case.

One man who talked to the President today said that the strongest pressure was being exerted on the White House to get Mr. Hoover to make at least a half dozen more speeches. He said also that the President was all "pepped up" and highly pleased with the reaction of the crowds to his platform appearances on the way to and from Des Moines. The President was described as in a fighting mood.

Given Pledge of Support.

Other political developments of the day included a pledge of support for the President by representatives of the building trades, representing a membership of one million men. This group, headed by M. J. McDonough, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, told Mr. Hoover that he had their fullest support during the campaign.

"We told the President," Mr. McDonough said, "that his Des Moines speech was a magnificent dissertation and that we were for him. We made it clear that we were fully appreciative of what he has done in behalf of the building trades industry and in behalf generally of the men and women who toil. He has been of great help in protecting wages."

The group included John Coefield, president of the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters; Thomas E. Burke, secretary of the same association; M. F. Garrett, general organizer; John Peschi, president of the Hoisting and Operating Engineers, and Thomas Lane, representing the Bricklayers' International union. They were closeted with the President for several minutes.

Hears Colorado Is for G. O. P.

Former Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado gave further encouragement to the President by asserting that Colorado would not go Democratic. He told Mr. Hoover that Colorado had not been pleased with the address of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee. Mr. Phipps, now Republican national committeeman, said that Utah also would go Republican. He said the President's chances of carrying several of the western states were good.

"Gov. Roosevelt did not get much of a reception," said Mr. Phipps. "He refused to answer vital questions in which we are interested. The Republican party in Colorado is absolutely united. The Democratic party is not."

The President will renew his campaign for votes tomorrow afternoon when he delivers a radio address to the women of America from the cabinet room. Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, will introduce the President. On Oct. 12 President Hoover will lay the corner stone for the new Supreme court building and on Oct. 13 he speaks before the American Bar association.

An air of optimism pervaded the White House today for the first time since the Maine election. Officials close to the President expressed the opinion that the tide has turned in favor of the Republicans. Callers left stating that the President was in high spirits.

Among those sending messages were Edsel Ford, Ernest R. Graham, Chicago architect; Frank Hitchcock, William Cooper Procter, Cincinnati soap manufacturer, and Charles S. Deneen, former senator from Illinois.

RITCHIE AND WILBUR MEET IN DEBATE OCT. 17 AT NORTHWESTERN U.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—At Gov. Roosevelt's personal invitation, Gov. Ritchie of Maryland will debate the election issues and the merits of the Democratic and Republican platforms with Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, at Northwestern university on Oct. 17.

Gov. Ritchie made this known tonight after talking for some time by telephone with Gov. Roosevelt.

The debate at Northwestern university is a regularly scheduled affair every four years and marks the opening of similar debates in other colleges and universities in the west and middle west. The speeches of Gov. Ritchie and Secretary Wilbur will be broadcast to the nation.

Judge E. A. Jonas Taking Straw Vote in Courtroom

Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas yesterday set up a ballot box and began taking a straw vote of citizens, lawyers, and jurors in his courtroom in the city hall. The vote is for President, governor, United States senator and state's attorney. There was no counting of the ballots at the end of the first day. The vote will continue the rest of the week.

HOWARD SAVAGE ISSUES PLEA FOR HOOVER VOTES

Col. Howard P. Savage, chairman of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league, urged support of President Hoover and the Republican ticket in a statement released yesterday by the Illinois Republican committee headquarters.

"It has been President Hoover's lot," the statement read, "to have had to face the greatest problems and difficulties which have confronted any President since the time of Lincoln. He has demonstrated his loyalty to his party, his people and his country, by working untiringly to solve the difficult problems coming in the wake of a world-wide depression."

Speaking of the bonus, Col. Savage said: "In the final analysis, as service men knowing that the majority of our comrades favor the immediate payment of the bonus, we must depend upon the judgment of the leaders of our national government, whether they be Republican or Democratic, to see that nothing is done which might wreck the very country under whose flag we stood in an emergency."

SPURNED STORE OWNER SHOOTS GIRL AND SELF

Theodore Tikos, 40 years old, owner of a fruit store at 3956 Lawrence avenue, yesterday shot and seriously wounded Miss Christine Mermigas, 32 years old, a clerk in the Andes candy store at 3948 Lawrence avenue, and then shot himself in the head. A note written by Tikos said that he had decided to kill Miss Mermigas and himself because she had rejected his proposal of marriage. Both are in a serious condition at the Belmont hospital. Miss Mermigas was shot in the jaw.

Theater tonight ?

Theatrical season now in full swing . . . four good plays in town . . . for instance, have you seen that lovely, thrilling, new-theme performance, "The World Between"? . . . Inimitable De Wolf Hopper . . . a role displaying his genius at its greatest . . . lovely little Sally Rand, as Pierette . . . you'll want to kiss her . . . Frank Shannon as a bluff, tough, comical pirate . . . pathos, vanishing in gales of mirth . . . a Lydy parking station . . . Clark and Wacker . . . only a few minutes from the Adelphi Theater . . . our special Adelphi arrangement: Have Adelphi box office stamp your parking check and we collect from theater; no parking charge for you . . . thus $1.50 for any main floor seat . . . mezzanine, $1.50; balcony, $1 (plus tax) . . . covers your entire cost of a delightful evening you will long remember as worthwhile entertainment.

7-DAY PARKING PASSES, $3

G. O. P. PLEASED WITH REACTION TO HOOVER TALK

Wires Received Here Say Speech "Turned Tide."

The Republican National committee headquarters in the Palmer house radiated confidence yesterday as telegrams expresing the belief that President Hoover's Des Moines speech had "turned the tide" continued to come in. Republican leaders were particularly gratified by the reaction in the discontented farming regions of the middle west and southwest.

W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company of Tulsa, national committeeman from Oklahoma, declared upon his arrival at national headquarters that "enthusiastic telegrams from all points indicate that midwestern America has awakened to the necessity of reëlecting President Hoover."

Telegrams Tell of Confidence.

Some of the comments wired to Mr. Skelly were as follows:

M. L. Long, Des Moines, secretary Iowa Petroleum association—"A survey of oil industry in many points of Iowa reveals most favorable reaction to the President's wonderful address with thousands of votes gained."

Louis Block, Davenport oil man—"Tide is now making big turn to Hoover. Farmers realizing worthlessness of Roosevelt's glittering generalities."

Omer K. Benedict, vice president, First National bank, Tulsa—"Talked to Republicans and Democrats for reaction to President Hoover's speech. Consensus was that it marks the turning point of the campaign."

E. J. Smiley, secretary, Kansas Grain association—"Good reaction to President's speech."

Liked Fighting Tone.

Horace G. Hedges, business man, Wichita, Kas.—"President Hoover's speech enthusiastically received. He made votes. Republicans here like the fighting tone, and he showed a mastery of present difficult situation."

David W. Mulvane, Topeka, national committeeman from Kansas—"That was a wonderful speech the President made. It will help a great deal in the middle west."

Will R. Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, declared the Democratic campaign managers had paid high tribute to the President's speech when "they enrolled six of their foremost bean shooters in a desperate effort to offset some of its devastating effect."

Comments on Garner Defense.

"Foremost in this drawing," said Congressman Wood, "is Postoffice Jack Garner, the vice presidential candidate. He felt obliged to do something both his party and his boss have studiously refrained from doing—defend the pork barrel and pawn brokers' legislation jammed through the Democratic house of representatives."

"Don't change ladders on the way up" was the theme of an address by Silas Strawn, chairman of the Illinois finance committee of the national campaign, before 100 Republican leaders at a luncheon in the Palmer house yesterday.

"I believe that every thoughtful citizen, whether he be employer or working man, is rapidly coming to the conclusion that had it not been for the foresight and persistent efforts of President Hoover this country would be in an infinitely worse position," said Mr. Strawn.

"Everything indicates that with Roosevelt, Garner and Mr. McAdoo holding the reins of government, with Mr. Hearst doing the back seat driving, the situation would be alarming indeed."

TRY TO OUST HER

JOCELYN LEE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—(AP)—An unlawful detainer action was filed today against Jocelyn Lee, film actress, by the Citizens' National Bank and Trust company, which asserted the actress refused to move out of a home she was renting after the bank gave her notice to vacate. The bank charged it ordered Miss Lee to vacate by Sept. 20 and asked possession of property and damages of $7.50 for every day of occupancy after Sept. 20.

DEMOCRATS PLAN GREAT RALLY IN STADIUM OCT. 24

Meeting Will Open Final Cook County Drive.

The final drive of the Cook county Democrats for a large plurality for their city, county, state, and national tickets will be opened on Oct. 24, two weks before the Nov. 8 election, with a huge meeting in the Chicago Stadium, according to a statement issued yesterday from Democratic headquarters.

The party leaders are planning to fill every one of the 22,000 seats in the Stadium at this rally. Judge Henry Horner, nominee for governor; Congressman William H. Dieterich, candidate for United States senator, and Thomas J. Courtney, candidate for state's attorney, are scheduled as the principal speakers, but other state and county candidates will talk. Arrangements are being made to place some Democrats of national reputation on the program.

Other Meetings Planned.

After the Stadium gathering other meetings will be held nightly, most of them in the largest halls of the city. Instead of fatiguing the state candidates with appearances at several meetings each night, the Democratic campaign strategy is to have them talk at large meetings in which several wards will be combined.

Congressman Dieterich is scheduled to open his Chicago campaign next Monday. The week of Oct. 24 he and Judge Horner will campaign together after which the candidate for senator will make a final tour of the state, winding up at Beardstown, where he votes.

Although Judge Horner is scheduled to spend two more weeks downstate, he will be in close touch with the Chicago campaign. Next Tuesday he will meet with a number of Republicans and independents who are organizing for him and on Tuesday will attend a general gathering of all the Democratic leaders at Springfield.

Lewis to Aid Campaign.

County Chairman P. A. Nash and Mayor Cermak have received word from United States Senator Lewis that he is fully recovered from the effects of a throat operation and will be available for a series of speeches in the closing days of the campaign, both in Chicago and downstate.

Democratic leaders said yesterday that their polls of the counties in the northern part of the state are even more favorable for Judge Horner than they were before his Republican opponent and other Republican candidates invaded that section.

DIES AFTER LEAP FROM WINDOW.

On Aug. 24 Harvey Britten, 67 years old, died an iron bail around his neck and leaped from a third story window of the rooming house at 154 Loomis street. He died yesterday in the county hospital. Police were told that he had been despondent over illness.

G. O. P. CLUB OF COUNTRY TOWNS BACKS COURTNEY

Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic candidate for state's attorney, was a luncheon guest yesterday at the Brevoort hotel of the Country Towns Republican Courtney club. Many of those present, according to a statement from Courtney headquarters, were Republicans who supported State's Attorney Swanson four years ago.

Former Judge Charles M. Thomson, chairman, pointed to the record of Courtney as state senator as evidence that he is a candidate with the qualities "which we want to see in our county prosecutor," and accused State's Attorney Swanson of deserting the law abiding citizens who supported his candidacy when he was nominated and elected.

"Senator Courtney," said Mr. Thomson, "has been tried in public office and under circumstances which give us assurance of his qualifications. He has demonstrated that he is the kind of official who is ready to fight for decent government against the assaults of corrupt interests."

DEATH LAID TO HEART DISEASE.

Physicians yesterday pronounced the death of August Dehmann, 62 years old, 1357 West 13th street, who collapsed on the street Wednesday night while taking a walk to have been due to heart disease.

45,000 WOMEN'S RADIO PARTIES TO HEAR PRESIDENT

When President Hoover speaks to the women of the United States this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock over a nationwide radio hookup 45,000 radio parties, which have been organized by the Hoover forum hostesses, will be listening in. This will be the first occasion, according to Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, that a political campaign talk has been directed exclusively to the women of this country.

The forum is directed by Mrs. Silas Strawn of Chicago and has been gaining members, she said, at the rate of 3,000 a day. A total membership of 1,000,000 is the goal set by the forum directors by election day. Each forum hostess, she explained, is pledged to invite ten friends to her home to hear the broadcasts of the Republican campaign speeches.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Cook county chairman of the forum, has named Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, 209 Lake Shore drive, as co-chairman. Among others on the Cook county committee are Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Miss Naomi Donnelley, Mrs. David T. Cook, Mrs. John V. Farwell, Mrs. Anthony Czarnecki, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick.

Indict Lake County Farmer Accused of Extortion Plot

Lynn Feaster, 34 years old, a farmer living two and a half miles from Mundelein, was indicted yesterday by the Lake county grand jury at Waukegan on the charge that he wrote a note in an attempt to extort $500 from Milan C. Mott, cashier of the State Bank of Mundelein. The placing of a decoy package in the stove of the village hall at Mundelein failed to trap the extortionist, but handwriting experts testified that the extortion notes were in Feaster's writing.

O'BRIEN NAMED IN NEW YORK TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Chosen After Withdrawal of James J. Walker.

date for president." He also named the entire national and state slate. The resolution was adopted by acclamation.

Word that O'Brien had been selected by the leaders was passed out by Curry soon after the convention got under way.

For a time there was every prospect of a fight on the floor, but this faded when Flynn announced he had decided not to present the claims of Mayor McKee, who sued in an effort to prevent the special election called for Nov. 8. Mr. McKee lost his suit, however, the Supreme ruling this afternoon that the city must elect a mayor this fall.

McKee Out for Time Being.

The information that the Bronx—the last Tammany holdout—would go along with the others in the nomination of Mr. O'Brien indicated that Mayor McKee was out of the picture temporarily.

The acting mayor, however, still will be in a strong position to run for the post in 1933 when the full four year term is at stake and, his backers pointed out, will not be exposed to the full fire of the Tammany attack during the coming year. In some quarters, however, it is still believed Mr. McKee will run possibly as a combination Democratic-Republican independent candidate.

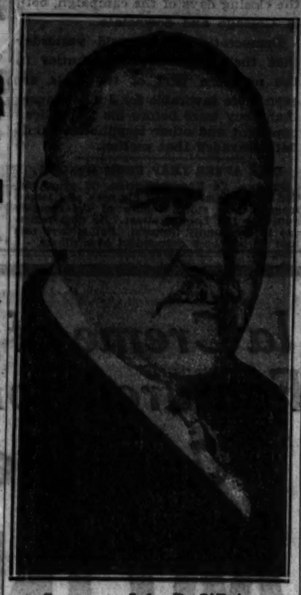
The decision to shelve former Mayor Walker, it was learned, was reached late in the afternoon at a meeting of Tammany leaders in the Plaza hotel. Promises that were hard to break had been made to the resigned mayor by Mr. Curry and Mr. McCooey.

Hurries Back from Europe.

Former Mayor Walker is the "forgotten man" of the present political situation. After his resignation he rushed away to Europe for a vacation and has been rushing back ever since. He left the Italian liner Rex because of engine trouble only to have it sail while he was speeding across Spain to board the Europa in France.

Mr. Walker sailed from New York

Nominated in N. Y.



Surrogate John P. O'Brien.

firm in the conviction that he was a "greatly maligned man who had done no greater wrong than to put too much trust in friends." The public opinion was to the contrary and Tammany keeps a close finger on the public's pulse.

One factor in the shelving of Walker was the enmity of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Roosevelt and other national Democratic leaders. Tonight, according to those close to Mr. Smith, the former Democratic standard bearer was ignored completely in the discussions which resulted in the selection of Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. Curry was asked directly if he had consulted Mr. Smith or Gov. Roosevelt before making his selection.

"No," said the Tammany boss.

When it became apparent that Mr. O'Brien was to be the nominee to succeed Walker, the box in which the surrogate was seated became the focal point of photographers, reporters and admirers. Mr. O'Brien smiled broadly and waved proudly to his cheering section.

Mr. O'Brien has held the office of surrogate of New York county, to which he was elected as the Tammany choice, since Jan. 1, 1923. But it was as corporation counsel of New York City that he won most public note. He was the spokesman of Mayor John F. Hylan in his many battles with transit and other public service corporations.

He had served as assistant corporation counsel from 1901 to 1925.

Surrogate O'Brien is 59 years old, having been born in Worcester, Mass., on Feb. 1, 1873. He was educated at Holy Cross college and Georgetown university law school. Later in life he received honorary degrees from Holy Cross and Fordham.

Text of Walker Messages Made Public by Tammany

Madison Square Garden, New York, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The following cables in which James J. Walker declined to run for mayor were made public by Tammany Chief John F. Curry tonight as the Democratic city convention was about to choose a nominee for the Nov. 8 election:

"Sept. 23, 1932.

"John Curry.

"The past two weeks, with its let down, instead of rehabilitating me has only convinced me of my extremely poor physical condition. Your splendid loyalty compels me in honor to do my utmost to protect you, if decision favorable, by advising you of facts. With this I know you will consider desirable names. This is for you, just you. I immediately upon landing will see you. Affectionate regards family. Jim."

"Radio, SS Europa, Oct. 6, 8:31 p. m.

"John Curry,

"Madison Square Garden, New York.

"Radio message of John McCooey and you asking me to accept nomination for mayor characteristic of splendid loyalty of you both. I know the people of my native city share your confidence because my 23 years in public life does not record a single instance of disloyalty to my constituents. This record was proved after a searching investigation which amounted to an inquisition.

"My love for New York City is universally known and I have a justifiable pride in my six and a half years of administration as its mayor—that administration was the most constructive in the city's history.

"I know I could be reelected by another overwhelming plurality. But is that the only thing to be considered by one who has a profound appreciation of the support he has heretofore received from his party?

"I cannot see how I could campaign without reciting the reasons for my resignation and without daily reminding the public of the unfair nature of the hearings conducted by the governor of our state, as declared in the decision of the Supreme Court Justice Staley. And you know I would not pussyfoot about it.

"This, in my opinion, would do the Democratic party no good. Much as I feel aggrieved by the treatment I have received I am not one of those who thinks he is bigger than his party. So I shall content myself for the time being to stand upon my record with its irrefutable evidence, which will stand the test of time and assaults for political expediency, that I have never failed to fulfill any and every trust reposed in me.

"Notwithstanding the disadvantage of conveying my thoughts to you from such a distance, I am sure you who know the facts will understand how I feel. Rather than jeopardize the hopes of Democracy in the nation, which I feel my candidacy might do, I request that my name be withheld from the convention and this decision is based solely upon my willingness to put the interests of the party above my personal desires.

"JAMES J. WALKER."

SAY NEW WAGE SCALE IS MADE WITH MINERS

$5 a Day and 68 Cents a Ton Agreed On.

Edwardsville, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Three members of the coal operators' subcommittee meeting with representatives of the Progressive Miners' union announced tonight that an agreement had been reached between the new union and independent operators of the state calling for a daily wage of $5 and 68 cents a ton.

Both the daily wage and the tonnage rate as announced in the statement by the three spokesmen for the operators are the same as provided in the recent wage scale approved by officials of the United Mine Workers of America. Working conditions and other terms of the agreement were not announced.

Decline Further Comment.

The wage scale and policy committees of the Progressive Miners' union, which conducted the negotiations for the miners, made no announcement concerning the agreement and officials of the new union declined to make any comment. William Keck, secretary-treasurer of the new union, said he had "nothing to add" to the operators' statement.

The subcommittee of eight coal operators which took part in the conferences represents a committee of twenty-five operators that represents in turn the St. Clair-Madison County Coal Operators' association. Independent operators in other parts of the state also were represented by the St. Clair-Madison county group, but how many had authorized the local operators to negotiate for them was not made known.

In more than twenty mines of St. Clair and Madison counties preparations were being made for reopening of the shafts. Some whistles blew tonight for men to report tomorrow to start cleanup work in preparation for hoisting of coal.

Head of Canadian Mine Workers Orders Picketing

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Oct. 6.—(AP)—James Sloan, president of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, has ordered picketing of the Sovereign Coal company mine at Wayne until a massmeeting Sunday. Royal Canadian mounted police were on guard today. One alleged picket and member of the M. W. U. was arrested last night on a charge of having dangerous weapons on his person.

N. Y. BAR ASSAILS TAMMANY-G. O. P. JUDICIAL DEAL

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Association of the Bar of the City of New York tonight condemned State Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter and Judge Aaron Steuer, bipartisan nominees for justices of the Supreme court, as "unfit to hold judicial office" and called for a public investigation of their nominations by "an appropriate tribunal."

The association recommended the nomination of independent candidates to oppose them.

The resolution condemning Senator Hofstadter and Judge Steuer was introduced by George W. Wickersham.

A tense atmosphere of protest against the Tammany-G. O. P. "deal" prevailed at the meeting presided over by John W Davis, president of the association.

LATIN TOE
a new short vamp last --as Parisian as the Place Vendome

There's nothing more flattering with the new Fashions than these stubby-toed shoes. Our collection is outstanding because we've taken no end of care to design them so they look as short as short and yet are as comfortable as the longer vamps. Many styles in oxfords and pumps.

"a more pleasing taste and aroma"

Chesterfield Radio Program
Every night except Sunday, Columbia coast-to-coast Network.

Enough Turkish, but not too much, that's Why!

Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food. You don't want too much seasoning in food. Or in a cigarette. But you do want enough!

Chesterfield uses just the right amount of Turkish tobacco. Not too much, but just enough to give to Chesterfield a better taste and aroma.

Smoke a Chesterfield . . . and taste the difference!

Record Crowd Cheers Him at Bloomington.

BY PERCY WOOD.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—How the managers of Len Small's Republican campaign for governor of Illinois are promising one job for every 1,000 small pledge cards was revealed here tonight by Judge Henry Horner, the Democratic nominee.

This chicanery came to the judge's attention through a letter sent to members of a Small club in Chicago, which was signed by Thomas V. Talty, its secretary. It has headquarters in the Morrison hotel. The "promise" paragraph, which Mr. Horner read to his large audience at the Bloomington coliseum, stated that Small's manager, a former Republican mayor of Chicago, "has promised a job for every 1,000 bona fide pledge cards."

Denounces Foe's Tactics.

"The former mayor," the letter continued, "also told the pledge card meetings that nothing else counts with him, and it is up to you and all others (of the club) to be on the job." The communication was dated Sept. 23.

Judge Horner's comment on these tactics was typical of the vocal treatment he has given Small's campaign since he started his own tour of the state a month ago.

"This antique type of political philandering which my opponent and his managers are employing," he said, "has burst like other bubbles so often blown through their much used political pipe. The sham is being exposed even to their own misled followers whose eyes are finally being opened to fallacy."

What the Democratic candidate thinks of rewards for votes was further revealed later in his address when he was speaking on the subject of hard roads.

Explodes "Bossism" Rumor.

"That topic," he declared, "is certainly not political. Every one is for good roads and I can and will build just as many for you as my distinguished opponent. But I will never build one square foot of a political hard road. All of you here could vote against me and, as governor, I would still give you the roads you need."

The judge also took occasion to explode another of the cellar rumors his opponents are spreading about him—the charge of "bossism." Of that he said:

"The only bosses I have ever had in my public life have been my conscience and my sense of responsibility to the public. They will continue to be my only guides if I am elected governor." This statement brought warm applause.

Greeted By Record Crowd.

Judge Horner's appearance here was made before a record crowd which packed the vast hall. One of Judge Horner's touring companions, Martin A. Brennan, candidate for congressman at large, is a Bloomington man. Mr. Brennan proved highly popular with his home folks and was given a spontaneous reception.

During the afternoon the judge and his party made brief stops at Morton and Washington and delivered a lengthy address at Minonk. Tomorrow he will speak at Farmer City in the morning, Urbana in the afternoon and at Champaign in the evening.

FLEAS FED ON DOCTOR'S BLOOD IN TYPHUS TEST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Fleas are being fed on the blood of Dr. R. E. Dyer, seriously ill of American endemic typhus fever, to complete an experiment that may help save many lives in the future. Dr. Dyer is believed to have contracted the disease while grinding up typhus infected fleas to make a vaccine that would protect human beings against it. One of the fleas possibly bit him.

At any rate, the fleas that feed on him while he is ill will be allowed to bite guinea pigs next. If the guinea pigs develop typhus that will show fleas can transmit the disease to human beings. This experiment could not be tried previously because humans could not well be asked to risk having typhus, which is disabling and sometimes fatal. Dr. Dyer, however, is expected to recover.

American typhus seems to be a milder form of the European typhus, or "jail fever," which has been a dreaded scourge for centuries.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DAY DREAMING ON THE MIDWAY.

Dr. Raymond Fosdick of the Rockefeller Foundation delivered the principal address at the dedication of International house at the University of Chicago. Dr. Fosdick said, among other things, that "nationality is primarily cultural and only incidentally political." He also observed that "the knell has sounded for the old concept of political nationalism just as much as it has for economic nationalism."

That gives Dr. Fosdick this week's prize for wishful thinking. He has slipped into the common error of confusing what he would like with what is. Nationality, he says, is primarily cultural; and he says it in a speech dedicating one of the largest of university boarding houses to the use of foreign students here to acquire an alien culture. He would have come far closer to the truth had he said that nationalism is overwhelmingly political and only secondarily cultural and that political nationalism never was a more powerful force than it is today. A Frenchman and a German may have some minor disagreements in assessing the relative importance in bacteriology of Pasteur and Koch; but try them out on the rights and wrongs of the Franco-Prussian war, or, better still, on relative armaments in 1932.

If nationality is primarily cultural it is curious that Dr. Fosdick's late friend, Dr. Noguchi, the Japanese, could have found it possible to associate himself with an American institution engaged in studying yellow fever among the African natives. There was nothing fantastic about that kind of cultural internationalism; but if the report of the international commission on Manchuria had been received with applause in Japan the entire world would have been struck dumb with amazement.

The knell has sounded, says Dr. Fosdick, for the old concept of political nationalism. If that means anything, it means among other things that the disarmament conference is about to conclude its work of sinking all battleships and demobilizing all armies; that Japan has given Manchuria back to China, and China, recognizing her own limitations, will insist on returning it; that the Ottawa conference found the British dominions determined to break down all political and economic barriers within the empire; that there is no war on at the moment in South America; and that Sig. Mussolini is humiliated because Italy this year has grown almost enough wheat to feed herself.

Dr. Fosdick's fantasy would be of no consequence were it not for the fact that a lot of other Americans who ought to know better hold to the same irrational belief in the imminence of the millennium. The influence of these day dreamers has reached into the state department and every evidence suggests that the state department has taken the count. Thus, Mr. Stimson, believing, as he apparently does, that the knell of political nationalism has sounded, finds it possible to favor disarmament at the moment he is arousing the fury of the Japanese. He can do this because he has made no adequate appraisal of the complex passions which the word nationalism implies in the world as it exists in 1932.

The Fosdick-Stimson wishful thinking is likely to lead to war precisely because it underestimates the strength of nationalist sentiment. Mr. Stimson thinks the Japanese aren't really mad but only pretending.

GREETER GAW.

The occasional doubt which arises from the career and public works of Greeter Gaw as that busy little man speeds about the city in his white pants and white car usually subsides before the thought of what a wonderful time he is having. The sound of the police siren, constantly in his ears, is music, and his life is a satisfaction of ambition as near as humanly possible to that of constantly going over Niagara in a barrel.

Chicago has never particularly minded being called a hick town. Often when it has seen the person who thought it hick it has wished it were twice as much so to his perceptions. The town retains a bit of the idea that a half brick is the natural companion of a high hat. The Greeter has been tolerated by all and applauded by many because no one has cared how sappy the performance seemed. A lot of Hollywood passes in and out of Chicago, the town having the hobo sign on its gate post as being good for photographs and a press handout. Consequently when the beauty and bone have nothing else opening up in the way of publicity a train ride will get some, and here the Greeter can really get white pantsed. Some of his appearances, with motorcycle escort, in the public thoroughfares have raised the question if he were not greeting himself in his spare time, but the profession probably requires practice.

All might have been forgiven if the Greeter had not, in a moment of what he felt as inspiration, had a poem and dressed it up with a band an opus which he proposes to dedicate to the city. A lady composer says he swiped it, a mitigating fact of which he refuses to take advantage. If he didn't swipe it the lady would be absolved, but both maintain their personal guilt in the matter of authorship. That point is of no public importance. It doesn't matter who wrote it, but if the Greeter intends to carry his career to such extremes he must be suppressed. No one will care how it is done if it be complete extirpation, white pants, white car, police sirens and all.

A city greeter is too much.

THE DESTRUCTION OF REAL ESTATE.

Arthur Kruggel of the Chicago Real Estate board says that real property cannot carry the present burden of taxes. Every owner of such property feels that and most of them have said it. Incomes disappear and taxes with them. Personal property has roads for flight and takes to them when the collector becomes a confiscator. Real estate remains fixed and unhidden, at all times discoverable and at the mercy of the taxing bodies. It is a great social error to make the possession of real estate undesirable, but that is the present consequence of destructive taxation in the United States.

American taxation, if not in theory at least in fact, makes the real estate owner a collector of taxes. The American law assumes a value for the land and it spreads the taxes on that value regardless of whether it is realised in profits or not. Rental is the basis of revenue, but even if it is at any time so considered in tax assessments the system of valuations is so inflexible that the rentals can disappear while the taxes remain. The English system of taxation is based on rentals. If there is no occupier there are no taxes. The American system assumes a revenue, the English discovers one. The American owner must find the contributors from whom he is to collect taxes. If he does not, if his rentals disappear or decline, if his space is unoccupied, he digs into his own pocket.

Real estate can carry such a burden in highly prosperous times, but such times are no test of the equity or rationality of a tax system. It is tested in hard times and prodigal taxes make the test a disaster.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Although the Italian government has accepted the British invitation to a four power conference to break the deadlock created by the German demand for equality of armament, John Steele reports from London that Downing street has given up hope of reconciling the French and German positions on this question. Whether the attempt is revived later we confess some curiosity regarding the report that our government was to be invited to send an observer, but that the French government insisted that we should take part in the conference. Considering that our government has declared that it was not concerned with the controversy between France and Germany as to their relative armament we must interpret French insistence in one of two ways—namely: that the Quai d'Orsay does not take Washington's official position on the Franco-German parity issue for its face value, or that it is using it as a means of preventing the conference. If the former interpretation is correct it would be interesting to know what has been taking place to give the French foreign ministry more encouragement to hope for a reversal of our refusal to be involved in the Franco-German controversy. It is difficult to understand why French foreign ministers are always demanding the presence of the United States in controversies in which our government has formally disclaimed any national interest, unless French persistence is merely diplomatic subterfuge.

At any rate we see no reason for even sending an observer to a conference whose efficacy depends obviously upon a solution of the problem raised by the German demand for equality and the French countercharge of surreptitious disregard of the terms of the Versailles treaty. That, our government has explicitly declared, is not our affair, and the American people, save for a very few individuals, emphatically hold that conviction.

It would be better for the nation's relations if the state department were compelled to restrict its activities to a course always consistent with our tradition of noninterference in European controversies which do not concern us directly and materially. If it did so there would be an end to persistent diplomatic experiments intended either to involve us or cover tactics in which our interests are not considered and may even be injured.

Editorial of the Day

PLURALITY OR MAJORITY?

[New York Evening Post.]

In discussing the outcome of the recent Democratic primary in Texas, in which "Ma" Ferguson won the nomination for governor, the Texas Weekly makes the observation, "It would improve the situation if the dual primary system could be abolished and nominations made by a plurality." This is a surprising statement. For years students of politics in the north have pointed to the primary system in the south with admiration and envy because of the very characteristic which the Texas Weekly now proposes to abandon; namely, the requirement of a majority rather than a mere plurality for nomination.

This requirement, which is responsible for the "run off" primaries peculiar to the south, insures against the nomination of a minority candidate through the division of the opposition. For instance, in a primary in the north if A wins 50,000 votes, B wins 45,000, and C wins 40,000 A is nominated, although in a race against either B or C alone he might be overwhelmingly defeated. The dual or "run off" system prevents this ridiculous result. The reasoning behind the southern method is the same as that which led to the requirement that a majority rather than a mere plurality is necessary for the election of President or Vice President in the electoral colleges and that, failing such majority, the election of President shall be thrown into the house and that of Vice President into the senate, in each of which bodies a majority shall again be necessary. The same rule holds in nominations by convention, except that the Democratic party requires two-thirds in its national gatherings.

Nobody would think of proposing to allow a mere plurality to nominate in a convention. Why should the thing be permitted in a primary? We have enough minority government already.

"HOOVER CALLS FOES' Charges 'Falsehood.'" —La Trib. Which is the reason that we long ago gave up the ambition we had to be President of these United States. It was forced upon us that the dignity of the position and the silk hat that goes with it and everything would forbid us calling a damliar a damliar. We would have to call him a falsifier. And we spurned the exalted office of President that we might have the inalienable right to call a man a damliar if he was a damliar. And he wasn't bigger than we were.

BEFORE AL shook hands with Frank the odds were 7 to 5 in favor of Mr. Roosevelt over Mr. Hoover. Since Al shook hands with Frank the odds are quoted at 3 to 2, with Frank sitting prettily at the long end. Wait! Before placing your money on Mr. Hoover, wait until Al shakes hands with Frank again or gives him a warm bearlike hug. In which case the odds may go to 5 to 1. And if Al says to Frank, "Attaboy, Frank," gosh! they'll be 50 to 12. Or better'n that.

THE CHERISHED HOUR.

If that one hour which each of us who lives
Holds closer to his heart than all the rest,
A small oasis in the years which gives
Its cool green sanctuary to his breast
A thousand times, a gracious isle that gleams
Upon the dusky waters of the past
Toward which he oftenest turns his bark of dreams—
If that one hour were manifest at last,
We should not find an hour of fame or praise,
Of gain, of triumph or high hopes in flower,
For which a man has spent his nights and days,
Most often cherished, but some little hour
Inviolately kept from all that mars—

ADELAIDE LOVE.

THE COURT RULES there will be an election for mayor in New York next month to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James J. Walker. And it is the idea of a dapper gentleman now for the first time in his life hurrying back to New York that the only person who could acceptably and appropriately fill the vacancy in the office of mayor caused by the resignation of James J. Walker would be none other than James J. Walker.

Now, Doesn't That Beat the Deuce.

Sir: Mischa Mischakoff, the Chicago Symphony's smiling young concertmaster, says orchestra members like to play cards (not during concerts, of course), and that, oddly enough, the "string" players usually play bridge with other string players, the woodwind with other woodwind players, and so on.

I'd never thought before of bridge as a musical game. But listen. In a card suit there are 13 cards. In the chromatic scale there are 13 notes (counting from low "do" to high "do," inclusive, and you've heard sopranos practicing as well as I have). Furthermore, in a card deck there are 4 suits. On a violin there are 4 strings.

No wonder the "string" players have to play bridge by themselves! Look at the professional advantage they have, from being used to playing chromatic scales (from deuce to ace) on all four strings (spades, clubs, diamonds, hearts).

The simple woodwind player (I expect to hear from this) does well to stick with his own kind when playing bridge. I forgot to ask Mischa about the tympani, drum, and triangle lads. They sound, though, as if they could hold their own at poker.

Personally, I have half a mind to learn pinochle. I had a guitar, once. RIQ.

"ON, CHICAGO!" will be the cry of our Maroon warriors who tomorrow clash with Yale. It's a noble sentiment, that "On, Chicago!" but how can it do any business with the slogan of the noble young warriors Chicago will meet? A slogan that is at once prayer, patriotism, and loyalty—"For God, for Country, and for Yale." That makes "On, Chicago!" look like a used street car transfer.

THE ROOSEVELT PEOPLE are taking members into a Roosevelt automobile club for one buck and there's probably a Hoover automobile club that will do the same thing for the same price, and the joiners get a bronze medallion of their heroes to put on the front of the radiator and show the whole cockeyed world whom they're for. But we haven't found any bronze medallion of our peerless leader, Norman Thomas. We intend to organize our own Norman Thomas automobile club and we've pasted a picture of a cat on our windshield. A Thomas cat.

MALGRE NOUS.

Is this, then, the end of the story,
The wreck of a ruined dream,
The ghost of a shattered dory
Adrift on a murky stream?

Is the final brush-stroke finished,
The last sad encore through,
Is the fervent love diminished
That I once held for you?

No, dear, I will not believe it,
Will wait till the friendly powers
Of some kindly gods retrieve it
The world that once was ours!

DANGEROUS FUMIGATION.

A WAY of testing air for the presence of hydrocyanic gas has been found. A surgeon in the U. S. public health service devised a solution which is used to saturate paper. This paper is dried and then cut into strips. When the air of a room is to be tested for this very poisonous gas a few strips of this test paper are thrown into the room. They are watched from a distance—perhaps through a window. A change in the color of the paper readily noted at a distance of more than twenty feet means that the air thereabouts contains fatal proportions of the poisonous gases.

Probably before the next war between highly civilized nations similar simple tests for many poison gases will have been devised. It is the common opinion that poison gases will be extensively used in that war, when it comes, and that civilian populations must have means of detection of them and protection against them.

Meanwhile the chemical paper test for this poisonous gas is needed by those who use the gas to kill rats, bedbugs, and sometimes mosquitoes. This gas is very much the most effective fumigant against these pestiferous animals and insects, but so dangerous is it that none dare to use it except the experienced. The writer has seen health department inspectors go forth with their supply of chemicals to fumigate rat infested houses, a proper function for those departments when plague is threatening.

The inspectors knew how to do the job, how to seal the house, to produce the poison gas, and then to get rid of it after it had done its work. But even in the hands of these somewhat trained men the job was regarded as rather too hazardous. Probably these inspectors were not regarded as good life insurance risks. In recent years much of the business of fumigating houses with this gas has fallen into the hands of business concerns generally working under city licenses and employing trained men.

The U. S. public health service fumigates ships for the purpose of destroying rats, since rat infested vessels are the principal agency in spreading plague. For this purpose, liquid hydrocyanic gas is thrown by compressed air into the holds of ships. The men who do the work are trained and experienced and they wear gas masks. They find use for these detector papers.

NOT DUE TO SUNBURN.

Mrs. E. M. S. writes: When I awake in the morning, no matter what position my arms are in—either under or over my head or by my side—they have a "pins and needles" feeling. When I walk down the stairs I can feel my ankles sort of cracking. Is this poor circulation of the blood, or is it the reaction of the sunburn of last year, or am I improperly nourished? I have a few roots and decayed teeth that I know should come out, but I cannot afford to have it done just now; neither can I have medical care.

REPLY.

There is a very good chance that the tingling is the result of pressure alone. Otherwise, why do you have it only in the morning? However, tingling is suggestive of the secondary disease of the spinal cord which is caused by pernicious anemia. That is a possibility rather than a probability.

It is possible that the tingling is due to neuritis from infection from your teeth. The chance of that being the cause surpasses that of pernicious anemia.

Cracking of the ankles is of minor importance. You can rule out last year's sunburn and poor circulation.

TO AVOID SNORING.

N. C. L. writes: Tell me how to overcome the habit of sleeping with the mouth open. Is it harmful, and how?

REPLY.

It causes snoring and thus leads to divorce occasionally. It causes coated tongue and foul breath sometimes, and these have social consequences. That is about the whole story.

Sleep on your side or your stomach.

COUSIN OF HAY FEVER.

J. B. writes: Would you call this a touch of tuberculosis? Every night when I go to bed I am bothered by sneezing and running of my nose. This has been going on for about four years. It is not any worse, but always at the same time—when I lie down and wake up.

REPLY.

No. I think you are sensitive to feathers. You get a disorder that is akin to hay fever.

SNAPPING JOINTS.

Mrs. S. J. C. writes: I have noticed snapping joints recently, particularly in my feet. Is there danger of this developing into a case of serious arthritis?

Is it a matter of diet? Would constipation over a period of years be a contributing factor? I confess I am somewhat worried.

REPLY.

This is a mild form of arthritis. Fortunately, it is not usually a forerunner of a severe inflammation of the joints. I confess I do not know of a diet that would lessen it. Nor do I know of evidence that constipation causes it.

PETITION FOR CITIZENSHIP.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—A was born in England in 1854. His parents established a home in Michigan and his father made a declaration of intention March 12, 1858. There is no record of any further naturalization papers. At that time many men never went any further but were allowed to vote and were recognized as citizens. What is the status of A as regards citizenship? E. E.

If A was informed that his father was a citizen and that therefore he had become a citizen and, acting on that information, he erroneously exercised the rights and performed the duties of a citizen of the United States in good faith prior to 1920, he may file a petition for citizenship without filing a declaration of intention. An application form for this purpose is sent to the writer.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director U. S. Dept. of Labor.

REAL ESTATE DEED.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly tell me what the expense will be to have a real estate deed recorded? There is a mortgage of $3,500 that will have to be changed also. M. P. S.

The recorder's fee is ordinarily a little over $1. If it is something more than mere recording that you have in mind, then we cannot advise without knowing more completely the facts on which your question arises.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROPERTY PURCHASE.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A bought a lot on contract and paid $1,200, signing a mortgage of $600 for the balance. He received a deed. The mortgage has now expired, the last interest notes, taxes and assessments remaining unpaid. 1. Can the holder of the mortgage buy A's equity? 2. What is the cost of foreclosing on a mortgage of $600? 3. [a] How long is a mortgage good? [b] What would void a mortgage? 4. In the event of foreclosure would the holder have to pay the taxes, assessments, etc., before or after the foreclosure proceedings? 5. Suppose that the cost of all expense is $300 and the lot is sold for $600, would the holder of the mortgage get a deficiency judgment for the balance and how long would this judgment be collectable? J. L. O.

1. Yes.
2. Depends on facts that are not before us.
3. [a] The limitation period is ten years from the maturity date of the last payment; [b] this is too general for answer.
4. There is no criminal statute compelling him to pay the taxes. Ordinarily it is to his interest to pay them before a tax deed issues. We do not clearly understand the implications of your question.
5. If the lot sells for more than enough to pay the mortgage and expenses then there will be no deficiency decree. If it does not produce enough then there will be a deficiency decree which will be like a judgment. The limitation period will be twenty years.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 7, 1916.

LONDON.—Turning against the Rumanians, who had been advancing steadily in eastern Transylvania, Austro-Hungarian and German troops have defeated the invaders decisively along a fifty mile front. North of Fogaras, at the juncture of the Homorod and Alt rivers, near Reps, the Rumanians are in retreat, pursued by the Teutonic troops. North of Reps the Austro-Hungarians recaptured positions and took more than 200 prisoners. Bucharest admits that the Rumanian troops in this sector have been withdrawn before attacks by superior forces in the region of Fogaras.

PETROGRAD.—Russian troops have made headway on the Galician front in their campaign for Lemberg, according to today's war announcement, capturing Austro-German positions in the district south of Brzezany, southeast of the Galician capital. Counter-attacks are holding up the Russian offensive along the line to the north.

LONDON.—Bad weather, which has turned the Somme battle front into a sea of mud, is handicapping the operations of the allies, but two slight advances were reported. Northeast of Eaucourt l'Abbaye the British troops made a further gain in their efforts to reach Bapaume, and east of Bauchavesnes the French made further progress in the campaign for Peronne.

BERLIN.—The fierce Russian assault on the German lines in Volhynia west of Lutsk has died down, says the war office announcement. On the front northeast of Lemberg, however, the Russians are more active. Between the Brody and the Zborow railway lines leading to Lemberg there was a revival of artillery activity. After a strong preparatory fire the enemy made repeated and powerful attacks near Wysocko, Dubie and Zarkow. The attack broke down under the Teutonic fire.

CHICAGO.—Ben Reitman, anarchist mate of Emma Goldman, and a host of I. W. W. followers were set upon by a group of persons who sympathize with devout Jewish worshipers of Yom Kippur last evening. Reitman's fire eaters were no match for the outraged worshipers. After a short, sharp riot in which Ben and his friends were roughly handled, they fled up the street, leaving the Jews to return to their worship in the four synagogues of the neighborhood to observe with fasting and prayer the day of atonement, most solemn of Jewish holy days. The riot took place near the Workers' Institute, 920 South Ashland avenue, a Jewish institution from which the I. W. W.'s had been ejected because of the sacredness of the day. Reitman and S. Gold, leaders of the I. W. W., attempted to address a crowd at Taylor street and Marshfield avenue, when the worshipers set upon them with a shower of eggs and stones.

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo.—An attempt to secure $15,000 ransom by kidnaping R. M. Perry, manager of the Moffat coal mine at Oak Creek, Oct. 4, was frustrated when Perry, at an opportune moment, seized a revolver from one of his captors and shot him dead, according to J. C. Frye, sheriff, who, with Perry and a posse, is in pursuit of six or eight others implicated in the kidnaping.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Having accepted, several years ago, $40,000 from ex-President Roosevelt, the government finds itself in the unusual predicament of neither being able to use the money nor to give it back to the colonel. When President Roosevelt won the Nobel peace prize of $40,000 he turned it over to a commission headed by Chief Justice White, which was to use the money to form a world peace movement. Now, however, since the fading of all hopes for world peace for some years to come, the commission believes that it has no use for the money and would like to give it back to the colonel. But the commission finds that, since the government by act of congress accepted the money it cannot now legally give the money back. The only method would be an act of congress authorizing the government to return the money to the donor.

CHICAGO.—Joe Jackson went upon a batting rampage yesterday and now the White Sox need only one more victory to clinch the Chicago baseball championship. The score was 3 to 0. Slugging Joe scored two runs and knocked the other one in. Young Claude Williams, who was on the mound for the White Sox, pitched a great game, holding the Cubs to six hits, all of them singles. Prendergast and McConnell were the Cubs' pitchers.

CHICAGO'S FIRST CHURCH.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—In "Chicago and It's Makers," a history of Chicago by Paul Gilbert and C. L. Bryson, the statement is made that the first church organization in Chicago was St. Mary's, organized April 17, 1833, and that the First Presbyterian followed June 26, 1833, and the First Baptist May 19, 1834. A recent speaker in the Chicago Temple referred to the First Presbyterian church as the first church organization in the city.

Inasmuch as others will be writing histories of Chicago and making references otherwise to this matter, I would like to present the facts about this event. According to Dr. W. B. Norton, former president of the Rock River Conference Historical society and former religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, the First Methodist Episcopal church of Chicago was organized June 16, 1831, by the Rev. S. R. Beggs in a log building owned by William See, the village blacksmith, and located west of the fork of the river. This building was afterward purchased by the Rev. Jesse Walker, a Methodist itinerant preacher, and used for religious services, school building and parsonage. The first church consisted of eight members as follows: William and Minerva See, Mrs. Lucy Walker Wentworth and three children, Susan, Sabiah and Elijah Wentworth; Caroline Harmon, wife of Dr. Harmon, and Diana Hamilton, wife of Col. R. J. Hamilton. William See was appointed leader of this group. The Methodist class held the first Watch Night service Dec. 31, 1831, and their first quarterly conference in January, 1832. These records are verified by A. D. Field, who came to Chicago about 1836, in his "Memorials of the Rock River Conference," and by other Methodist church records. Last year the First Methodist church celebrated its 100th anniversary.

ALMER PENNEWELL,

COLLECTING A CAMPAIGN FUND.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 4.—Before the primary election last spring the present administration asked the employes of the Kankakee State hospital to donate toward the campaign for Custer. Small's newspaper made a big fuss about it. Every issue for two weeks carried an added story of the way the poor workers were being asked to help Custer. Now, with absolutely no authority to do so, he is asking every one of these same workers to come across with at least $5 to help his campaign or lose their little jobs if he is elected. Why doesn't his paper print that? DISGUSTED.

EDUCATION AND CRIMINALITY.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—In a letter to THE TRIBUNE Maurice L. Simons, writing in reference to night schools, implies that if the students did not attend these schools they would in their idleness "be tempted to commit criminal acts," and that the schools save the students from the penitentiary and the county jail. What a curious idea this is to attribute to these people criminal propensities of such a degree that they are confronted with the alternatives of either going to night schools or to penitentiaries or jails. Mr. Simons imagines that mere education restrains people from crime. But education does not create morality. A person may be illiterate and yet be moral.

Furthermore, Warden Lawes of Sing Sing, in an address to the National Education association, said that the number of high school graduates among new prisoners in Sing Sing had increased from 19 per cent last year to 25 per cent this year. FRANK HAND.

THE STONE CRICKET.

La Grange, Ill., Oct. 3.—Mr. Streyckmans' elusive spiderlike insect, which he described so accurately in today's TRIBUNE, is a stone cricket.

In addition to the many characteristics detailed by Mr. Streyckmans this nimble creature has antennae of extraordinary length—as much as four inches in some cases—which it waves about in derision when one's broom or other weapon has descended on the spot it had occupied up to that moment.

It seems to be quite harmless, but because of its repulsiveness it is detested as nothing else is by the lady of our house, and what a wailing and gnashing of teeth is caused by the appearance of each new member of the tribe. We have had visits from them at intervals for six years, during which time they have kept about two jumps ahead of extinction despite the scarcity of cover in our basement.

Mr. Streyckmans will find a picture of the stone cricket in Webster's unabridged dictionary.

AN APTEROUS INSECT.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—I am a south park landscape man and act as night watchman in the Washington park conservatory. I meet hundreds of this breed of spiders that jump when making my nightly inspections. They are not afraid of a flashlight. Their favorite diet is the cockroach. I frequently feed them on roaches which are first slain with a club. No, these are not arachnads [spiders]. They are real insects, having antennae and six legs. The rear legs are very large, the same as those of the grasshopper. These insects were in the dim past possessed of wings. Through disuse the wings atrophied during myriad generations until finally the insect became apterous [wingless]. Under a large magnifying glass certain individuals evince a tendency to revert to original form—displaying rudimentary wings, analogous to the atrophied limbs found in the members of the whale family [cetacea]. This wingless cousin of the grasshopper is a charming little animal, helping the gardeners to fight the pests that prey upon the choice plants.

W. M.

AMERICAN FOLK LORE.

Woodstock, Ill., Oct. 3.—Mr. F. B. Streyckmans' description of the jumping spider may be what guides in the north woods named the hodak. He has the appearance of a grasshopper. Usually on Fridays guides may be seen harnessing hodaks to fishlines and dropping them into trout streams. The hodak's ability to jump forward or backward at will enables him to elude the hungry trout. Of course the trout goes mad. By Saturday or Sunday he is so blinded with rage that he thinks the week-end fisherman's grasshopper bait is a hodak. That's why trout are so easily caught.

I have never seen the hodak as far south as Chicago. E. F. MEYER.

THE DOUGLAS PARK "L."

Chicago, Sept. 4.—The people who are forced to ride on the Douglas Park elevated because they have no other means of transportation are packed in the trains during the rush hours of the morning and in the evening. It may be surprising to many to know that during the time mentioned the loop trains are eight minutes apart. Since school opened many additional riders are being carried and it appears that since then the trains are running further apart.

N. Y. STATE SIFTS SALE OF STOCK TO CHICAGOANS

One Television Company Repudiates 6 Arrested.

New York, Oct. 6. — [Special.] — Deputy Attorney General Edmund C. Collins of the state bureau of securities announced this afternoon that his office would investigate the alleged sale of Short Wave Television corporation stock by representatives of S. E. Price, who has a brokerage office at 11 Stone street.

Mr. Collins' statement was made as the result of the arrest of six salesment yesterday in Chicago in connection with an alleged high pressure stock selling campaign by representatives of Price. Mr. Price admitted today that the men under arrest were in his employ.

Boston Man Heads Company.

The dispatches from Chicago telling of the arrests quoted the stock being sold as that of the Short Wave Television corporation. No information concerning a company of that exact name could be obtained here, but the Short Wave and Television corporation, a Boston concern, announced today through T. H. Palmer that if Price and his aids were selling that company's stock it was without the company's authorization and unwarranted, and that the company disclaimed responsibility for it.

Mr. Palmer stated that Butler F. Perry, Boston capitalist, was president of the company; J. L. Hermanson, a director and attorney for it. Mr. Hermanson and Mr. Palmer were both at the Hotel Commodore here today.

SIX FACE TRIAL TODAY.

The six men arrested here Tuesday while conducting a high pressure campaign to sell Short Wave Television corporation stock were charged with disorderly conduct yesterday by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker and directed to appear today before Judge Harold P. O'Connell. A writ of habeas corpus obtained in their behalf was dismissed when Chief of Detectives Schoemaker informed Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court that he was unable to put a criminal charge against them.

Word came from New York that officials of the television company disclaimed any responsibility for the men arrested here or for the activities of the New York concern selling its stock. A merger is being effected with companies making electronic lamps, cathode ray tubes and airplane radio receivers, officials said, but it is not expected that the shares of stock will jump from $1.50 to $15, as promised by the Chicago salesmen.

Railway Clerks Demand 6 Hour Day, No Pay Cuts

The International Brotherhood of Railway Clerks will advocate adoption of a six hour day and will fight any further wage cuts, President George M. Harrison of Cincinnati told 300 delegates yesterday at the annual convention in the Morrison hotel. Mr. Harrison said "wage cuts will hinder the recent advance of business toward recovery. The six hour day in industry and business is the only solution of the unemployment occasioned by improved and improving methods."

NO IRISH PEACE UNLESS TREATY UPHELD—BRITAIN

Cabinet Member States Terms of Settlement.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The sanctity of existing agreements must form the basis of any settlement of the Anglo-Irish dispute over the Free State's nonpayment of land annuities and its proposed abolition of the oath of allegiance to the crown, J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, warned in a speech tonight at Newport, Monmouthshire.

"We desire peace," Thomas said, "but it must be a lasting and honorable peace. It must above all be a peace that establishes and ratifies the fundamental principle of sanctity of agreements."

"Matters of Real Principle."

The matter of dispute between the two nations, he continued, are matters of real principle and importance—not only today but in the future relationship of both nations.

Thomas was one of the British cabinet ministers who yesterday, meeting with President Eamon de Valera of the Free State, agreed to arbitrate the altercation at a conference to begin on Oct. 14. This is considered to be a long step toward settlement of the dispute, which has been raging since De Valera's election last spring, and which gave rise in July to a tariff war between the two disputants.

The British government deplores having to take the course that it did, Thomas said. The government hoped and believed that the treaty of 1921 had started a new era for the Irish Free State and that Ireland would reap the finest economic advantages from her association with the British empire, he stated.

Points to Agreements.

"I say deliberately that the differences between Ireland and ourselves and the action we have taken are because we believe in the sanctity of agreements," the British minister declared. "We believe that nothing could be more disastrous both to individuals and to the nations than to give countenance to any policy that would say that agreements solemnly made can be repudiated by either party regardless of the feeling or wishes of the other."

Thomas here referred particularly to the British viewpoint that since the oath of allegiance is part of the Free State constitution as authorized in the treaty of 1921, it cannot legally be abolished without the consent of Great Britain. And, following the same line of reasoning, the British contend that neither can the payment of land annuities be stopped without their consent as one of the contracting parties.

Thomas said he was expressing the sentiments of all well wishers, either in Ireland or England, when he said: "God speed to our coming negotiations."

De Valera Regrets Tariff War.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 6.—President Eamon de Valera returned to Dublin today following his conference yesterday with British cabinet members at which arrangements were made to meet in London Oct. 14 to attempt to settle the Anglo-Irish dispute.

De Valera admitted that it would be better if the negotiators met next week in an atmosphere less charged with the tariff war. The British, he said, are ready to lift tariffs if the Irish pay the land annuities, now withheld, but this, he said, he declined to do.

The Free State cabinet tonight approved the agreement to negotiate with the British government and named as representatives President de Valera; John MacEntee, minister of finance; James Geoghegan, minister of justice, and Conor Maguire, attorney general.

HINES EXPECTS $80,000,000 SAVING WITH VETERANS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administration head, today said he will recommend economies of $75,000,000 to $85,000,000 when congress convenes, asking, if necessary, for additional enabling legislation. He ventured the opinion it would not be found practicable to cut veterans' costs by 400 million, as urged by several organizations.

Brig. Gen. Hines discussed reductions with President Hoover today. Later he said that some cuts were being made in administration costs on a simplified rating system, elimination of duplication of benefits and inequalities he based the hope for considerable economics.

Mr. Hines believed it would be possible to save an additional $51,000,000 by alterating laws covering cases not connected with wounds or illness due to service.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of saltz, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches, and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1932 C. M. Co.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR U. S. OFFICES FAVOR ECONOMY

More favorable replies to its questionnaire which seeks to place candidates for office on record as to their stand on governmental economy were received yesterday by the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures. These replies were from four New Jersey congressional candidates, three of whom are seeking reelection, and two Colorado senatorial aspirants.

All the New Jersey candidates announced themselves in favor of salary reductions for federal employés. Two set $2,500 yearly and the others $3,000 as the minimum yearly pay scales to be affected by the cuts. Alva B. Adams and Earl A. Schuyler, Colorado Democratic and Republican candidates for the United States senate, respectively, both favor reducing federal expenditures by 500 million to one billion dollars in the 1934 budget.

George W. Rossetter, chairman of the national organization, also announced that Martin T. Basket, prominent rancher, has been made state chairman for Wyoming. Mr. Rossetter yesterday received an order from Harry V. Kahle, state chairman for Oklahoma, for 2,000 window posters.

Iowa Warden Explains Trip to Chicago with Prisoner

Anamosa, Ia., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Warden C. H. Ireland of Aanamosa reformatory tonight said he was accompanied on a trip to Chicago by Hortman, a "lifer" and a trusty in the reformatory and by Walker Wakefield, another trusty, who drives his car. Ireland made the statement when questioned as to assertions in a speech by Clyde Herring, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, that the warden recently took two prisoners to world series games in Chicago.

MRS. RAYMOND ROBINS IS GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the missing dry crusader, arrived at the White House today to confer with President Hoover regarding the disappearance of her husband several weeks ago while he was reported en route to Washington for a conference with the President.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robins are old personal friends of the President and Mrs. Hoover. Mrs. Robins is expected to be a house guest in the executive mansion for several days, and it is believed that she will seek further aid from Mr. Hoover in locating her husband.

Mr. Robins, who was active in anti-bootlegging drives in Florida, mysteriously disappeared about a month ago. He had set out from his home in Maine for a conference with President Hoover, but never arrived at Washington. Efforts by the prohibition forces and the department of justice to locate him have proved futile.

U. S. AND BRITAIN TO HOLD PRIVATE TALK ON NAVIES

American Arms Delegate Goes to London Today.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, who has been talking with various government officials as America's disarmament representative, will leave tomorrow for London to engage in naval conversations with the British.

The talks probably will be in line with the suggestion at Geneva that various powers get together informally for disarmament discussion. He will talk about President Hoover's proposals and doubtless about the British suggestion for reduction in the size of battleships.

As he explained the attitude of the United States in a talk with Premier Herriot, the American government is neutral in differences between individual nations, but is primarily interested in progressive reduction of armaments.

Success Seen as Business Aid.

Herriot has been assured that America believes success of the disarmament conference will ease the political tension and have a favorable influence on world business and credit in general.

As for the Franco-German problem, especially that phase of it raised by Germany's demand for equality in armaments, it had been thought here that the United States looked favorably upon the British proposal for a four power conference to consider that issue.

The Americans want to be helpful if their help is wanted, it is believed, and they want especially to bring Germany back into the Geneva disarmament conference.

In international circles there is a growing impression that the disarmament conference is closely linked with the forthcoming international economic conference in its influence on the progress of the world.

Britain Stands by Proposal.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The British government tonight still stood by its suggestion that a four power conference take up the question of Germany's demand for arms equality, but it was said in official circles that if either France or Germany declined to participate the plan would be dropped.

[The French foreign office announced in Paris that Britain had postponed indefinitely its plan to call the conference. This announcement was issued after Lord Tyrrell, the British ambassador, had conferred with Premier Herriot.]

Paris reports received in London to the effect that the British ambassador had informed France that London had decided to postpone the conference were regarded in official circles as a misinterpretation.

It was said, however, that a French communique telling of the postponement was technically correct, although the date that had been mentioned—Oct. 11—had been tentative only. An official source explained that conversations were continuing with Paris looking toward holding the meeting some time in the future.

OPPOSE USING SHERIDAN RD. AS ARTERY TO FAIR

The executive committee of the North Shore Property Owners' association, at a meeting in the Hamilton club yesterday, voted to oppose the use of Sheridan road as one of the main advertised arteries to the World's Fair next summer. It was agreed, however, that the board of directors and advisory directors be asked to consult with the residents of the ten north shore towns which they represent on the question of an outer drive in Lake Michigan. President William Sherman Hay of Winnetka presided.

"The committee is opposed to the suggestion made by Maj. E. S. J. Irvine and his committee of a Century of Progress," said L. W. Beman, secretary of the association, "first, because it would be dangerous. Part of the way Sheridan road is a two lane road, part of the way a three lane road, and there are many dangerous curves, complicated by intersections and some steep grades where the view is shut off by shrubbery. Second, because there are straight, wide roads from the north through territory which would afford sufficient room for tourist camps and refreshment stands as proposed. And third, because such a tremendous addition to the burden on Sheridan road would tie up traffic completely on busy days with resulting inconvenience both to visitors and the residents of the north shore towns."

LEAGUE PRAISES U. S. STAND ON WORLD PEACE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lord Lytton, chairman of the league of nations committee which investigated conditions in the far east, and other members of the league of nations union executive committee today issued a statement welcoming the American attitude toward the machinery for maintaining peace in the world. Their statement read:

"Noting that Secretary of State Stimson's recent speech lays it down that the Briand-Kellogg pact, having as its sanction 'the combined weight of opinion of the whole world,' necessarily implies consultation among its signatories as incident to unification of that opinion, we warmly welcome the acceptance by the American secretary of state of that principle as a step toward relieving members of the league of their previous anxiety regarding the attitude which the United States might take towards any collective action of the league for prevention of war, and towards that real unification of world opinion which would exert against a treaty breaker a compulsion more authoritative than any resort by any particular power to armed force."

Gilbert Murray, Eustace Percy, Noel Baker, and other members of the executive committee joined Lord Lytton in the statement.

SUPREME COURT ENDS RALPH CHURCH'S FIGHT FOR G.O.P. NOMINATION

State Representative Ralph E. Church has lost his court fight to have his name certified as the Republican nominee for congress in the Tenth district. The Supreme court yesterday refused to set aside the order of Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch, who awarded the nomination to James Simpson Jr. after a recount. Church has filed as an independent and, as the last day to withdraw such candidacy has passed, his name will appear on the ballots in November as a rival of Simpson, the Republican, and Charles Weber, the Democratic candidate.

SEPTEMBER AUTO THEFTS EXCEED NEW CAR SALES

A bulletin sent to members of the Chicago Automobile Trade association yesterday by its president, L. Markle, was headed:

"Fifty per cent more cars stolen in Chicago in September than new cars registered in all Cook county!"

Mr. Markle urged the members to demand less leniency in dealing with automobile thieves. He advised action by them to end the tolerance with which he said the courts and prosecutors view the theft of a car. His letter contained the following figures:

	Chicago auto thefts.	Cook County new car registrations.
July, 1932	3,266	3,823
August, 1932	3,558	2,990
September, 1932	3,375	2,255

"Think of it!" he wrote, "10,199 cars stolen in Chicago and only 9,068 new cars registered in all Cook county. Over 10,000 citizens suffering loss; over $2,000,000 worth of cars stolen per month."

OPEN PARLIAMENT IN CANADA TO O.K. TRADE PACTS

Special Session Held to Speed Economic Ties.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 6.—Amid the booming of cannon and martial pageantry the Canadian parliament opened today in a special fall session. The customary February opening was put forward four months to secure parliamentary approval of intra-empire trade agreements arranged at the imperial conference in August. With other British empire parliaments assembling shortly, the objective is to have the imperial trade tie-up working before the end of the year.

Canada has twelve specific empire trade agreements to be approved at this session of parliament. While the government has solicited cooperation from the Liberal opposition, severe criticism of some phases of empire trade conference procedure, and of the agreements entered upon, is anticipated from the Liberal party. Specific details as to Canada's concessions, particularly in the pact with the United Kingdom, have yet to be divulged.

Show Spoiled by Rain.

Today's military and social show connected with parliamentary opening was spoiled by heavy rain. The bearskin hatted footguards attended the earl of Bessborough, the governor general, as he arrived. Cannons boomed the royal salute, and he and a cavalcade of dragoons took a drenching in the rain as they stood at attention outside the parliament buildings awaiting the conclusion of ceremonies within.

The speech from the throne, read by Lord Bessborough to members of the house of commons and the senate in the senate chamber, heralded the immediate submission of the empire trade pacts.

The governor general described them as instituting "a mutually beneficial scheme of closer empire economic association."

The signing at Washington, D. C., of the Canadian-American St. Lawrence seaways agreement was also noted. Canada's intention not to effect parliamentary ratification until congress appends its approval is heralded in the phrase "Upon its ratification by the duly constituted authority of the United States this treaty will be submitted to you for approval."

Jobless Relief Legislation.

Soldiers' pension act amendments, unemployment relief legislation, a redistribution of parliamentary representation in the commons and an extension of Canadian bank charters for one year, pending results of the proposed international economic conference, were also heralded in the speech from the throne.

Vice-regal satisfaction was also expressed at this year's bountiful Canadian harvests and at the improvement in economic and industrial conditions.

PUT OFF ILLINOIS RELIEF ACTION ANOTHER WEEK

Assembly Recesses Until Next Thursday.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Confessing its inability to make progress toward unemployment relief, the fourth special session of the 57th general assembly of Illinois quit work today, recessing until next Thursday when a new effort is to be made by the house to pass its three major bills which, after decisive defeats, were restored to life yesterday.

Visitors to the capital found today's meeting of the two chambers something to laugh about. The senate, as it frequently does, departed ahead of the house, and there was a "perfunctory" session there, but even the lower chamber, which sometimes works a day longer than its sister chamber, mustered less than forty to go through the routine of postponing action until next week.

"Hope" for Next Time.

As matters now stand the house of representatives is scheduled to make a desperate effort next Thursday to pass the major relief bills, but even as the leaders sour facedly left Springfield on the afternoon trains there was the old question whether next week or any other week would produce the required two-thirds vote—102 in the house and 34 in the senate—to pass the pending bills with the emergency clause for immediate effectiveness included.

Despite the rough treatment they already have received there are still three bills that constitute the relief program as it was outlined to the Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington recently as proof that Illinois, before asking further federal aid, would exhaust its own resources to meet the problem of the depression.

As they stand now these three bills are on third reading—the passing stage in the house—and an effort may be made next Thursday to pass them as a group.

Favor at Least a Gesture.

Taken as a total these three bills are not considered by officers of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission as sufficient to meet the needs of the approaching winter, but it is conceded that if they are passed they will show Washington authorities that the state at least has made an effort of its own to meet the crisis. This, it is said, may pave the way for a new additional federal loan which will be needed before Nov. 1.

Those three bills, as they are before the house, permit counties to spend their one cent share of the 3 cent gas tax for relief, the optional county sales tax bill, and the bill to permit counties to issue their own relief bonds redeemable through the gas tax or general taxation.

Two Montreal Men Are Named to Canadian Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 6.—J. H. Rainville, chairman of the Montreal harbor commissioners, and A. J. Brown, Montreal lawyer, have been named to the senate of Canada, according to word received here today from Ottawa. J. C. Newman, vice chairman, becomes the new chairman of the Montreal harbor commission, and Alphonse Raymond, jam manufacturer, has been appointed new harbor commissioner.

Takes Rum to Jailed Wife and Gets a Cell Near Her

"Here's a pint of liquor, dear," said Ludwig Jensen, 6512 South Morgan street, to his wife yesterday. She was, and is, in the Kane county jail at Geneva serving a year on a federal liquor charge. Now her husband's in jail, too, and they have cells facing each other across a corridor. A deputy sheriff saw the passage of the bottle of good cheer and Justice W. E. Kiser of Geneva sentenced the thoughtful husband to 40 days in jail.

In Cook county alone allocations for family relief totaled $3,549,209 for October. The allocations were 25 per cent less than the amount requested. More than 130,000 families are on the relief rolls. That sum is being spent at the rate of $114,490 a day.

Downers Grove Sailor Slain in San Diego

Walter C. Bitney, 24 years old, of Downers Grove, an enlisted man in the United States navy, was found dead yesterday on a beach at San Diego, Cal. Apparently he had been killed by a blow on the head. Bitney was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bitney of Downers Grove. The father is janitor in a theater there. The sailor enlisted first in 1928 and reenlisted last spring.

BANKERS STRESS NEED OF PASSING POOR BOND ISSUE

Voters Can Avoid 100% State Tax Increase.

The Illinois Bankers' association is calling to the attention of its members the necessity of passing the 20 million dollar state relief bond issue at the coming election on Nov. 8, if an increase in the state property tax rate is to be avoided. In a statement made public yesterday the association pointed out that the increase in the state property levy probably would be much more than 100 per cent, as had been estimated previously, if the bond issue fails to pass.

"It is quite possible the failure to pass the bond issue might increase the state tax rate from the present 39 cents to as high as $1," the statement said. "Most estimates do not take into account the effect of lower valuations produced by the 1931 quadrennial assessment or the horizontal reductions made by most of our boards of review.

Pay Out of Gas Tax.

"If the bond issue passes the additional taxes will not be levied, but the bonds will be paid by the counties which used the relief funds out of their allotment of the gas tax."

Elmer Luehr, secretary of the Calumet Landlords' association, with offices at 9139 Commercial avenue, yesterday announced that the landlords of his organization no longer can carry the load of nonpaying tenants now on the relief rolls. Joel T. Hunter, head of the United Charities, said Wednesday that, while the situation is unfair, there is not sufficient relief money available to pay rents for the unemployed and also supply them with food.

Credit on Taxes.

"While we recognize that funds are short, still there is a way in which the overburdened landlords may be given some assistance and that is by allowing a credit on taxes to those landlords who are losing their property because of nonpaying tenants," Luehr said. "Another means would be a credit on water bills."

The Goodwill Industries has converted an entire floor of its new headquarters at 1841 West Congress street, into a huge sewing enterprise, Walter C. League, superintendent of the Industries, said yesterday. Cotton furnished the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross by the government will be made into clothing for the needy. This project, he said, would furnish employment to 250 persons.

St. Charles Meet Tonight to Hear Farm Holiday Plea

A massmeeting of Kane and Kendall county farmers at St. Charles tonight has been called in which an effort to induce northern Illinois farmers to join the farm holiday will be made. E. E. Kennedy of Kankakee will speak.

Doctors to Open Low Cost Medical Clinic in Chicago

A new low cost medical and dental clinic for the treatment of all ailments will be opened in Chicago about Nov. 1, according to an article in the current issue of the American Medical Association Journal. The operators of the new clinic will be the United Medical Service, Inc., an Illinois corporation which was formed two years ago by a group of well known Chicago physicians. The local corporation is a subsidiary of a Delaware corporation, set up for profit and in which common and preferred stock will be sold, the medical journal article states.

"The charters of the corporations," the article says, "indicate that it is proposed to offer complete medical service, including hospitalization, diagnostic care and treatment, and it is proposed to sell drugs and medicines at cut rates made possible by large scale buying. The charters seem to take in enough territory to establish positively the fact that this is a corporation, established for profit, to vend the services of physicians to the public. It is apparently not planned to limit operations to Chicago."

Chicago Subscribers.

The Chicago incorporators of the Illinois company are: Doctors Charles R. Wiley, 2924 Washington boulevard; Roy W. Kline, 4051 West North avenue; J. W. Harned, 3215 West North avenue; M. J. Freeman, 2257 West Madison street; Julius Auerbach, 1931 West 22d street; Harry Noskin, 1618 West Chicago avenue; George W. Funck, 25 East Washington street; Guy L. Wagoner, 4763 Broadway; Petra M. Dahl, 4264 Milwaukee avenue, and W. Lloyd Kenny, 3215 West North avenue.

The clinic has taken a five year lease on three floors of the building at 19 East Jackson street, at a term rental of $50,000 and is equipping the space to open on Nov. 1, the article says. Dr. J. G. Berkowitz, formerly director of the Public Health institute, against which the Chicago Medical society has waged a campaign for ten years, will head the new clinic as president.

Tells of Stock Issue.

The medical journal article says Dr. Berkowitz is authority for the information that the local clinic is a subsidiary of the Delaware corporation, National Medicine, Inc., which proposes to issue 100,000 shares of stock, 50,000 of preferred stock at $5 a share to receive 6 per cent dividends. Common stock holders may receive unlimited dividends. The Delaware corporation reserves the right to operate anywhere in the United States and in foreign countries. Dr. Berkowitz refused to comment yesterday on the plans for the clinic.

Editorially the journal says of "such plans" that "they will hasten, if not precipitate, the coming of government schemes of medical practice." The first meeting of the Chicago Medical society's council is next Tuesday night. Some action on the new clinic is expected at that meeting.

Report Lilyan Tashman Is Safe After Operation

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Lilyan Tashman, film actress, was reported out of danger today after an operation for appendicitis yesterday afternoon at Harbor sanitarium. She was able to talk by telephone to her husband, Edmund Lowe, who is in Hollywood. In answer to her husband's question if he should drop his work and fly here, she replied emphatically in the negative.

CHICAGO CANAL DISTRICT AGAIN ASKS R. F. C. LOAN

While Southwest Gets Day's Chief Help.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Chicago sanitary district, through Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], filed a new brief today with the Reconstruction Finance corporation in support of its application for a 36 million dollar loan to finance three sewage disposal stations ordered built by the U. S. Supreme court in the lake diversion case.

Officials of the corporation, according to Representative Sabath, have expressed the opinion that those projects are not "self-liquidating." The data submitted today, he said, is to show that they are.

With Representative Sabath was Theodore E. Rein, an attorney retained by the sanitary district. Mr. Rein stated his brief showed revenues accruing to the sanitary district from sale of fertilizer, gas and power, leasing of piers, wharves and land, and sale of land, gravel and broken limestone. The data, he said, is based on a "reasonable calculation of increased population in the sanitary district over a considerable period of years."

Grants Some Other Loans.

Meanwhile, the corporation today granted three self-liquidating project loans involving an aggregate of nearly six and a half million dollars. All of the advances are to be made through the corporation's purchase of bonds of the city or organization to which the loan was made.

The largest of the three was an advance of $5,743,000 to the Middle Rio Grande flood control district for the development of a flood control and irrigation project near Albuquerque, N. M.

The other loans were advances of $645,620 to Ogden, Utah, for improvements in the city's water supply system and $50,000 to Prescott, Ariz., for construction of two dams designed to increase the city's reservoir capacity. The three advances, according to the corporation, are expected to provide immediate direct employment to 2,515 men for periods ranging from three years on the Albuquerque project to two months on the Prescott dams.

California Gets Largest.

The day's loans brought the number of self-liquidating loans thus far made by the corporation to six. Of those the first and largest, 40 millions, went to the southern California metropolitan water district for construction of the Los Angeles-Boulder Dam aqueduct. In addition to those made today and the 40 million advance to Los Angeles the corporation has granted 13 millions for a bridge across the Mississippi near New Orleans and $105,000 for a municipal power plant in Madison, S. D.

California is seeking two other huge federal advances in addition to the 40 millions already received. An application for 75 millions to construct a bridge from San Francisco to Oakland is being pushed daily by a corps of Californians who are living in local hotels and holding frequent conferences with officials of the finance corporation.

Los Angeles Asks for More.

Similar conferences are being held almost every day by representatives of the Los Angeles power and light department, who are urging action on an application of 52 millions to construct a power transmission line from Boulder dam to the coast.

In connection with the proposed 8 million dollar loan to China to finance the export of 15 million bushels of hard Pacific northwest wheat, Gardner Cowles, a director of the corporation, stated today that the plan is still before legal experts of the finance corporation. He reiterated former statements that the corporation is "favorably disposed" toward granting the loan to China, the only question being whether the corporation can make such an advance under the law.

2 DEFENDANTS FLEE; ROBBERY TRIAL GOES ON

Angelo Falco, 18 years old, and Leo Manfredi, 17 years old, fled yesterday during a recess in their trial before Judge Thomas J. Lynch. The charge was robbery with a gun. At liberty in bond of $10,000 each, the defendants failed to appear when court was reconvened.

The state case had been completed before the recess. Falco, Manfredi, and a third defendant, Frank Damore, 18 years old, were charged with the robbery of a bakery at 320 Kensington avenue on July 6. The owner, Mrs. Mary De Facci, had taken the stand and identified Falco and Manfredi as the bandits. Her identification was corroborated by other witnesses.

After the disappearance of the two defendants, Attorney Thaddeus C. Toudor, representing Damore, moved that his client be dismissed as witnesses had failed to identify him. Judge Lynch refused and ordered that the trial be completed as though all three defendants were present. In case of a guilty finding and sentence, the missing defendants may be sent to prison to start their sentence as soon as they are arrested, Judge Lynch said. The attorney for Falco and Manfredi said that his clients had acted without conferring with him.

Women Study in Social Service Training School

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ethel McDowell, director of social service of the Municipal court, as she lectured yesterday to members of volunteer training class of Chicago Council of Social Agencies at 18 South Michigan avenue.

100 in Class

A classroom at 18 South Michigan avenue was crowded yesterday with a hundred women who have volunteered their services without pay for the administration of poor relief during the coming winter. Twice a week throughout October they will attend a class which is intended to train them in the essentials of social service. This class is conducted by the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

"At the conclusion of their course the 100 women will be ready to offer at least two half days a week to any of the 203 organizations that compose the Chicago Council of Social Agencies," said Mrs. Edward O. Brown, director of the volunteer bureau. "They will select the type of work they wish to enter, such as clinics, relief stations, motor service, case work, or clerical work."

Each class meeting is to be addressed by a leader in social service work. Yesterday Miss Ethel McDowell, director of the social service department of the Municipal court, told of the work of the new Woman's court opened this week. Another class will be started in November.

'Dynamite Pete' Cunniff Is Freed in Bombing Quiz

Peter (Dynamite Pete) Cunniff, 53 years old, arrested for questioning concerning the bombing of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty, was released yesterday. A youth was blinded and a young mother seriously injured by the bomb. Cunniff admitted he had exploded more than 100 bombs between 1904 and 1914, but told police he retired from the racket 18 years ago.

AMERICAN MINING ENGINEER BARED AS PARIS DUELIST

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—John G. Hopper, American mining engineer, told the police today that he was one of three men who engaged in two duels last month in the forest of Marly-le-Roi.

After his conversation with the police he said he understood the whole thing would be dropped unless his two opponents in the duels pressed the matter. He also expressed the hope that there would not be a third duel before the trouble blows over.

In discussing the encounters several days ago Mr. Hopper said the challenge concerned a question of business honor. In the first duel he wounded his opponent, whose second charged that Mr. Hopper had fired prematurely. Thereupon he faced the second in another duel. Both were wounded, Mr. Hopper in the hip.

BENDIX MOVES ART TREASURES TO SOUTH BEND

All furniture and art objects have been removed from the former Potter Palmer house at 1350 Lake Shore drive by Vincent Bendix, the present owner of the mansion. Most of the art treasures and old furniture have been taken to the Bendix residence at South Bend. The South Bend house, once the Studebaker residence, was purchased some years ago by Mr. Bendix. He uses it only occasionally for entertaining friends. Mr. Bendix is now on his way to Europe. He will return early in November.

FORMER EMPLOYE CHARGES STONE BOOK JUGGLING

Subsidiaries Sold to Each Other for "Profits."

The method by which entries on the books of H. O. Stone & Co., now defunct real estate investment concern, are alleged to have been juggled to produce mythical profits was brought to light in testimony yesterday in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward. Henry F. Norcott, president of the company, and eight associates are on trial before a jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

William O. Hillberg, once an accountant for the Stone company, testified that the company and nine subsidiaries operated with only one set of books, kept by the parent company. He named the companies as H. O. Stone & Co., H. O. Stone Investment Trust, H. O. Stone Investment company, H. O. Stone Assets company, H. O. Stone Securities company, Stone Securities company, H. O. Stone Management company, H. O. Stone Subdividers, Inc.; H. O. Stone Finance company, and a second H. O. Stone Finance company, the latter classified as a stock selling organization.

Sell to Each Other.

George S. Wolf, a public accountant who made an audit of the Stone books in 1930, and one of his employés, Raymond B. Reed, followed Hillberg to the stand as government witnesses. They testified that bonds of the company were "sold" from one of the Stone companies to another and "commissions" from the sales entered as profits on the books.

Reed testified he had found $206,274 of such commissions entered on the books as profit. One item of $75,000 in commissions had been credited to H. O. Stone & Co. from the H. O. Stone Finance company, he said.

Wolf told of a $39,000 profit entry growing out of a deal of H. O. Stone & Co. with Claude C. Niles, a vice president of the concern. The company gave Niles $365,000 worth of debentures for his contract as head of the subdivision department, and credited itself with a $39,000 commission on the "sale," the witness said.

Couldn't Spend "Profits."

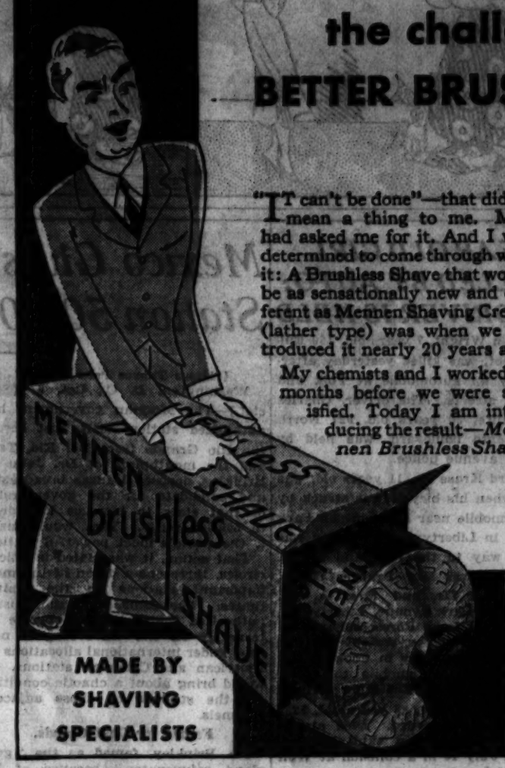
"I told Packer [Charles D. Packer Jr., treasurer of the company and a defendant] that he knew it wasn't free cash and that he could not spend it," Reed testified.

"It would be hard to prove that," Packer answered, according to the testimony of Reed.

H. J. Tansley, secretary of the Chicago Title and Trust company, which acted as trustee for a Stone bond issue in 1928, was called to the stand by the government and testified he had been unable to get a profit and loss statement from the Stone officials, despite repeated requests.

"I accepted the challenge to make a BETTER BRUSHLESS SHAVE"

Bill Mennen



"It can't be done"—that didn't mean a thing to me. Men had asked me for it. And I was determined to come through with it: A Brushless Shave that would be as sensationally new and different as Mennen Shaving Cream (lather type) was when we introduced it nearly 20 years ago.

My chemists and I worked 13 months before we were satisfied. Today I am introducing the result—Mennen Brushless Shave!

It's a product with four fundamental improvements. Look 'em over. Check 'em over—get a tube today. . . If you don't think that Mennen Brushless lives up to my statements—send it back to me and I'll refund your money. No "ifs" or "buts."

THE FOUR IMPROVEMENTS

1. Made for tough beards and tender skins—even men with special shaving difficulties get a comfort shave!
2. Washes off easily—not greasy.
3. Economical—spreads easily, gives more shaves per tube and per blade.
4. Tones up your skin—leaves it supple—smooth—healthy!

Who sheds the blood in the battle of bargains?

A WARNING on your market page

Today the danger of "bargain" tires is more acute for a reason which you can check by turning to the market page. The prices of cotton and crude rubber—the raw materials used in making tires—are much higher now than they were four months ago. With raw materials going up, quality must sink still lower in tires built with only price in mind.

FOR months now the public has been bombarded with "bargains." Cheap goods at cheap prices. Quality sliced, value ignored, to "beat competition to the business."

In most lines of business the only penalty of buying shoddy bargains is disappointment.

But it may cost you more than cash to buy shoddy tires.

When the struggle for lower tire prices whittles down the quality—when safety is sacrificed to chisel a few cents out of the selling price—the customer stakes his tiny saving of money against possible loss of life and limb—against injury, or worse, for himself and his family.

The unwary purchaser who thinks "all tires are about alike" and buys only on price.

Because Goodyear buys the most materials, because Goodyear builds the most tires, it is plain common sense to say that Goodyear is able to put the greatest value and the greatest safety into every tire which bears the Goodyear name.

This is no news to millions of car owners. They know the truth of these statements so well that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind — and have for seventeen years.

Doesn't sensible caution as well as thrift put this question in your mind: "Why take chances with any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more?"

In this year of screaming prices the tire which outsells any other tire in the world, which occupies by far the largest bracket of Goodyear production—is not its lowest price tire—not even its next lowest price tire—but its world-famed, time-tested, high-quality standard Goodyear All-Weather. In this year, as in every year for the past seventeen, the public places goodness above price and buys the best-known and surest value.

DARWIN KINGSLEY LIFE INSURANCE OFFICIAL, DIES

Had Served New York Company 50 Years.

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Darwin P. Kingsley, chairman of the board of the New York Life Insurance company and for many years its president, died tonight at his home at 660 Park avenue after a long illness. Mr. Kingsley was in his seventy-sixth year.

Until two years ago he had been an active figure in the affairs of the company that he had served for more than fifty years. At that time poor health caused his retirement from the active duties of president.

He continued, however, to take an active interest in the company as chairman of the board of directors. Last July he came in from his summer home at Easthampton, L. I., to attend a board meeting. Soon after he returned to his Long Island residence his condition grew worse and since then he had been confined to his bed. But within a week of his death he recovered enough strength to return to his New York home.

Mr. Kingsley was married on Dec. 3, 1895, to Miss Josephine I. McCall, who survives him. He was married first to Miss Mary M. Mitchell, and one son, Walter Pearl Kingsley, was born of that union. Four other children, Miss Hope Kingsley, Mrs. Ralph H. Boot and Darwin P. Kingsley Jr., all of New York, and John McCall Kingsley of Berlin, Germany, also survive.

All the members of the family except John were with him when he died.

ALLEGED FAKE DOCTOR SEIZED WITH HIS BRIDE

Francis Howard Punchard, 45 years old, who says he received a degree in medicine at Oxford university and claims to be a descendant of British nobility, was arrested with his bride in his apartment at 1062 Bryn Mawr avenue yesterday and held on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

Judd E. Edwards, head of the state department of registration and education, informed police that Punchard has been sought since 1930, when he disappeared as an investigation of his credentials was under way. Police also learned that Minneapolis police have been looking for a Francis H. Punchard on a charge of wife abandonment. Punchard used the name Dr. Francis Howard Clark.

Edwards said that several prominent Chicago women had complained of being victimized by Punchard, who pretended to treat them for cancer with "radium capsules." The capsules were found to contain no radium. Mrs. Punchard, who is 25 years old, was questioned by police and then released. She denounced her husband when she learned that he was not licensed to practice medicine.

7 YEAR OLD GIRL KILLED BY AUTO; DRIVER IS HELD

Evelyn Wright, 7 years old, 160 Fulton street, was killed yesterday afternoon by an automobile at Polk and Paulina streets. The driver, Charles A. Saliture, 30 years old, 927 North Sacramento boulevard, was held by Warren avenue police.

Edward Krase Jr., 11 years old, was killed when his bicycle was struck by an automobile near his home on Park avenue, in Libertyville. The boy was on his way to the Rockland school. The driver was Miss Frances Waldo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Waldo, 214 Park avenue, Libertyville, a student at Lake Forest college.

The deaths of the Wright girl and four others yesterday in Cook county increased the automobile toll since last Jan. 1 to 867. The other victims:

Mrs. Cora Tuttle, 38 years old, 2230 Washington boulevard. Died at the county hospital of a skull fracture suffered July 10 in a collision at Wolf road and Lawrence avenue.

Theodore Bell, 35 years old, 2232 South Dearborn street. Died in the county hospital. He was struck Wednesday by an automobile at State and 38th streets.

Henry Fisher, 57 years old, 25 West 103d street, a carpenter. Died last night at the county hospital. He was struck by an automobile Saturday at South Halsted and 124th streets, Calumet Park.

G. E. Sanders, 38 years old, 6226 Eberhart avenue. Fatally injured last night when he was struck near his home by an automobile driven by Mrs. Myrtle Berhan, 11313 Parnell avenue. He died in the Bellevue hospital.

Arthur Munyon, 61 years old, Aurora grocer, was killed yesterday in a collision at Garfield and Highland avenues, Aurora.

Mary Evelyn Hussey, 12 years old, 6835 Clyde avenue, whose skull was fractured Monday when she was hit by an automobile driven by Miss Margaret Nolte, 18 years old, 7439 Yates avenue, daughter of the president of the Robert W. Hunt company, engineers, 175 West Jackson boulevard, was reported recovering last night in Jackson Park hospital.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE TRIBUNE recently published the announcement of the death of Mrs. Joseph W. Fifer of Bloomington, Ill. In the story it was stated that Mrs. Fifer was "the first lady of the state in 1880." This was an error, as Joseph W. Fifer was elected governor of Illinois in 1888 and not in 1880.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Mexico Gives Brinkley Radio Station 500,000 Watts Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Mexican government has authorized station XER, just across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, Tex., and the mouthpiece of Dr. John R. Brinkley, deposed Kansas broadcaster and candidate for the governorship of that state to increase its power to 500,000 watts. That would make it the world's most powerful station.

That action, it was stated in official circles, threatens a dozen of the most important stations in the United States. The same Mexican decision authorized the station to operate alternately on two wave lengths now used under international allocations by American and Canadian stations. It would bring about a chaotic condition for the stations on those adjacent channels.

Famed for Goat Glands.

Dr. Brinkley, famed as the "goat gland rejuvenator," because of his broadcast over former station KFKB at Milford, Kas., stopped by the federal radio commission two years ago, built XER at Villa Acuna, Mexico. Last year it had 75,000 watts, establishing it as the second highest powered station in the world. With 500,000 watts it would have ten times the power of the biggest stations in the United States.

Because of his medical broadcasts, soliciting business for his gland rejuvenation hospital at Milford and for a chain of drug stores he operated, the radio commission orderd the cancellation of Dr. Brinkley's radio license. Subsequently the Kansas medical board revoked his medical license. He built the Mexican station not only to enable him to carry on his radio advertising, but to campaign for the governorship of Kansas on an independent ticket.

A state department protest several months ago led to a report that Brinkley had sold out to a "Mexican corporation." It is generally believed, however, that he placed his stock in a corporation and still exercises full control.

Station's Tax Increased.

The new grant to XER signed by Miguel M. Acosta, Mexican minister of communications and public works, authorizes the station to use the 655 kilocycle channel also.

In consideration of the new grant the Mexican government specified that the station would be called on to pay a bounty of about $15 per day for the privilege of using the new high power, as against its present tax of about $5 per day.

Engineers said stations operating on channels perhaps within 50 kilocycles of those used by XER would feel the blanketing effects of its tremendous power. Among others it might mean that stations W-G-N and WMAQ in Chicago would be interferred with.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—An estate of more than $7,300,000, on which the amount of duty payable is $3,550,000, was left by the late Lord Inchcape, shipping magnate, who died at Monte Carlo on May 23. The chief bequest in his will provides $345,500 annually, free of all duties, for his widow, Lady Inchcape. In addition she will receive the use of the London residence or any of the magnate's Scottish estates for life. At her death the estates go to Viscount Glenapp, a son.

Other legacies include a year's wages to all indoor and outdoor servants in Lord Inchcape's employ. Sums of $17,500 each to his nephews and nieces, and $3,500 each to captains of the Peninsular and Oriental steamships,. Partners and business associates also are provided for in the will.

Lady Inchcape ranks among the richest women in England. Lady Yule and Miss Yule recently inherited $37,950,000; Lady Houston, $21,200,000; Lady Grannard, $7,380,000; Lady Louis Mountbatten, $6,900,000; Lady Ludlow, Miss Jean Peacock, and Mrs. St. George, about $3,450,000 each.

Furniture Store Robbed the Tenth Time This Year

The General Furniture store, 1709 West Chicago avenue, was robbed last night of $250. Employes said it was the tenth time the place had been robbed this year. The last previous robbery was five days ago when $300 was taken. Two men stepped from an automobile shortly before the store closed last night and entering, produced revolvers. Miss Bernice Blumenthal, 4728 Ellis avenue, was about to put the cash in the safe, preparatory to leaving for home. The robbers got it.

PRESS LOUISIANA SENATE PRIMARY FRAUD CHARGES

New Orleans, La., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Operatives of a special senate elections subcommittee started out today on an independent investigation into charges of fraud and corruption in the Democratic primary in which John H. Overton defeated the veteran Senator Edwin S. Broussard.

The operatives were sent out over the protest of Senator Huey P. Long, counsel for Overton, who had requested the committee at public hearing to drop the inquiry since Overton's opposition had not produced any evidence to support charges of fraud and corruption.

But the subcommittee, composed of Senators Tom Connally of Texas, chairman, and Sam Bratton of New Mexico, Democrats, said they were not investigating an election, but were here to determine if the primary for a United States senator had been tainted by fraud.

The chairman asked counsel for the petitioners if they were prepared to produce evidence of the allegation that ten per cent of the salaries of state employes had been demanded for campaign funds. Both Attorney Edward Rightor, representing Broussard, and Burt Henry, chairman of the honest election league, said they would require time to produce the evidence.

Long charged the opposition group with offering money for testimony before the senate committee. He said Edward Gleason, a New Orleans politician, told him he knew a man who had been offered a thousand dollars to testify to election frauds, "$50 down and $950 later."

ROB PRIVATE BANKER OF GEMS IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Two shabbily dressed armed men invaded the luxurious twelve room apartment of Sava Kehaya, a private banker, on the tenth floor of the apartment building at 5th avenue and 88th street early tonight. They chased the banker, his wife, and his niece into a bedroom, took from $35,000 to $50,000 worth of jewelry, descended in the elevator, calmly walked away.

The intruders used the name of "Mr. Guarini," one time president of the Madison State bank, to gain admittance to the building, in which former Ambassador John W. Davis and other prominent men occupy apartments. The two daughters, aged 3 and 5, slept soundly during the robbery.

"MACHETEERS OF DEATH" ATTACK BOLIVIAN FORTS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York News.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 6.—Armed with machetes, led by an Indian guide and attacking at night, a mounted battalion of Paraguayan volunteers, calling themselves the "death machetеers," is spreading terror among the Bolivians garrisoning the line of forts along the Pilcomayo river in the disputed Chaco region.

In the last two weeks the battalion captured Fort Sorpresa, attacked three other strongholds and finally captured an outpost of the important Bolivian Fort Magarino, 155 miles west of the nearest Paraguayan fort.

The death machetеers attack at night, usually just before dawn, butcher the sentinels, attack the garrison and escape with whatever booty they find. When Bolivian cavalry is sent in pursuit the guerrillas escape by paths they have cut through the jungles before attacking. News of their recent raids came from La Paz.

Counsel for Mrs. Blanche Mae McKeever, 1540 Lake Shore drive, society matron and widow of Townsend McKeever, broker, will appear before Superior Judge Paul McWilliams today to oppose a $50,000 damage suit filed a year ago by Miss Mae G. Wilford, 1429 North Clark street, a dressmaker. Miss Wilford's declaration charged Mrs. McKeever with slander. Yesterday Mrs. McKeever filed a general demurrer to the suit. Arguments on the demurrer will be heard today.

Fear Battalion of Troops Perished on Treasure Hunt

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Galapagos dispatches said today that Luis Parades, territorial chief, and a battalion of troops left the Island of Chatham for Barrington island 22 days ago and are long overdue. It was feared they perished at sea. The party was accompanied by an Englishman named Hager, who arrived at Chatham two weeks previously with what he described as plans indicating the whereabouts of a pirate treasure. The party left in a small sailboat.

Short Stories Reviewed for Readers Today

Sylvia Townsend Warner One of the Authors.

"The Salvation," by Sylvia Townsend Warner. [Viking.] Published today.

"The Wild Streak," by Margaret Emerson Bailey. [Putnam.]

SYLVIA TOWNSEND WARNER, the author of those delightful fantasies "Lolly Willowes" and "Mr. Fortune's Maggot," and "Opus 7," a sardonic and whimsical poem commentary on life, has for the moment concentrated her attention upon short stories.

SYLVIA WARNER.

"The Salutation" contains fifteen stories of varying lengths and purposes. The titular short story is about a hundred pages long and can be classed as a short novel as well. It concerns an Englishman who carries a strange, inexplicable sorrow with him. In his wanderings over the earth he comes upon the Spanish house of Salutation, where the Spanish widow of an Englishman lives alone. Here he rests for many months until he sees the terrible approaching reality of a dream he has had. The story is somewhat vague, but on the whole is successful in the communication of weirdness, the trancelike filming of reality.

The other long story, called "Elinor Barley," is written quickly, with sureness and a clipped reality. It has a certain drab exactness, a limited but polished realism that is reminiscent of George Moore's "Esther Waters." It tells the story of a beautiful widow who in emotional sickness crumples before the needs of the flesh. Her tragedy ends in a final gesture of bravery.

"Perdita" is a lovely, delicately tinted pastel of a young princess who lost her cat. The whimsy and humor here represent Miss Warner in a vein that many of her readers prefer. "This Our Brother" skirts the edge of broad humor and ends on a sardonic note. "Early One Morning," "Emily," and "Some World Far from Ours" are stories that combine both the art of short, penetrating characterization and the creation of a curious, dim, fleeting mood.

In general Miss Warner does a better job with her shorter stories than with her longer stories. In "The Salvation," though it is true that the story is ultimately effective, the means by which she arrives at this effect are not always in themselves the best. The point of view, for instance, in "The Salutation" changes with amazing rapidity and with considerable confusion. Her technical method is implicative rather than explicit.

Margery Latimer, author of "The Guardian Angel and Other Stories," employs somewhat the same implicative method that Miss Warner uses. The title story, a long one, tells of the curious and deteriorating effect the friendship of an older and psychic woman has upon a young girl. The characterization of Fleta, the strange older woman, is ineffective. The reader never once feels that she herself is possessed of any great or magnetic charm.

Paradoxically enough, however, the atmosphere of mysterious other worldly forces, of tense electric contacts between the two women, of weird and horrible corruption, is indisputably real and unforgettable.

Margery Latimer in her shorter sketches attains at times the ethereal radiance of mood that made Katherine Mansfield such a brilliant artist. Had Miss Latimer lived, from the indications of this book, it seems unquestionable that her art in the short story would have achieved an exquisite perfection.

"Stallion from the North," by Thomas Rourke, contains twelve stories very different indeed from the stories of Miss Townsend and Miss Latimer. The settings are all in Central America and the stories without exception are short. In this book is full blooded male vitality, controlled and tempered by a delicate awareness of artistic form. Though the writing is terse, brilliant and vivid, not unlike Hemingway in many respects, it is intensely suggestive, with nuances that imply there is something more than mere competent narrative, more than direct unequivocating exposition. Discriminating readers who like the exotic setting, the sure and poised touch of an artist who knows his possibilities and limitations [there is never any pretentiousness in these stories], will find in Thomas Rourke what they seek in modern short story writers.

"The Wild Streak," by Margaret Emerson Bailey, author of "White Christmas," contains stories of medium length dealing with the wild streak in each main character when faced by a crisis. This theme underlying the book gives the whole a unity that is unusual and effective. The title story is perhaps the best. It deals with a strong will and the disaster it brings upon itself. The writing is simply and competent and the stories are almost uniformly workmanlike.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

There is always one member of every family—and sometimes more—who would appreciate a full length mirror installed on her bedroom door. A nice present, this, for the holiday time. It doesn't take many hours to have such a mirror, especially manufactured to fit on doors, installed. Your local carpenter can secure one for you or you can order it through a material supply house. It is attached by a wood moulding over the face of the door.

Swedish-American Women Will Honor Miss Jane Addams

Fifteen Swedish-American women's organizations will honor Miss Jane Addams, winner of the Nobel Peace prize, at a reception and luncheon to be held at the Drake hotel on Saturday, Oct. 15. More than 1,000 women are expected to attend.

Representatives from the Swedish and Norwegian consulates will bring Miss Addams the greetings from their countries and Mayor Cermak is expected to speak for Chicago. Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson will be the official speaker for the women. A musical program will be presented by Mme. Marie Zidenius Zendt.

Among the women who are to attend will be Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Judge Mary Bartelme, Mrs. Harvey Fox, Mrs. Murry Nelson, Miss Mary E. McDowell, Miss S. Breckinridge, Dr. Alice Hamilton and Dr. Rachelle Yarros.

In addition to the Swedish-American women's groups, members of other women's organizations will attend including the Chicago Woman's club, Woman's City club, Juvenile Protective association, and the International League for Peace and Freedom. Mrs. Charles H. Rosberg is chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Olsson, Mrs. John E. Ericson, Mrs. John A. Christenson, and Mrs. Othelia Myhrman.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

COLD BLOODED MURDER.

"This one's a puzzler, professor," said Sergt. Reynolds, opening his notebook. "I found some excited tenants in 826 Jones building, who had phoned headquarters after hearing a shot in Palmer's office and discovering a girl lying on the floor shot through the heart.

"Just after I got her into the ambulance," he continued, "I found Palmer on the second floor. Here's his statement:

"'I was sitting at my desk there facing the door when a masked man, gun in hand, entered, and ordered me to step around in front. My secretary, Ruth Regal, was back of that partition. I did as commanded. Then he cursed violently and said if I didn't give him $5,000 at once he'd blow my head off.

"'At this, Ruth rushed over and stood right in front of me. The intruder said if she didn't move he'd let her have it. I tried to persuade her but she wouldn't budge. Then, I stepped quickly to one side and jumped for him just as he fired and shot her right through the heart. I almost got him before he reached the hall. There he turned on me and I'd be dead now if his gun hadn't jammed. When he rounded a corner of the corridor I went after him, chased him down the firestairs and lost him somewhere on the second floor.'"

"Well, I'll . . . be damned! I got it now, professor," said Reynolds. "Gee, I was dumb!"

New Costume Jewelry Turns to Rock Candy

Bright Confection Motif of Decorations.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHAT next? . . . weary costume jewelry designers have invaded the drug scented interior of the old fashioned apothecary shop and marched out with a brand new inspiration for some glittering and very distinctive jewelry to decorate the ever appreciative shopper. Nothing less than the sparkling sticks of rock candy has supplied a new motif for some of the best looking jewelry a jaded collector could ever hope to see.

Huge bumpy blobs of crystal clear stuff that glitters entrancingly are strung in close formation on a tight rubber string to make the new bracelet . . . round, rough, nubs of these sparkling, amazingly clear glass beads, cut with all the skill and care accorded similar real crystal beads, form quite the largest clips ever welcomed into the cases of smart shops.

Long necklaces strung of these rock candy like looking uneven beads are the most effective and dramatic accents you could wish to wear with your velvet and broadcloth gowns.

Some slightly mad designer dabbled in color and produced this rocky rough jewelry in a gorgeous ruby red and deep emerald green . . . the gal that knows her bracelets wears three of these rock candy bracelets, one in red, the second in green, and the third in sparkling crystal . . . and the result is literally dangerous to the unprotected eye. This super glass jewelry is so new and decorative that it is breath taking and it should be irresistible to properly fashion wise bracelet enthusiasts.

Another fresh inspiration is the colorful multi-strand bead necklaces that are made with thousands of beads strung together and fastened with a buckle clasp . . . the combinations are simply grand . . . frosty silver beads are held with a dull silver clasp . . . tortoise shell beads with dull gold . . . black and white beads with a bright gold buckle . . . vermilion, jade green, and ivory contrasted with clasps of either silver or gold.

Perfectly stunning bronze multi-strand necklaces are the hit of the fashion year . . . they are clasped around the best brown dresses, accenting new high necklines with a shimmering bronze metal buckle and are complete knockouts. As an added decorative idea, the clasps are ready for the monograms of the buyers for a small extra sum.

If you think that bracelets couldn't command any greater importance than they held during the last season, you should see the new handcuff affairs . . . the wide, flat, smooth bands of copper, silver, and gold, with all sorts of fashionable emphasis on the copper tones.

Look for the feather light but giant outsized models of crystal, in all flaming and pastel colors as well as a translucent white . . . with these you cover as much of your arm as you dare . . . the more the better, according to the fashion parades in Paris this fall.

Something else to be bothered about . . . the new half sleeve gloves as sponsored by Schiaparelli . . . they come in black and brown of doeskin and are made with the widest, deepest, longest cuff ever designed . . . they are even wide and big enough to fit over the bulkiest coat or suit sleeves.

Fashions of Autumn Demand Smooth Line at Rear of Neck

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Last year, the year before and a few more before that you may have been able to get away with that lump on the back of the neck. But if you've got ever so small a one cuddling between the shoulder blades in this year's clothes you're just going to be out of luck. With the neckline crowding up there, as fashion dictates the high neckline and the raised shoulders, it's going to be just too bad if that upper back of yours is going to carry around more weight than it needs to.

Luckily, this is not hard fat to get off, because it is so superfluous. If the "wad" is in an incipient stage perhaps you can shoo it off with a better carriage. It's poor posture, of course, that produces this fat. It's continued poor posture that lets it fatten and spread. So, if you'd just pull up your chest, pull in your abdomen and keep that back of yours straight you'd be in a fair way never to meet with this figure liability.

If there's a big lump there, you'll have to do more than stand correctly and walk smartly. You'll have to put the lump to work on a few stiff exercises. The useless, unornamental mass shouldn't be encouraged as a settler. What it does to a back is to put on just about ten years.

You can do one exercise alone, if you promise yourself to do it often enough and get this wad off in short time. But you have to do this single exercise morning and night, remember, and twenty times at a session. You can stretch yourself out on the floor; stretch yourself as long as you can. Then, bring your head forward on the chest without the aid of your arms. Do this ten times. Then flop over, face down, and come back with your head again, as far as you can. You'll feel that fat lump "unsettling" before you're at this long.

Or, if you prefer to take your exercise standing, you may stand and push the head back far as you can, then forward on the chest. Do this slowly as if you were resisting a weight. But do it often and often for the sake of that nice back of yours to be.

A Velvet Evening Gown a Necessity for Chic in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A velvet evening frock, with an accompanying indoor jacket of the same material, will be found in the wardrobe of every smart woman this winter. Velvet is the supreme fabric of Paris fashions after dark.

There are velvets and velvets. Whereas formerly velvet meant a supremely beautiful and excessive frangile material, this winter it means about a hundred different things. There remain the chiffon velvets of former years, and the transparent artificial velvets, but there are new Lyons velvets that are guaranteed not to crush nor to show wear. There are thousands of dresses of the new crinkled velvet, of cobra-crinkled velvet, marked like the skin of the serpent, of velveteen, of jersey velvet, of ribbed silk velvet, of brocaded velvet, and of crossbarred velvet.

The Molyneux ensemble shown in our sketch is made of the new Lyons uncrushable velvet, in a beautiful dark red color. [Dark colors are going to be exceedingly fashionable this winter.] The dress of this frock has the new long bodice and squared top. Notice that the bodice comes to the top of the hips, where the moderately belled skirt begins. A sash of dark red and palest green velvet is placed at the normal waistline, and the double shoulder straps are crossed to make X's in front. The jacket is of black velvet, fitted in the Victorian manner, and with very full ruffle sleeves from a dropped shoulder line. It has tailored revers and collar.

First Orchestra Concert Dates Social Season

Takes Place of Opera as Formal Opening.

BY JUDITH CABS.

IN years gone past the official opening of the social season each year was the premier performance of the grand opera season, but this year the season may be said to be opening next week with the first symphony concert of the season at Orchestra hall.

The first concert is to be on Thursday night—the evening subscribers have an advantage over the Friday afternoon ones again this year in having the program first each week—and already all the boxholders have their parties invited for dinner and the concert, so it will be a gala evening.

Mr. Voegeli tells me that few of the Friday subscribers have given up their seats this year, in spite of conditions, and that practically all the ones who have had boxes for years have them again this season. Friday tickets, you know, are passed on from one generation to another, and it has been almost impossible to buy a ticket at most of the Friday concerts.

The evening concerts this year will be more popular than ever, probably, and the audiences will be more "dressy" than ever, for many hostesses who used to repay their social obligations with dinner and box parties at the opera will give parties at the Thursday concerts this year.

"Ginny" Carpenter Has a Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Champain Hill of Fort Worth, Tex., are to be congratulated on the birth of a daughter yesterday afternoon at the Passavant hospital. Mrs. Hill, the former "Ginny" Carpenter, is the daughter of John Alden Carpenter. When we talked to the proud grandfather yesterday it was too soon after the baby was born to secure any information about what Mr. and Mrs. Hill plan to name their daughter, and we would not hazard a guess on such a personal subject, but friends last night said the baby would be called Rue Carpenter Hill after her grandmother, the late Mrs. John Carpenter.

Three of the best known women's clubs in the city, all of which meet at the Fortnightly on Bellevue place, will have their opening meetings this month, the Fortnightly next Thursday; the Friday club on the 21st, and the Contemporary club on the 24th. Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum is president of the Fortnightly; Mrs. William A. Nitze of the Friday club, and Miss Martha Sarver of the Contemporary club. All three clubs object strenuously to having anything in the papers about their regular meetings so we respect their traditions and never publish anything about any but the open meetings.

Miss Kinney Bride Today.

The second wedding in less than two weeks in the Henry H. Porter family is taking place today in Taylorville, Ill., when Miss Mary Kinney becomes the bride of Henry Homes Porter Jr.

The service is to be read at 3:30 o'clock in the drawing room of the residence of Miss Kinney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kinney, by the Rev. Theodore C. Hume of Chicago in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends.

ADVENTURE? IT'S TO BE FOUND AT COOKERY SCHOOL

Mrs. I. M. Chitwood Will Lead Tribune Classes.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

Does the thought of concocting billowing soufflés, creating puffy popovers, and conjuring up six inch angel foods leave you inwardly quaking? Or does the threat of an approaching bridge luncheon throw you into a panic? Then give a cheer, for whether you are a kitchen artist of many years' standing or a puzzled newlywed with a critical husband to fill, the second annual CHICAGO TRIBUNE School of Cookery, which opens its doors Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 25, will have something to fit your needs and enlist your enthusiasm.

MARY MEADE.

Why so sure? First, and most important, because Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, nationally recognized cookery teacher and foods authority, who last year so successfully conducted the first cooking school ever presented by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will again take charge and in coöperation with Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE cooking editor, will bring to Chicago women during three eventful weeks the latest in cookery methods, the most up to date in menu planning, and the most delicious and novel of recipes gleaned from all over the world.

Has Conducted 270 Schools.

Mrs. Chitwood, who won the applause of thousands last year by her deft demonstrations, original ideas, clear explanations and above all her contagious enthusiasm for the adventures of cooking, received her training at the Boston School of Cookery and the George Peabody school of Nashville, earning degrees from both institutions. In addition she has conducted more than 270 successful cooking schools in all parts of the United States.

Reason No. 2 for our enthusiasm is the big things we are hearing about the entertainment features which will open each of the 12 cooking school sessions. This feature again will be enjoyed during the afternoon intermissions. Outstanding artists from the radio, opera, and theater world, many of whom appeared with Mrs. Chitwood last year, already have offered their services, according to Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies at the cooking school, who is planning an even finer entertainment program than the one which delighted the 100,000 cookery school goers in 1931. At the opening of each session, there will be community singing led by choral leaders who plan to make caroling a lark.

Prizes Again to Be Given.

In addition, valuable prizes of food and household equipment, worth hundreds of dollars in all, are again to be given away to guests of the school on a daily as well as a weekly basis.

To make the cooking school most practical for Chicago women, it will be split into three divisions, each one to be held in a different part of the city and each consisting of four consecutive afternoon sessions.

On the four consecutive afternoons starting Tuesday, Oct. 25, meetings will be held at the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue, to accommodate women of the south side. The next week, on the four consecutive afternoons starting Tuesday, Nov. 1, Guyon's Paradise ballroom, situated on the west side at 4000 Washington boulevard, promises to be filled to capacity. And finally, on the four consecutive afternoons starting Tuesday, Nov. 8, the women of the north side will pack the Aragon ballroom at 1100 Lawrence avenue.

Sessions to Start at 1 P. M.

In addition, there are three things to remember—the cooking school doors will be open at least one hour before the session opens, but will close once the lesson has begun. Each day's session will start promptly at 1 p. m. It is better to be early than to be too late. And lastly, no two of the 12 sessions will be the same.

A SOUTHERNER TAKES HIS CORN BREAD STRAIGHT

Fancy "Fixings" Are Left for Northerners.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

If you come from down Dixie way the mention of corn bread probably will bring back memories of the days when lunch and dinner weren't complete without a generous portion of corn bread served hot from the oven. Nor, you will remember, was it the Yankee version of corn bread, or "Johnny cake," as it is called in these parts, but a simpler variety without such ingredients as sugar and white flour.

Genuine corn bread made in the southern fashion should have only four ingredients in it—corn meal, fat, salt, and water, so a certain southerner whose acquaintance with the corn bread family dates back many years informs us. People are willing to take their corn bread straight there, he ads, leaving it to the northerners to fix it up in a fancy way.

Real Corn Bread.

His own formula for what he calls real corn bread runs like this: Mix one-third teaspoon of salt and two-thirds tablespoon of melted fat with one cup of genuine waterground corn meal. Then add sufficient water to mix to a medium consistency and make into small cakes. Bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven. The waterground corn meal, he explains, can only be purchased in a few stores in Chicago. This probably is explained by the fact that, although it is more nutritious than the refined variety generally sold, it is also more perishable.

Good Old Johnny Cake.

For those who like the good old Yankee Johnny cake we suggest this recipe:

1 cup of corn meal
1 cup of flour (heaping)
1-3 cup of sugar
1 cup of sour cream
½ teaspoon of soda
1 teaspoon of salt
2 eggs unbeaten

Sift the dry ingredients together in a bowl. Add the cream, eggs, and the soda, which has been dissolved in one-eighth of a cup of hot water. Stir together well. Bake in a cake pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for the first ten minutes. Then raise the heat to 450 degrees F. and finish the baking.

HERE'S HOW THEY COOK THE OYSTER IN NEW ORLEANS

Old Creole Recipes Still Used in Cafes.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Years have passed since cavaliers sang in the narrow streets of old New Orleans or crossed rapiers in the grove of the Dueling Oaks, since laughter and gay voices were heard in the masques of the Vieux Carré, since roistering buccaneers in from the Caribbean gave voice to ribald chanties as they swaggered down Pirates' alley.

These things are of the past. But the years have been reluctant to disperse the aromas of Creole cookery. Its fragrances linger on in the cafés that dot the Vieux Carré—the oldest district of old New Orleans.

Oysters at Their Best.

Far famed are the baked oysters that are borne forth from one kitchen, enthroned on their shells which rest on a bed of hot salt and are crowned with fine golden bread crumbs. Their sauce is a nice blend of butter, minced green onion tops and parsley, lemon, salt, and cayenne, and spinach cooked with small bits of bacon.

Then there are oysters a la Reine! The notes of a journal from the past relate that "a dozen fat and succulent specimens" were used by the creator of this royal dish. We follow the memorandum further:

"On a well buttered broiler the oysters are cooked carefully for four or five minutes. They are then placed on a hot platter and over them is poured a sauce which is a savory little symphony of delight.

How the Sauce Is Made.

"It is made by blending in a saucepan two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour. Two cups of hot rich milk are added and the mixture is stirred until it boils. Then are added the yolks of four hard cooked eggs which have been smoothed with a little milk and seasoned with salt, pepper, and cayenne. The sauce is stirred until it is velvety. When it is poured, piping hot, over the broiled oysters, they must be served at once."

Another memorable oyster dish is served in the old cafés. Broiled oysters placed on toast are covered with a sauce of delicately mingled flavors—small green onions finely chopped and friend in butter with the merest hint of garlic—and for garnishing, a thin slice of bacon, sweet and crisp.

Household Hints

Glass food containers enable the housewife to tell at a glance the state of her supplies.

Tomatoes, used as a vegetable, have about the same health value as oranges and are much cheaper.

LEFTOVER MEAT CAN PROVIDE A TASTY GOULASH

BY MARY MEADE.

There's a noble dish—member of a grand old family and dear to the hearts of a race of sturdy men—that is too little known and too seldom invited to our American dinner tables. It is an epic in flavor and aroma. It is truly a Hungarian rhapsody. Its name is goulash.

While we may wish to simplify the meat requirements in our adapted goulashes, frequently just the correct amounts of left over beef, veal, and pork, bits that would none of them make a meal in themselves, may be discovered in the refrigerator and a goulash a-twinkle with flavor in the true continental style may result. The following creation, a typical Hungarian goulash, smacks of the land of cold nights and voracious appetites:

3 tbsps. finely minced onion
¼ cup butter
½ lb. pork
½ lb. veal
½ lb. beef
2 pork kidneys
1 large green pepper
1 cup stewed tomatoes
3 tbsps. minced parsley
3 cups potatoes cut in ½ in. dice
2 tsps. paprika
1 tsp. salt
Hot water

Brown the minced onion in the butter, then add the raw meat, which has been cut into ½ inch cubes. Let simmer, stirring frequently to discourage scorching and evenly brown the meat. Meanwhile remove the seeds from the green pepper and, when the meat is brown, add the minced pepper, the parsley, tomatoes, and seasoning. The crimson glint of paprika forms the gay color note for the dish. Pour over this enough boiling water just to cover, place a lid on the pan and simmer gently for 45 minutes. Meanwhile prepare the potatoes and, at the end of the simmering period, place them on top of the meat, season with a little salt, spangle heavily with paprika, and again clap on the cover, this time simmering for only half an hour, or until meat and vegetables are quite tender. Place on a hot platter and surround with piping hot noodles, spaghetti, or grained rice. Sift over the whole dish a few generous tablespoons of grated cheese, brown quickly in the oven, and serve at once.

FIFTY PER CENT BOOST THIS YEAR IN ONION CROP

A 50 per cent increase in the United States onion crop this year over the 1931 yield provides the reason why onion prices retail are approximately a cent a pound. Last year they were several times that price. More than 27,000,000 bushels is the estimate of the 1932 crop, in which Texas, New York, Michigan, and Indiana lead the twenty-one important states.

Pork Loin Roast, Chops Sell at Low Price Levels

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"Pork loin roast and pork chops are selling at price levels lower than have prevailed in Chicago retail meat stores for several years and are recommended to the housewives of Chicago as unusually economical meat buys over the coming week-end. All cuts of fresh pork have declined in price during the last two weeks.

"Round steak and pot roast of beef also are selling at unusually low levels."

WEATHER HARD ON SOUTHERN STRAWBERRIES

A decline in early strawberry receipts from the southern states next spring is indicated in surveys made of newly planted and old plant beds.

Except in the state of Florida where a 50 per cent harvest was marketed this year and where plantings for next year are back to normal, poor growing weather with frosts and drought injured the new plants in sections of Louisiana, Texas and North Carolina.

Plenty of Celery Assured for Chicagoans Until Spring

Increased acreage and more crates per acre indicate that celery will be plentiful in the Chicago market until next spring. Michigan and New York, two leading states in celery production, are marketing crates of celery by the million this fall. Improved quality is claimed for this year's crop.

"What We Like" Goes in Morse Gallery of Art

Noted Collection Housed in Lake Forest.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Dominating the bluff close by Lake Forest's southern boundary, a sharp gabled red brick building stands guard over the waves that pound the shore a hundred feet below. It is a private art gallery, but little has ever been said of it, for Charles H. Morse has never boasted of the treasures he has housed therein.

Mr. Morse added the gallery to his home, by way of a cloistered passage, two years ago because there wasn't room under one roof for all of the carved ivories, the Cranoch, the Millays, the Grutzners, the Steelers, the oddments of furniture, the jeweled boxes, the rare timepieces that he and Mrs. Morse have found these last several years at the four corners of the globe.

Mr. Morse couldn't have built a better gallery. For it represents that same rare taste that both he and Mrs. Morse have shown in collecting their treasure. Two stories high with a beamed ceiling, an indoor balcony to the north, and an out of door terrace on the east, it combines the formal with the informal. It is a museum of beauty, a haven of hospitality.

The contents are every one rare souvenirs of the past. "They represent no particular hobbies, no scientific research. They are the things Mr. Morse and I like," Mrs. Morse remarked the other day as she introduced several guests to the gallery. It is not amazing that Mr. and Mrs. Morse have known so well what they liked, but it is almost unbelievable that they have found so many things to their liking.

"This has been a peculiarly satisfying summer," she went on to explain, "for I have stayed at home—all of five months—and I have had an opportunity to reacquaint myself with so many of the things."

A good part of every year the Morses spend at their home in Munich. Ever since Mrs. Morse studied in Dresden as a girl she has had decided interest in anything German. But even with these extended vacations away from Chicago, it scarcely seems necessary for her to "reacquaint" herself with any of the collections, for she has always had their history at her fingertips. She likes best of all, perhaps, to tell about the ivories from France and England and the far east and Mr. Morse seems to take the most pride in his nineteenth century German paintings. Yet both of them share an interest in all of the pieces.

If a guest, however, were invited to name his favorite he might well experience bewilderment. He might name anything from a rare coin to the stunning portrait of that unknown German painter of the sixteenth century. This portrait is a charming work and a face never to be forgotten. Strange, indeed, that the artist's name should be lost deep in the past when his portraits have lived for centuries.

Still another selection—a very probable one in fact—might be the handsome marble jewel box that belonged 150 years ago to Ludwig II. of Bavaria, the so-called mad king. It is only one of several boxes made for Ludwig that now form a collection within the great Morse collection, but it is one of the most beautiful among them, overlaid as it is with gold and set with lapis.

Mrs. Morse considers these Bavarian extravagances among her most valuable pieces, for only few of Ludwig's famed treasures have ever come to this country. It was Ludwig's luxury that resulted in the bankruptcy of Bavaria in the 1880's. His people said he must be a madman to spend so much money, but if Ludwig was crazy, historians have reasoned, so was Louis XIV. of France.

There is a strange analogy between the two monarchs. They were both extravagant beyond measure. Their royal homes were alike in many respects. You may recall the fountain of the turtles at Versailles—there is a replica of it at Herrenchiemsee. Ludwig's palace on an island in the Chiemsee. And so with most of the other gorgeous "objets d'arts" at Versailles. They have their counterparts in the Herrenchiemsee. One king tried to outdo the other in magnificence.

The jewel box and the portrait are only suggestions of favorites. Any piece might well be chosen or any of the treasures that are being added from time to time. For, like Topsy, the Morses' collection grows and keeps on growing, but unlike Topsy it seems never to stop growing.

Parents Won't Let Daughter Have Freedom

Treat Her Like a Small Child.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Dear Miss Blake: Why, O WHY, do parents continually butt into their children's affairs? And when I say children I don't mean minors. Let them have jurisdiction over young children. It is only natural and right, but when it comes to trying to order a twenty-two year old's life I think that is going too far.

"My mother always says after I am married I shall be my own boss. And my dad says as long as I live under his roof I shall do as he says. If I should remain an old maid all my life, will they still believe it their right to order my life for me, even after I am 30, 40, 50? Don't we get a chance to live at all as we believe we ought to live?

"Not even parents know the workings of their offsprings' minds. According to them we don't know our own minds—and surely because mother did thus and so and father such and such in their own youth we oughtn't to be expected to do the same. Each life is different; no two people on earth have the same ideas, the same ambitions, the same longings. How, then, can parents expect their children to be happy [for isn't happiness for their children what they profess to be striving for?] by ordering them to do thus and so and such and such just because they once did?

"I'm not asking to go forth and conquer the cruel, cruel world or exploit myself as the less-dressed woman in the country. All I'm trying to do is be happy with a boy two years my senior who isn't making any fortune right now, but who is ambitious and has it in him to be a success in the future, and I'm not grumbling about having to wait, or that I can't go to this night club and that speakeasy. I'm satisfied—not completely, that is true, because, of course, we would be happier married—but it seems lately all I hear is "You're wasting your time with him." "He'll never support you," and all the rest of it. It makes me gnash my teeth. And I can't make them see my point of view—O, dear, no, THEY know it all, they can't be told a thing. My arguments are sensible and logical, but they claim I am blinded by love. I'm prejudiced. I DON'T WANT TO SEE THE TRUTH. So, finally, I just sit quiet and listen.

"My people are modern—or, rather, they delight in claiming they are—and I thought so myself until lately. I've heard of mothers and fathers being opposed to a prospective son-in-law or daughter-in-law, and bringing pressure upon the daughter or son, even breaking them away from each other—but, as with everything else it seemed like a bogey story until it hit home.

"If the boy were sickly, ignorant, ill-mannered, had a disreputable reputation, or was struggling for bread and water, then perhaps they might have cause to warn me to be sure of myself. But he isn't any of those things—he's the cleanest, most upright person I've ever known, and he is ambitious—and his ambition will lead him to the end of the rainbow where he will find his pot of gold—he has it in him.—L. C. J."

What do you think, parents? Do you think this 22 year old young woman might be let fly her own wings—or don't you?

Show Etchings of Washington and His Career

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The last word has not been said in honor of George Washington. Twenty remarkable etchings by twenty American etchers of distinction illustrating his life are now to be seen in the Ackermann galleries. They are published in the portfolio "The Bicentennial Pageant of George Washington" and the dramatic atmosphere which many of them possess gives weight to the title.

Arthur William Heintzelman is represented with perhaps the most thoroughly delightful and charming etching in the group, "Washington and His Mother," Washington then a boy of 14. Robert Nisbet shows us Washington a little older as "The Surveyor's Assistant." Then comes Sears Gallagher presenting us with Maj. Washington as he was on his mission to the Ohio, leaving Fort Le Bœuf after delivering Gov. Dinwiddie's message to the French.

So step by step the etchings take us through Washington's career, showing him to us as soldier, statesman, and finally retired gentleman farmer. A few of the etchings fall in their effort to be effective, but for the most part the standard of excellence is extremely high. "The Retreat from Long Island" by Levon West is brilliant. Eugene Higgins in "En Route to the First Continental Congress" achieves a superb result.

After the close of the revolution Washington was drawn back into public life from his much desired privacy by the urgency of the constitutional convention. John W. Winkler has made an inimitable print of this convention. It is comparable only with the Cruikshank illustrations for Dickens and Thackeray. Mr. Winkler has struck off Benjamin Franklin to the life and the other members of the group are equally individual. It is a capital bit of historical data rich in humor.

The exhibition will continue through October and no one, child or adult, should miss it.

After the wedding the bride and bridegroom will leave for the east where they will be for two months after which they will live in Chicago.

Miss Elinor Durbin and Sartell Prentice Porter were married in Chicago on Sept. 27.

Miss Virginia Skinkle, daughter of Mrs. George E. Skinkle, has set Saturday, Nov. 12 as the tentative date of her wedding to Sidney Heap, although final plans will be delayed until the arrival of her uncle, Robert John Randolph, who is expected to come to Chicago today or tomorrow from Washington.

The ceremony probably will be performed at St. Chrysostom's church and Miss Skinkle has asked several young women to be her attendants, but she hasn't had replies yet from those who live out of town. Miss Skinkle and her mother moved this week from their apartment at 1210 Astor street to 73 East Elm street.

Wedding Date Is Announced.

Word received yesterday from the Marquise de Ivanrey [Italian Blair] was that her daughter's wedding to Gonzalo de la Gandara, which was originally planned for next spring, will be solemnized on Nov. 30 at Biarritz. It is not likely that any of the Chicago members of the bride-to-be's family will be able to go abroad for the ceremony. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, will be there, of course, for she resides in Geneva, Switzerland.

Another debutante—Miss Caryl Bloomingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bloomingston of 1209 astor street. She is to be introduced at a luncheon on Oct. 27 at the Drake hotel. Miss Bloomingston, who is busy rehearsing for the Service club revue, went to the Finch school in New York last year and to Ogontz for the two preceding years.

A great many Evanston women will attend card parties this afternoon for the benefit of the Southern Woman's Education alliance fund which is used for the education of southern girls. There will be parties at the residences of Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mrs. John E. Wilder, Mrs. Edward P. Welles, Mrs. William B. Johnson, Mrs. Robert L. Scott, Mrs. L. A. Welsh, Mrs. George L. Wilkinson, and Mrs. E. J. Buffington.

Harold Smiths in New Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Byron Smith (Polly Hart), who have been residing in Barrington with Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, since they returned from their honeymoon last August, have moved into their own house in the same suburb.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart will be back the latter part of this month from Zurich, Switzerland, where they went to make the acquaintance of their first grandchild, Denise Harmon, the 6 months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Harmon (Miriam Hart).

James A. Waller of 220 East Walton place has returned from a late summer motor trip along the eastern coast. Mrs. Waller will not be back for another week.

Mrs. J. Russell Forgan of 1500 Lake Shore drive is expected to return next week from a brief trip abroad. She and her sister, Mrs. Bradford S. Shinkle of St. Louis, whom Mrs. Forgan visited in August at Watch Hill, sailed in early September to join their mother, Mrs. Jackson Johnson of St. Louis, who is returning with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood of 70 Cedar street and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Underwood of Highland Park will leave today to attend the Michigan-Northwestern football game at Ann Arbor. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Peterson, who returned recently from Europe and who always give week-end parties during the football season.

Mrs. Chauncey Borland has returned to Chicago a little ahead of the rest of her family, who are still at their summer estate at Camden, Me. Mr. Borland is expected to be back the first part of the week but their daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Beatrice Borland, will probably prolong their stay until the middle of the month.

Return from Harbor Point.

Edward P. Russell and his daughters, Mrs. Russell Christie and Mrs. Robert M. Curtis and Mr. Curtis and their family are back in their house at 1444 Astor street after having spent the summer at their Harbor Point residence.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Howland have returned from an extended stay in Kennebunkport, Me., and are with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Stafford, and their children in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux have returned to their apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive from their annual summer stay in Europe. They spent the greater part of their holiday in London visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William de Burgh Whyte. During their stay their oldest granddaughter, Miss Amycle Whyte, was presented by her mother at the court of St. James's at Buckingham palace. They also attended a reception given by Mr. Whyte for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Women's Club Federation Marks Anniversary Today

The Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs will celebrate the fourteenth anniversary of their founding with a program this afternoon in the court of the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress. President Rufus C. Dawes of the Century of Progress will speak and the speakers' bureau will present a pageant.

Seminary Will Use Tutors to Help Students

Western Theological Changes System.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Western Theological seminary, Evanston, will become the pioneer school in the west for the training of clergy to adopt a tutorial system of instruction. This was announced by the Very Rev. Frederick C. Grant, president of that seminary. He stated the new system, which will be inaugurated next Monday when the seminary opens its 50th academic year, is in line with the most advanced educational policies of today.

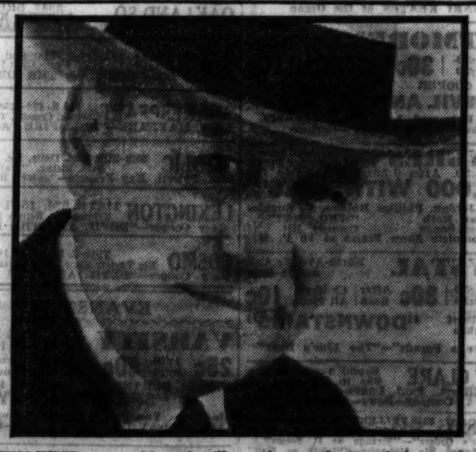
In explaining the tutorial method of instruction, Dean Grant pointed out that the system has been in use in Oxford and Cambridge and other English universities for some time. Very recently American educators, he said, have begun to adopt the system and are installing it wherever economic and other conditions permit.

Dean Grant explained that between each student and professor is a special tutor whose business is to make sure that the student covers the ground expected of him. The tutors will be expected to assist men who have difficulty in study, he said. Dean Grant pointed out that a great deal of difficulty among students lies in the fact that many who have even graduated from a university have not acquired proper methods of study. A duty of the tutors will be to teach the art of effective study, Dean Grant said.

In connection with the announcement of the new method, Dean Grant announced the appointment of several of the tutors who will take residence at the Evanston seminary next week. Among these is Allen D. Albert Jr., a candidate for Episcopal orders, who for three years was an assistant at the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago. Mr. Albert will be the tutor in Old Testament subjects.

Other tutors include the Rev. John R. Ramsey Jr. of the General Theological seminary, New York; the Rev. Robert G. Purrington of Baltimore, and the Rev. John Heuss, a graduate of Western seminary, who has spent the last year in Germany as a graduate student in sociology. Mr. Heuss will tutor in the department of systematic theology. Dean Grant announced that the largest enrollment in the history of the seminary is expected this fall.

Stronger than He Was at Twenty



FIFTY-FIVE years old, and still going strong!

Do you want the secret of such vitality? It isn't what you eat, or any tonic you take. It's something anyone can do—something you can start today and see results in a week! All you do is give your vital organs the right stimulant.

A famous doctor discovered the way to stimulate a sluggish system to new energy. It brings fresh vigor to every organ. Being a physician's prescription, it's quite harmless. Tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get the benefit of its fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and that pure pepsin. Get that lazy liver to work, those stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

Get a bottle of this delicious syrup and let it end that constant worry about the condition of the bowels. Spare the children those bilious days that make them miserable. Save your household from the use of cathartics which lead to chronic constipation. And guard against auto-intoxication as you grow older.

Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is such a well known preparation you can get it wherever drugs are sold and it isn't expensive.

Cookies, Popcorn Help the Friendly Spirit.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

After a description in this column telling how one mother gave her yard over to the children, I received the following letter:

"I especially liked the letter about the couple giving up their back yard to their children. I have had the same experience. My children and their friends not only have the yard, but the house as well.

"Many times have I stopped my work and made candy to please them. Also cup cakes and popcorn and lemonade. But I don't regret it or feel as time has been wasted. My boys and some others once cleared out the shed and camped in there. In fact, we have let them do all sorts of things to keep them home interested."

What boys wouldn't want to stay at home under these conditions? Of course, it is not possible for many women to be able to give their children and their little friends the space and freedom this mother can. But we can all make our children's friends feel welcome, and most of us can make home attractive in spirit and a place that our children want to stay in and that other children want to come to. Sometimes just the spirit will do that—but cookies or lemonade or popcorn do help!

As the children get older we don't want them to be too much at home. They must reach out and gain in independence and self-reliance, and have widening interests.

But we don't want them to seek fresh fields and pastures new because their own are devoted exclusively to the concerns of the grownups, or because those grownups are uninterested or unfriendly. It is well for us to remember that much of our living, our planning, our conversation at home and in the world at large is based on adult interest. It is important for us to strike a balance.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill-bred couple, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister Rachel are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Caroline's body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

AN IMPLAUSIBLE STORY.

They followed the road by which they had come, but presently turned aside into an expanse of waste land scarred by gullies and dotted with gorse. Along a narrow lane they suddenly drew up and the constable in charge waved his hand toward a hillock about twenty yards to the left.

"There—you see those gorse bushes? Just behind them, screened in pretty completely, is a sort of scooped out place. That's where she was lying, and she might have stayed there weeks before any one found her. Shouldn't wonder if the spot was picked on purpose by some one that knew the neighborhood with just that thing in view—for it's well known the longer times goes by the harder it is to track down a criminal. We've roped that bit off as you can see. Not that it's much use now. The rain made a clean sweep of any marks there might have been. Those footprints running to and fro"—he pointed to a confused mass of interlacing tracks—"was all made by the chaps that found her."

"How, exactly, was the body discovered?" inquired Neil.

"Pure chance, sir. These fellows, out of jobs, was knocking a ball about early this afternoon, and one of them happened to be hunting for it and saw a foot sticking up."

Of the brief, halting discussion which ensued Neil heard little, rousing himself only in time to catch an inquiry as to when the inquest would be held.

"Can't say for sure, sir. This being Holy week may postpone it a bit. You'll be notified, though, and I dare say some of you'll be called to give evidence."

As their engine started Tilbury approached the vicar nervously. He looked like a hurt child about to burst into tears.

"Beg pardon, sir, but wot ought the wife and me to do? Move out?"

"Eh? Certainly not! Stay where you are and carry on as usual. Miss Bundy's solicitor will give you instructions."

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. I just thought I'd better ask." As he climbed into the car they heard a hoarse wail. "O, dear! O, dear! Wotever poor Con'll say I can't think! I don't know how I'm to break it to her."

"And I," muttered Gisborne as they drove off, "don't exactly look forward to breaking this awful business to Natasha. Has it entered your head, Starkey, that she may be in for a bad time?"

"I don't see why," objected Neil with pretended astonishment. "That telegram from her aunt safeguards her completely, doesn't it?"

"However that may be," returned the vicar, dissatisfied, "I think I must try to prepare her for the sort of questions she'll be expected to answer. I shall do so this evening."

Yet even his companion, thought Neil, could have little notion as to how troublesome those questions might be, particularly if they chanced to touch on Natasha's financial crisis and the selling of the pearls.

When they reached home night had fallen. In the open doorway Rachel stood looking out with a mute inquiry.

"Yes," replied her brother, shortly, "it is—though how the poor woman came to be in Bristol passes all understanding. Is Natasha able to bear talking about it? If so, call her."

There was no need for this. The girl was there and had heard what was said.

"Caroline dead!" she whispered, and repeated the words several times, as though to take in their meaning. "I can't get used to it. . . . How—who——" She stopped to draw her hand across her forehead. "Tell me everything, please."

They went into the drawing room, where she sat down rigidly on the sofa. It was not clear how much of Gisborne's account her brain absorbed. To Neil it seemed that her attention was divided between a paralysis of horror and a groping effort to think something out. When the vicar had finished he fumbled for his pipe, only to lay it empty upon the mantelpiece.

"No," he said after a pause, "there's no good hazarding theories till we get hold of more details. Robbery, on the face of it, is quite absurd; but what other motive can there have been? However, what we must discuss is your own relation to the affair. You'll be called at the inquest, you know; and, since you are the last person known to have been in her company, it seems wise to go through all your movements on Friday simply to get them clear in your mind."

Natasha let her eyes rest on him for a moment; then she drew a long breath. "Very well. I'll do my best. Ask me anything you like."

"First, then," began Gisborne, kindly, "what time was it when you left St. James' square?"

"A quarter past four. I remember looking at my watch."

"I see. Did Carrie give you any idea of what she meant to do after leaving the library?"

"None whatever. I assumed she would go straight to Miss Braselton's flat."

"How do you account for the fact that she never actually went into the library?"

"I can't account for it—unless at the very moment I drove off she missed her bag and tried to catch up with me."

"That's possible." Gisborne considered the suggestion thoughtfully before continuing. "Now, just describe what you did during the afternoon and evening."

She was a long time making a start. "Does it matter so much where I went, as long as I didn't see her again?" she asked.

"It may. Unless the truth comes out, you'll be expected to furnish a detailed account of how you passed about six or seven hours. That's why I'd like you to review it while it's fresh."

Some inkling of his meaning had begun to dawn on her. She gave a slight start as she exclaimed: "Good heavens! You can't think that I—that she—— Forgive me for seeming so dense. Of course I understand now. Well, then, let me think." Once more that painful hesitation. "First I attended to two commissions. One was at the Army and Navy stores—a complaint about an order—and the other was at the Times Book club in Wigmore street. I had to return some books."

"Where did you go first?"

"The stores. It was easier to get through the traffic in the Victoria direction. Then I crossed back to the Times. From there I went to Hobson & Weaver's in Regent street to do some shopping for myself. I was in the shop till closing time."

"Six o'clock. And afterward? The important thing, of course, is to tell us what people you saw. Were you with friends?"

"No. I was alone the whole time. I stopped in at the Carlton and had a wash and sat in the lounge reading the paper for perhaps an hour. Then I parked the car, had something to eat at the corner house by Piccadilly circus, and"—an infinitesimal pause—"went to the Coliseum."

"O, you went to the Coliseum! Didn't happen to keep the counterfoil of your ticket, did you?"

"I may have. I'll look in my purse." She half rose, to sink down again. "No—I remember. I threw it away."

For the first time her questioner threw her a searching glance. He picked up the day's copy of the Times and turned to the amusement column. "I see the Russian dancers have been at the Coliseum for the last two weeks. What ballet did you see?"

She made no reply. Slowly and absently she reached for a cigaret, held it poised in an unsteady hand. The others watched her closely. When she spoke her voice was low and apologetic.

"I hope you won't think me frightfully rude if I don't——" She trailed off, looking about as though for a match.

She had risen and left the room so casually that not one of the three suspected her of any intention other than to light her cigaret. When the front door opened and closed they jumped as though shot.

Once Famous Director Tries Character Part

Rupert Julian Seeks Place in Talkie World.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 6. — Rupert Julian, once noted as director of such silent hits as "Phantom of the Opera," "Yankee Clipper," "Three Faces East" and "Leopard Lady" has turned character actor to make a film comeback. Julian at one time was the peer of all highly compensated directors, but like others, was sidetracked by the talkie vogue. His film start was as an actor.

Eddie Doherty, former New York and Chicago newspaperman, has been signed as a contract writer by Radio RKO and comes on from New York to join a platoon of other ex-Chicago newspapermen on Oct. 15.

Jim Thorpe is cast as the Indian chief in Paramount's Zane Grey western, "Wild Horse Mesa." He will appear in support of Randolph Scott, Sally Blane and Fred Kohler.

Vivienna Osborn, has been elevated to stardom rating at RKO. Her next, and her first as a full fledged star, will be "Tars and Feathers."

Marie Dressler has been presenting her particular friends in the MGM lunch room and around the lot with copies of a pamphlet on thought control.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover, who returned with the President this morning from their native state, Iowa, left tonight for Norfolk to attend the closing sessions tomorrow of the Girl Scouts annual meeting. She will return to the White House Saturday morning and give a reception in the afternoon to the Girl Scouts, of which organization she is honorary president.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter and Mrs. John R. Williams sailed last night for Dublin to spend six weeks with the former's youngest daughter, Mrs. Frederick Sterling, wife of the American minister to the Irish Free State.

GASOLINE ALLEY—MIDNIGHT SONATA

IT ISN'T HOOVERS FAULT IF THE COST OF GOVERNMENT HAS GONE UP.
WALT, ARE YOU STILL AWAKE? JUST THE SAME HE COULD HAVE DONE A LOT MORE THAN HE HAS TO KEEP IT DOWN.
YOU FORGET THAT CONGRESS WAS DEMOCRATIC. THEY COULD HAVE DONE A LOT MORE THAN THEY DID TO CUT IT.
ANYWAY WHEN ROOSEVELT IS ELECTED IT WILL ALL BE DIFFERENT. HE AND THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY ARE PLEDGED TO ECONOMY
PLEDGED TO PORK YOU MEAN. IT HAS BEEN SLIM PICKING FOR DEMOCRATS FOR 11 YEARS.
WELL THE REPUBLICANS PROMISED ECONOMY IN 1920, 1924 AND 1928. AND THEY'RE STILL PROMISING IT IN 1932.
DIDN'T I TELL YOU THE DEMOCRATS GOT ALL THEIR IDEAS FROM THE REPUBLICANS
OH PIFFLE!

Valmora Sanatorium Association Holds Its Annual Banquet Here

More than 1,200 physicians and their families made merry last night at the ninth annual banquet in the Stevens hotel of the Valmora Sanatorium association. The guests wore red bandana handkerchiefs around their necks, cowboy style, and many were garbed in cowboy costumes.

Dr. W. T. Brown, founder of the sanatorium in 1905, was the guest of honor together with Dr. C. H. Gellenthien, medical director at the sanatorium which is located at Valmora, N. M. Twenty-nine Chicago industries send all their tubercular employés to Valmora for treatment. The members include most of the big State street department stores, the loop banks, the packing companies, and other large concerns.

Dr. Brown said that 85 per cent of the patients are returned to Chicago cured of tuberculosis.

Gift for Musician.

"I have a number of violin exercise books and other selections which I shall be glad to give to any one who'd like to have them. MRS. E."

Here's a fine gift for the student of violin who has difficulty supplying himself with enough music. If you'd like to share in this offer, write me; please do not telephone.

Sunday Evening Club to Be the First to Hear New National Anthem

Members of the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, will be the first to hear a new national anthem, written and composed by Chicagoans. The anthem, "A Hymn to My Land," was composed by Jeanne Boyd of the American Conservatory of Music, and the verses were written by Mrs. Franklin R. Miller, 1540 Lake Shore drive. It will be presented at the club session Sunday. This was announced by Mrs. Clara D. Randall, executive secretary of the club, who stated that Sunday's service will be dedicated to Chicago, with Bishop George Craig Stewart the preacher.

It is stated that the new anthem, which is almost cantata length, has been received in musical and patriotic circles with such enthusiasm as to require a second edition in less than five days after its first appearance. The anthem is dedicated to Edgar Nelson.

Illinois Order Eastern Star to Convene Here Next Year

Danville, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Illinois Order of Eastern Star will convene at Chicago in 1933, the 58th annual convention decided today. No other cities offered bids. The present session closed tonight with installation of the new grand officers.

WARN U. S. CURB SPELLS DISASTER FOR RAILROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Declaring that the railroads are heading for government ownership, the American Short Line railroad association in a special report made public today appealed to all railroads and the public to cooperate in a movement for removal of regulatory restrictions that the short lines say are strangling the carriers.

"Conditions surrounding the railroads are deplorable, if not intolerable; hence their owners are confronted with a great emergency," the short lines assert. "Disaster looms ahead for all roads, strong and weak, long and short and if relief is not soon obtained the losses to their owners will be enormous."

Change Imperative, Report Says.

The short lines said the railroads "do not want contributions or support out of the treasuries of the government."

"What they do want, and must have is a complete change of the present unfair and restrictive policy and control now being imposed on them," they added. "It is imperative that the government release soon, the 'strangle hold' it has upon the roads, and permit them to conduct the transportation business of the public in a way that is fair to both."

A new transportation law that will provide fair and reasonable regulation "for all kinds of transportation facilities" should be enacted by congress as a measure of relief, according to the short lines.

Further, they assert, the true interest of the public and all engaged in the transporation business requires a change of the present "restrictive policy and regulation in the great majority, if not all of the states, and that new laws therein should be enacted and enforced."

See Danger in R. F. C. Loans.

In addition to a change of policy and regulations the government must, according to the short lines, cease to subsidize motor vehicles and withdraw from the large business on the waterways.

Temporary relief for the railroads is being afforded through the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation and Railroad Credit corporation loans, but if the railroads are not able to repay the government loans, it is asserted, "that will be a step, and a long one, in the process of transferring such properties to the government."

Existing rigid and arbitrary control by government, if continued, it is declared, will effectively prevent successful operation by the owners, even when the volume of traffic has been restored to normal.

Losing Constitutional Rights.

"During the last few years," it is asserted, "the owners of the railroads have been deprived, at an alarmingly increasing rate, of their constitutional and legal right to control and operate their properties, as the result of governmental assumption of such rights through regulation, restrictions, and otherwise. The revenues of a large majority of the roads are less than their operating expenses, which now have been reduced to a minimum. A limited number are earning some part of their fixed charges; a much smaller number are still earning their fixed charges, but few, if any, are earning enough to pay their owners any return upon their investment."

Repeal of the part of the transportation act providing for recapture of half of railway net operating income above 6 per cent on the value of railroad property, under which estimated claims against the railroads total more than $00 million dollars, is urged by the roads.

RUSSIA RECALLS ENVOY TO BRITAIN FOR SECRET WORK

MOSCOW, Oct. 6. — (AP) — G. Y. Sokolnikov, ambassador to Great Britain since 1929, has been recalled to Moscow, it was officially announced tonight, and reports were current he was returning to take up important work. The announcement said merely that he was leaving the London embassy at his own request. There was no indication of his new assignment.

In 1924 when he was commissar of finance he was credited with stabilization of the ruble, and there was speculation whether he may have something to do with helping restore the purchasing power of the ruble which has dropped sharply.

I. M. Maisky, minister to Finland, will go to the London post. Another diplomatic change results from the retirement of D. I. Koursky, ambassador to Italy, who will be succeeded by V. P. Potemkin, minister to Greece. Y. C. Davtian, former minister to Persia, will go to Athens.

MOB IN SHANGHAI STORMS OFFICES FOR FIRE LOSSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6.—American, British and Chinese fire insurance offices within the international settlement were guarded by police today against a mob of Chinese who lost property in the burning of the Chapel section of the city during the Sino-Japanese battle last spring.

The fire insurance companies have ruled that the destruction of Chapel by fire was not due to natural causes covered by the policies, and they therefore refused to pay the claims.

Several thousand property owners, mostly small retailers, failing to obtain relief through court action, dashed hopping mad into the international settlement to torment insurance companies until their claims are paid.

The total property loss in Chapel was estimated at approximately $250,000,000.

FIELD MUSEUM'S CHINA EXPEDITION BACK IN SHANGHAI

The Marshall Field zoological expedition to China has completed two years of collecting in the interior and is now in Shanghai preparing to send the final shipment of 5,000 specimens to the Field Museum of Natural History, it was announced yesterday. Floyd T. Smith of New York, leader of the expedition, reported the trip successful despite difficulties growing out of the political turmoil in China.

Thousands of miles were traversed with pack animals, afoot, and by water in crude hand-propelled boats, museum officials said. Mr. Smith, the only white man on the expedition, said in his report that the expedition frequently was menaced by bandits, and in one instance the camp was burned and robbed by wandering highwaymen.

Several specimens of the rare takin, goat-antelope of the mountains along the Tibetian border, were captured by the expedition. The collection includes skins and bones of thousands of mammals and birds, and hundreds of fishes and reptiles, museum officials said.

U. S. IMPROVES AS RAILROAD MAN; LOSS DECLINES

Alaska Enterprise Drops to $412,466 Deficit.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The department of the interior officially congratulated itself today on the fact that the Alaska railroad, a government enterprise under its jurisdiction, had lost only $412,466 during the past fiscal year.

This amount, the department was pleased to announce, meant a loss to the federal taxpayers of $177,283 less than the $589,750 lost in 1931 and only one-third of the $1,237,120 lost in 1930.

As in the cases of the preceding annual losses, however, the $412,466 lost last year is in operating revenue and expenses only, and does not take into account any interest on the more than $70,000,000 which the federal government has poured into the railroad ever since its inception.

Senate Committee Reports.

In the words of the senate committee which investigated the Alaska railroad in 1930:

"Congress has been called upon year after year to make appropriations not merely for new capital and replacements but to cover deficits which for the seven years beginning with 1924 alone total more than $8,100,000, and for the fiscal year $1,237,000, while the total apparent debit balance is nearly $11,000,000, a sum that would be greatly increased if worthless items carried as assets were written off."

The deficits of the two years since the committee's report have added another million dollars to the losses which the taxpayers are called on to pay.

Hopeless for Revenue.

The Alaska railroad, which is 470 miles long, with a thirty-eight mile branch, was begun in 1915 and completed in 1923 when President Harding drove the last gold spike. It was built with the idea of opening up the heart of Alaska and connecting with the river traffic of the inland streams.

"Private capital," said the interior department's announcement today, "declined to build it because, obviously, it could not, until the country is developed, become a revenue producer."

The development, as reflected in the railroad's operations, has progressed slowly. Even with recently instituted economies and higher rates a deficit of some $300,000 is expected in the next fiscal year.

"BACKBONE OF SLUMP" BROKEN, HURLEY SAYS IN DAVENPORT TALK

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick Hurley told an audience here tonight that the "back bone of the depression" has been broken and "the leadership of President Hoover stands vindicated."

In the second of two scheduled Iowa speeches supporting the President's campaign, the secretary referred to the keeping of the country on the gold standard as a "momentous achievement" and said the economic system has been saved.

Much of his address was devoted to contrasting the definite stand he said the President has taken on all important current questions with the asserted failure of the Democratic presidential candidate "to make himself clear on a single issue."

With only a few weeks remaining before the election, Hurley said, only on the railroads "has the Democratic nominee spoke with any degree of soundness and precision and then he was merely repeating the policies of President Hoover."

CHINESE TROOPS BURN VILLAGES; THOUSANDS FLEE

CHEFOO, China, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Farmers in the Chefoo area, reaping the first bountiful crops since the civil wars of 1928-29, are suffering again because of warfare between Han Fu-chu, provincial chairman, and Lui Chen-nien, war lord of the Chefoo area.

Reports from towns in a radius of 100 miles tell of deplorable conditions, of murder and the burning of entire villages by soldiers on both sides.

Thousands of refugees are pouring into Chefoo, many of them with bayonet wounds. They tell of looting. Town and county officials throughout the area accuse the Nanking government of neglecting its duty of trying to clear up the situation.

MAROONS LEAVE FOR YALE; SEE CHANCE TO WIN

MICHIGAN HAS EVERYTHING, BUT MUST PROVE IT

Gets First Big Test Against N. U.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 6.—If there ever was what the sports world terms a natural, it is the football game here Saturday between Michigan's Wolverines and Northwestern's Wildcats. Sixty thousand persons are expected to view the contest.

TINY LEWIS.

This natural is not the result of traditional rivalry or long standing competition, but the circumstances of the last few years. For two seasons Michigan and Northwestern have been co-champions of the Big Ten. Both were undefeated in 1930. Last year the honor was shared with Purdue, which downed Northwestern in a postseason charity contest and brought about a triple tie when the Purple thought it had the title in the bag. Again, back in 1926, Michigan and Northwestern were co-champions with five victories each and no defeats.

Last Meeting Unsatisfactory.

During all this time, Wolverines and Wildcats did not play against each other. Accordingly arguments and differing claims arose between partisans as to relative strength.

Then add the fact that the last meeting between the two elevens in 1925 was decidedly unsatisfactory to Wolverines because it placed on their slate the only reverse suffered by that great eleven, accounted one of the best in Michigan gridiron history. Dust off your memory, if you will, to recall the game played in the deep mud of Soldiers' field before the present drainage system was installed.

On a quagmire into which the players' feet often sank four or five inches and with a slippery ball, Northwestern scored early by Tiny Lewis' place kick after Michigan had fumbled a punt on its 2 yard line on the first play after the kickoff. Thereafter Michigan battled to overcome this tenuous margin. With the Purple at bay and forced to kick from its one yard line, Capt. Tim Lowry called for an intentional safety, a bit of strategy which possibly saved the issue, for Northwestern then took the ball out to its 30 yard line.

All Is Forgiven.

Northwestern, which that year had received its only defeat from Chicago, officially renounced any claim on a tie for the title, a gesture of sportsmanship duly appreciated at the time. It mitigated Wolverine disappointment somewhat, but it did not erase memory of the event.

Meantime Northwestern kept rising in the football world. Michigan did not play the Purple. No reason emanated from Ann Arbor. It was an open secret, however, that Ann Arbor athletic officials thought some Purple alumni were overzealous in pointing out to promising high school athletes the cultural advantages of Evanston with all that it implied.

Finally this impression softened or died and there was genuine disappointment when Purdue and not Michigan received the crack at Northwestern in the post-season affair of last fall. So keen was alumni and undergraduate sentiment that they practically boycotted the Michigan-Wisconsin post-season game with only 10,000 in attendance.

So now, after a lapse of years, a powerful Michigan eleven which many critics call the best since 1925 will meet a Northwestern squad which surpassed expectations in its first game against Missouri by the sturdiness of its line, supposed to be the vulnerable spot, if there was a vulnerable spot.

Two of Five Best.

With this bit of history recorded, what about this game? These two elevens are among the five considered the strongest in the Big Ten. Ohio State, Purdue and Minnesota are the other three. Theoretically, perhaps, they should be equal choices, yet

THAT OLD SONG, BADGER BLUES, DOES A FADEOUT

Spears Says Team Will Be Tough for Hawkeyes.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 6.—Doc Clarence Spears, ever an affable pessimist during his coaching régime at Minnesota, apparently is so pleased to be back in the Big Ten that he's lost the music for his blue sonata. At least he has his zither all tuned for happiness music.

It may not last, but Doc came right out today and said that his Wisconsin Badgers were greatly improved over last Saturday, when they scored a 7 to 2 victory over Marquette.

Respects Iowa Beef.

The new Badger coach makes it clear he does not underestimate Iowa. His scouts, who saw the Hawkeye run over Bradley last Saturday, came back with reports that Coach Ossie Solem's boys are much better than advertised, especially as to beef in the line. Dr. Spears always has been strong for heavy lines, once having been one of the country's best and heaviest linemen.

Iowa averages around 200 pounds from end to end a matter that has earned the doctor's profound respect.

The game Saturday, aside from the elements resulting from rivalry that dates back to 1894, will be of interest to Wisconsin and Iowa fans because each will be making its first appearance in the conference under an entirely different system of coaching.

Coach Spears had tolerated no hangover technique from the Thistlethwaite era at Wisconsin and it is said that Coach Solem has salvaged little from the Ingwersen system which prevailed at Iowa until this year.

Discards Coast Ideas.

Spears has modified the shift he taught at Minnesota, but more by way of making his maneuvers penalty proof than for any other reason. He is imposing practically no Pacific coast ideas on his boys, despite his two years activity at Oregon.

Naturally Dr. Spears, on returning to the conference to coach at an institution that he rated his greatest rival while he was at Minnesota, is especially eager for a successful reëntrance into the Big Ten.

The athletic situation here has been upset for some time, even to the point of the student body losing interest in football competitions. The doctor, indeed, has much to shoot for, beginning Saturday.

Shuffles His Players.

Spears has shown no regard for previous experience in selecting his team at Wisconsin and in some cases he has switched men to unfamiliar positions. Harvey Kranhold, a guard last year, will start at center Saturday, a position he never has played. John Schneller, regular full back the last two years, will be at end, and Buckets Goldenberg, regular quarter back for two years, will be at tackle.

Capt. Greg Kabat, a star guard in 1930 and 1931, has failed to measure up to Coach Spears' idea of a star lineman and he is in danger of being on the bench Saturday when his team opens its conference season.

Two sophomores are fighting it out with one veteran for the left half back position with any of the three a starting possibility. The sophomores are Tommy Fontaine, Akron, O., and Marvin Peterson, Manitowoc, Wis. Joe Linfor, a veteran from Des Moines, Ia., hopes to draw the starting berth against his home state school.

Pacetti at Quarter Back.

The remaining positions are pretty definitely settled. Nello Pacetti, quarter; Mickey McGuire, right half; and Harold Smith, full back will complete the back field. John Schneller and Dick Haworth will start at ends and Buckets Goldenberg and Moon Molinaro will be the tackles. Mario Pacetti will start at right guard, Kranhold will be at center and either Kabat or Milt Kummer will be at left guard.

The Wisconsin line will average about 190 pounds from end to end, and the back field will scale about 180. The biggest man on the squad is Mario Pacetti, 220 pound Kenosha sophomore. His brother, Nello, a senior, will also be in the starting lineup.

Since two new coaching systems will be on display, precedent wouldn't seem to mean much in contemplating

SAVING THEIR STRENGTH FOR YALE GAME

MINNESOTA TEAM REVIVES; PURDUE FACES A BATTLE

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 6.—Bright autumn sunshine flooded Northrup field today and a warm breeze rustled through the trees along University avenue, tearing gay colored leaves from the boughs and strewing them on the lawns. It was welcome relief from the dreary clouds and chill which had marked the last few days.

As if in response to this October tonic the Minnesota football players awakened from their lethargy and stepped briskly through their practice assignments preparatory to meeting Purdue university Saturday in Memorial stadium.

Ubl Shows Improvement.

But this perfect fall day was not responsible alone for the renaissance. Myron Ubl, so the doctors reported this afternoon, is at last on the road to recovery from the injury and infection which suddenly forced him from the football field into a fight for life. For the first time the daily bulletins issued at the University hospital indicated a definite improvement in his condition.

Purdue is the favorite to win, but the Boilermakers must not underestimate the spirit of the Gophers nor their rugged defense.

A team which held its opponents last Saturday to two first downs and a gain of 79 yards from scrimmage has mastered the fundamentals of defense. And incidentally Minnesota piled up 18 first downs and a gain of 287 yards which are not expressed completely in the two touchdown victory.

Beware of Gopher Passes.

Coach Bernie Bierman, as the Southern conference learned while he directed Tulane and as the Big Ten soon will find out, believes in using the forward pass at any time there is an opening. Last night the varsity worked for nearly an hour on its overhead attack with four receivers racing deep or laterally. Such an attack, backed by the plunging threat of Jack Manders, may cause the Boilermakers no end of trouble.

It is apparent now that Gerald Griffin will carry the responsibility of directing the eleven. Griffin has much to learn that only experience can teach, but he has shown desire to follow instructions and has a grasp

TONY PIET HAS TROUBLE TRYING TO WED SINGER

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Tony Piet of Chicago, Pittsburgh Pirates' second baseman, is having a difficult time trying to obtain a license to marry Jannina Samoraj, a radio singer. The couple tried to secure a license today, but when Miss Samoraj gave her age as 20 the clerk refused to issue it.

Piet hurriedly dashed out and promised to return with Miss Samoraj's parents. Piet gave his age as 24. His real name is Anthony Francis Pietruszka. They plan to be married next Wednesday.

TOMMY THOMAS HAS OPERATION ON PITCHING ARM

Tommy Thomas, who was traded by the Chicago White Sox to the Washington Senators last August, underwent an operation for a locked elbow in his pitching arm yesterday at the Mercy hospital. Dr. Philip Kruescher, White Sox physician, who performed the operation, said Thomas will be kept in the hospital for a week or ten days.

Thomas won 11 games while losing 10 with the White Sox and the Senators during the last season.

Grinnell Leaves to Play Michigan State Eleven

Grinnell, Ia., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Grinnell's football squad left tonight for East Lansing, Mich., where it will meet Michigan State Saturday. The lineup will be about the same as that which started the Cornell game last week, Frank Duncan will team with Bob Mckee at end; Gould and Lake at tackle; Martin and Figland at guard; and McMillan, center. Capt. Fritz Graftland will be at full, James and Rose at half, and Ulrich at quarter.

Leonard's Comeback Act on Big Time; Fights McLarnin

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—Benny Leonard, the old singer, is fighting Jimmy McLarnin tomorrow evening in Madison Square Garden in a bout which should be of great interest to antiquarians and sentimentalists.

Benny returned to the ring about a year ago after a long spell of retirement, but, like most revivals, was not taken seriously. The customers suspected that his act was a publicity stunt for a brand of rejuvenation pills or a build-up for a new mammy song, and those who saw the opening scene in one of the minor arenas came away with a regretful impression that the piece would have to have many more rehearsals.

Takes the Act on the Road.

In this presentation Benny's opponent, or assistant, went to the canvas manifesting great agony, but without much provocation. The critics were as kind as they could be to the Leonard act, but it was generally agreed that he ought to take it out on the road for a thorough tryout and polishing before attempting to play before a Garden audience. Benny took this counsel to heart and he now returns to town ready to risk all after trying it on the dog in many unsophisticated places where the customers are not too critical.

If McLarnin should knock him out he will deliver his mammy number through the daily papers as usual the following morning. A new mammy number will not be necessary, as his old one is almost as dear to the hearts of the sentimentalists who comprise the majority of the prize fight trade as James J. Walker's touching regard for the little dirty faced kids in the street who have hearts of gold and grow up to be pillars of the community.

Of course some little dirty faced kids in the street grow up to be slot machine magnates, stickup men, and petty thieves, but those are not the little dirty faced kids that the ex-mayor refers to. Those are other little dirty faced kids.

Others Sing His Song on Radio.

Benny Leonard's mammy number was the most effective use of the theme of filial love ever known in the sport business. He set a style for prize fighters which is followed to this day by gladiators of a new generation, using the radio. Every one by now has heard them on the air at the conclusion of their fights, babbling innocently into the microphone, "Hello, mamma; I win easy, mamma; I ain't hurt a bit and I will be right home to dump my money in your lap as soon as I can get my clothes on. This is your loving son, mamma."

Retirement Foils Walker.

Gene Tunney attempted to establish a reticent style as opposed to the "Hello, mamma, I ain't hurt" school when he was active in the ring. He never referred to his mother, never exploited the fact that he had bought a dwelling for her, and never had his picture taken wearing a kitchen apron and helping his mother wash a dish. If you will think it over you will realize that you have no idea what Tunney's mother looks like because there never was a newspaper picture of her. Tunney went to the opposite extreme.

Benny's greatest mammy song was sung at the time of his retirement. His retirement occurred right in the face of Mickey Walker, who was then in his prime as welterweight champion, whereas Benny might have been just a degree beyond his own beautiful prime. They were matched and in training for an interclass fight, and it looked as though Benny might wind up his career sitting on the back of his neck with a referee speaking numerals over him.

It was under these circumstances that Benny suddenly was overcome by a loving regard for his mother's feelings. He had no misgivings himself as to his ability to avoid serious mishaps in the ring, but his mother always worried, and, as he now had plenty of funds, he was retiring, not for the wife and kiddies but for a fellow's best girl after all, when you come right down to it and all is said and done.

He's Reading Real Estate Ads.

Benny became a business man, but a business man has no business these days, and I hear that he returned to the ring for the same motive that caused him to abandon it before. Though he had made much money as the greatest lightweight champion since Gans, he quite neglected to buy a dwelling that they could call their own.

Teddy Hayes, who was Benny's manager when he began the tour of the dog towns polishing his revival for the metropolitan presentation, explained that Benny wished to attend to this oversight even though he might close out his career at last with his features somewhat battered and with resin dust on the sole of his ring pants. In a choice of two evils it was better that his mother should worry a little while than that she should own no home in fee simple.

OHIO STATE BEAT INDIANA? WHY, IT'S A FORMALITY

Barber Shop Coaches Have Championship Won.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—Let Ohio State beat Indiana here next Saturday and the Big Ten championship bee will start to buzz as it hasn't buzzed around the Scarlet and Gray stadium for years.

It already is buzzing so far as the downtown managers, always dominant hereabouts, are concerned. They've already sharpened their axes for the necks of the coaching staff should anything go wrong. They're basing everything, as usual, on the best material, experienced and otherwise, the Ohioans have possessed since they became elevated to the ranking class of Big Ten contenders.

Coaches Hope for Best.

But the coaches, more conservative and better fitted to judge what they have at their command, are looking ruefully at the schedule and hoping that everything will go satisfactorily against such conference opponents as Michigan, Wisconsin, Northwestern and those pesky Illini. That's quite a load for any team, not counting games against outsiders like Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania.

You can write your ticket on the Buckeye prospects from the fact that when they square off against Indiana Saturday they'll have ten letter men in action. The eleventh player will be either a youth who has had experience or a sophomore of great promise. And if one of the letter men should be sidetracked at the start, he will be supplanted by another who has been through the mill. In the former case, it is a matter of Ted Rosequist at one of the tackles in place of Regis Monahan, a sophomore. In the latter case Tom Keefe may get the call over Bill Carroll at right half.

Keefe Buries Hatchet.

Both Rosequist and Keefe are fellows who might have made their gridiron marks before, had it not been for unfortunate happenings. Rosequist played a year in the Buckeye conference, a group of minor colleges, and also on the freshman team here. He was in one varsity game last fall but bad luck brought on sickness and he hung up his suit. Monahan weighs 209 pounds and stands 5 feet 11 inches. But Rosequist happens to be nothing less than 216 pounds and 6 feet 4 inches.

Keefe quit last year because he thought the coaches weren't giving him the attention his ability deserved. All that's been patched up now. He's a combination of excellence on throwing passes, receiving them, and running in the open field. Carroll is a spectacular open field runner, but beyond that is an unknown quantity. He is not as good as Keefe on defense against a pass attack.

Seven Good Sophomores.

What the Ohio coaches are looking for is the plunging, driving full back who never shows up. Plenty of backs with speed report, but never the type that Minnesota develops almost annually. Mike Vuchinich now has the first call on the job, but his forte is defensive play. If he has the ability to plunge through consistently for the needed short gains he is keeping it well concealed.

Altogether the Buckeyes have seven sophomores of great promise, indicating that as the season progresses the team will gain power in proportion to the experience picked up by these youths. John McAfee is the best all around performer in this lot. He's a quarter back by trade, but with the sensational Carl Cramer and Marshall Oliphant on that job, McAfee is being drilled as a half back.

INDIANA ENDS DRILL

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—After a comparatively light workout today, Indiana's squad was ready to invade Columbus to meet Ohio State Saturday.

Thirty-three men will be taken to Columbus. They are:

CENTERS—Antonini, Harry Beeson, and Spannuth.
GUARDS—Kocsich, Nylec, Voliva, McDonald, Busbee, and Sprauer.
TACKLES—Anglemyer, Rahm, J. Morris, Harold Beeson, and Johnson.
ENDS—Dickey, Lyons, Martich, Vercuski, and Howerth.
HALF BACKS—Babb, Fuqua, Saluski, Sawicki, Stickann, and Sabik.
FULL BACKS—Edmonds, Burton, and B. Jones.

STAGG RETURNS TO ALMA MATER AFTER 43 YEARS

31 Picked for Game Tomorrow.

Amos Alonzo Stagg led a squad of 31 Maroon football players out of Chicago yesterday for New Haven and the Yale bowl, scene of his earliest fame, where his big forty-three years later act is scheduled tomorrow.

Gives Team Even Chance.

"I give our team an even chance," Stagg told the throng around the bench. "I don't know very much about Yale's team, but I concede them nothing.

"Maybe there's something significant about the number forty-one. This is my forty-first Chicago football team. Two weeks ago we defeated Monmouth, 41 to 0. Forty-one men are making this trip, including the coaches and trainers. And I understand one of our players just got over a siege of forty-one boils.

"I wish every one here would gather around Pete Zimmer and tell him to get poise. We have complicated plays and he's too anxious to start. Then I wish you'd tell the same thing to Sahlin, and Page, and Summers, and Birney, and Flinn, and Cullen.

"I can promise you Yale won't beat us this year by any such score as they did last year [27 to 0]. I shall be greatly disappointed if they beat us at all."

Guest at Banquet.

Tonight Stagg will oe the honored guest at a banquet given by the Yale Athletic association at Mory's in New Haven. Stagg played his first game for Yale in 1884, 48 years ago, and his last game in 1889. He has not seen an Eli team play on the home field since 1898.

With Pat Page Jr. reported in excellent health and ready to start, Chicago will be in top condition for the match. Since none of his sophomores has had a real test under fire, Stagg disclosed yesterday that he plans to start a veteran team, though he refused to name the personnel. On the basis of this week's workouts Bellstrom and Tolgo will be at ends, John Spearing and Cassels at tackles, Maneikis and Rapp at guards, Zenner at center, and Sahlin, Birney, Zimmer, and Page in the back field.

Storey Motors to the Game.

The only sour note in yesterday's sendoff was the fact that Cecil Storey, ineligible full back, will be going to the game by automobile rather than with the squad. Stagg was frank to confess his disappointment over Storey's failure to attain eligibility. "So far as football is concerned," he remarked, "and the game is not without its complications, there was not a brighter man on the practice field than Storey."

Pat Page Sr. told the crowd of 300 at the sendoff that Chicago's chance against Yale is better this year because of its better reserves. "We're taking no dead weight," he said.

YALES HAVE ACHES

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Yale will face Chicago Saturday with less than half as much scrimmage as was ordered for the eleven which last week was unable to score against Bates. The coaches ordered scrimmage on only two days this week, Tuesday and Wednesday. These were both short. Today's drill included only signal practice, alternated with passing a slippery ball, because the practice was held in a driving rain. Tomorrow Yale and Chicago will hold secret drills in the bowl.

Because of this week's light program Yale will face Chicago in much better physical condition than it was last week. A series of minor injuries and illnesses still pursues the team, however. It became known today that Jimmy Deangelis, substitute guard, has an injured shoulder and that MacLean Williamson, second string half back, cannot play against Chicago because of boils.

Charley Heim, the fastest half back on the squad, still limped today and will not play. Bob O'Connell, left end, is definitely out of the Chicago game, with a shoulder bruise. Bob Lassiter, who, like O'Connell, was unable to play against Bates, took part in the drill today, but he has not been able to scrimmage for ten days and will be available for only a small part of the Chicago game, if he is started.

Lefty O'Doul Signs Up with Dodgers for Next Season

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn club of the National league today received the signed contract of Frank [Lefty] O'Doul for the 1933 season. O'Doul led the league in hitting last season with an average of .368.

PARKE A GOAT, THEN HERO WITH THREE WINNERS

Makes Comeback After Losing on Sally Irene.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Monte Parke, the youngest jockey at Lincoln Fields, is having it brought home to him early in his career that it is possible to be a goat with a race-track crowd one minute and a hero the next.

He has been having some experiences along these lines ever since he rode his first winner here some four weeks ago. He met up with more of them yesterday, even though he was the hero of the afternoon's racing. He piloted Plumage to victory in the Hyde Park purse, the day's feature, and a short time earlier he showed great skill when he guided Untimely past the winning post. Later on he scored with Blast in the sixth race.

One Poor Ride.

But when he displayed bad judgment on the filly Sally Irene by riding her next to the rail in the deepest part of the muddy track in the third race and causing her to be out of the money he was tendered a Bronx cheer that could be heard all the way to 63d street.

Parke's rides on Plumage, Untimely, and Blast were very skillful. He picked careful paths in the better part of the track with these steeds. But that happened after he had galloped over the worst part of the track with Sally Irene. Those who wagered on Sally Irene would not forgive him even during the brilliant winning streak he hit up later in the afternoon.

It was the second victory for Plumage in three starts and indicated that the daughter of Ballot-Glyn, which races for S. S. Combs of Lexington, Ky., is back to the form she displayed more than a year ago, when she was a factor in rich Oaks events.

Rushes Past Pace Setter.

She had to come from behind, and to come from behind over a heavy track such as Lincoln Fields was yesterday is no easy task. Very Well and Dollar Princess were making a dizzy early pace. Plumage was back about fourth until the field rounded the bend and started the drive down the stretch.

Parke took Plumage extremely wide and evidently found a dry strip in the track. She went on ahead like a cannon ball express and wound up by beating Ald. John Coughlin's Very Well by four lengths. Shaker Lady was third. Plumage paid $7.16. Very Well rewarded the First ward cronies of Bath House John at $22.60 to place.

Large Crowd Attends.

Plumage ran the six furlongs in 1:16 3-5 on a track that was drying out under a warm sun. This was two seconds faster than any of the other horses were able to run the same distance.

A crowd of ten thousand watched Plumage romp to her triumph, indicating that Chicagoans want to cash in on the racing season which is fast drawing to a close on the big tracks.

Pay or Play Rule Invoked in Daily Double

The pay or play rule of the daily doubles had to be enforced for the first time at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

Five minutes before post time for the third race, long after all daily double tickets had been sold, the horse Butch broke out of the paddock and ran away. He finally was captured by C. E. Davidson, who made a flying tackle and grabbed the horse around the neck. Butch fell in the tussle. It was genuine rodeo stuff.

Butch was so badly shaken up he was scratched out of the race after a delay of 15 minutes. On the pay or play rule persons holding tickets on a horse that is scratched get no refunds.

The favorite Tadcaster won the third race after the favorite, Uncle Donald, had captured the second. It appeared that nearly everybody in the crowd had coupled up the two choices. The winning tickets paid $18.72.

Al Simmons, the new White Sox slugger, was a visitor at Lincoln Fields, having driven down from Milwaukee with a party of friends. He told a lot of Sox fans he was glad to join their team. Willie Kamm, the ex-Sox, who has been a frequent Lincoln Fields visitor since the close of the American league season, has departed for San Francisco.

The warning has gone out to horsemen that all available stable room at Sportsman's Park and Hawthorne has been allotted for the fall meet which opens at Sportman's Park on Monday. This means that there will be more than 800 horses available for the 19 days of racing at the half mile track.

2,265 POUNDS OF WRESTLERS ON COLISEUM CARD

Each of the wrestlers weighs over the 200 mark. The lightest is Jimmy Londos, who meets Able Coleman, in the windup. Londos weighs 205, ten pounds less than his foe.

Joe Stetcher (240) vs. George Zaharias (235).

Jim Clinkstock (240) vs. Hans Kampfer (225).

Stanislaus Lurik (230) vs. Jack Smith (210).

Lisle Opens Junior College Season with Morton Team

SWEET WAITS 9 YEARS TO REPEAT A GOLF TRIUMPH

Shoots 218 for 1st Place in Auchtermuchty.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Nine years is a long time between successful pilgrimages to the Auchtermuchty, Oak Park Country club's famous invitational tournament, but Art Sweet, the golfing journalist from Edgemoor, completed that span yesterday by winning the sixteenth revival of the event. His 54 hole score for the two days' play was 218. This, with his handicap of six, also gave him low net honors for the tournament, but he contented himself with taking low gross and a portion of the foursome prize. Sweet won the Auchtermuchty also in 1923.

Sweet finished the first day of play Wednesday with 106, two under par for 27 holes, and was only four over yesterday with 112, so exceeded the card for the west side course by only two strokes in two days of play to lead home one of the best fields ever registered for the Auchtermuchty.

Foursome Hits Prize List.

Sweet's foursome, the other members of which were J. Douglas Casey of Riverside, Harry E. Radix of Ridgemoor, and Dr. G. E. Meyer of the home club, had a near monopoly on the prize list. They won the 54 hole low gross foursome prize with a total of 904.

Radix, vice president of the C. D. G. A., in addition to sinking three chip shots and holding out a forty foot putt for four birdies yesterday, won fourth low net prize with 232. Casey walked off with the 54 hole low net prize with 221. Dr. Meyer came in for another prize when he shot an 89 for second low gross yesterday.

LOW GROSS, 54 HOLES: Class A—Art Sweet, Ridgemoor, 218. Class B—J. C. Towle, Oak Park, 263. Class C—B. E. Mills, Butterfield, 291.

Patrick Battles Williams Tonight in Fronton Ring

Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, Ind., light heavyweight, and Roy Williams of the south side meet in a ten round bout at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. It will be the first indoor show presented by Promoter Grant Kromenaker, who has presented bouts at Northwestern stadium the last two summers.

An eight round semi-windup, a six round bout, and two matches at four rounds will comprise the supporting card.

Danny Delmont and Jackie Davis meet in the eight round battle. Delmont lost a close decision to Prince Saunders recently. Davis beat Irish Kennedy at Ste. Saint Marie, Mich., several weeks ago.

Mique Malloy, White City promoter, said yesterday that he is planning to bring five of the best boxers in Cincinnati, O., to Chicago to face local boxers next week. A show is scheduled at White City Monday, but Malloy said the card will be postponed until late next week.

COMING DOWN AUCHTERMUCHTY

D. F. Thomas, F. W. Miller, and Alex McKay as they completed the second day's play in the Auchtermuchty, Oak Park Country club's invitational golf tourney. The event is named Auchtermuchty (winding stream in Scotch) because a stream crosses 14 of the 18 holes.

of gridiron strategy. He fits into the first team backfield of Manders, Francis Lund and Capt. Walter Haas. Sam Swartz is another first stringer. He twisted an ankle in practice yesterday, but X-ray photographs showed there was no break and Swartz will be ready for duty Saturday.

Kickers Can't Match Moss.

Minnesota's other problem, outside that of generalship, is lack of a kicker. The best Bierman can hope for against Paul Moss of Purdue is fair kicking, and it may fall below that average rating. Moss, by his punting last week in the Kansas State game, was an overpowering factor in the Boilermakers' success. He kicked out of bounds on the one foot line, which led directly to the blocking of a Kansas State punt and a safety. Three times afterward Moss punted out within the ten yard line and the old system of kick and follow the ball to make the other fellow lose the game, never was exemplified better.

Francis Lund, sophomore half back, is Minnesota's best kicker at this time, but his performances are erratic. Lund is long legged and steady under stress of rushing opponents, but his kicking ability is acquired and not natural. Lund, however, is an instinctively good open field runner. He also has been given the passing assignment, but the burden of multiple duties will weigh heavily on inexperienced shoulders.

Minnesota may attempt to offset its uncertain punting by quick kicking the ball over the heads of the secondary defense on first or second down. The formation used by Bierman before the shift lends itself to such tactics.

Ends, Tackles Are O. K.

Minnesota is well protected at end with four capable players; has at least two grade A tackles, an experienced center in Roy Oen, and average guards. Frank Larson understudies the veteran Brad Robinson at one end while Al Papas and Bob Tenner are scrapping for the other end position. Ken Gay and Marshall Wells are the veteran tackles.

Elmer Apmann is filling Munn's old job at guard. Apmann now is playing under his third coach, having served under Dr. Clarence Spears and Fritz Crisler. He was out of school last year. Bruhn recently has been at the other guard, but Bierman has several lettermen available, among them Sulo Koski, Jim Dennerly and Ellsworth Harpole.

About 20,000 are expected to attend the Big Ten opener.

PURDUE TAKES 35

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Thirty-five members of Purdue's football squad left here tonight for Minneapolis, where the Boilermakers will play Minnesota in the Big Ten opener on Saturday. A crowd of 6,000 students and townspeople cheered the team at the station.

Charles Meade, reserve full back, was left behind because of injuries. Dutch Fehring, veteran tackle, whose injuries kept him out of the Kansas State game, made the trip, but it is doubtful whether he will appear in the lineup.

Third Victory Goal of De Paul Eleven Tonight

De Paul university will seek its third football victory of the year tonight, when it meets Western State of Kalamazoo, Mich., at Loyola stadium. The Michigan eleven also has won its first two games.

De Paul opened with a triumph over St. Viator and last week staged a last minute march to defeat Illinois Wesleyan.

Although held to small scores, the Blue Demons have outgained their opponents by wide margins in first downs and yards. Scrimmages of the last week indicated that the De Paul offense has begun to click effectively in the scoring zone with the result that Western State is expected to have a difficult time stopping Ted Jablonski, full back, and Capt. Matty Steffen, left half back.

Jim Doody, who has recovered sufficiently to resume his quarter back duties, and Ernie Butcher complete the starting back field.

John Miller, half back, and George Wurster, end, are Western State's outstanding players. Wurster drops back to pass and punt.

Tonight's lineup:

Marshall Plays Rockford in Prep Headliner

Prep Games Today

Marshall at Rockford [8 p. m.].
Joliet at Elgin [8:30 p. m.].
Washington at Froebel [8 p. m.].
Libertyville at Wheaton [7:30 p. m.].
Rochelle at Freeport [8:30 p. m.].

With several veterans, including Dave Krieter, star quarter back, on the sidelines because of injuries, Marshall High school football team will meet Rockford High school in its last practice game of the season tonight at Rockford. The game is one of five which will usher in a busy week-end for teams in the Chicago district.

Krieter's place in the Marshall lineup will be taken by Johnny Schneewind, who has played in both of Marshall's previous pre-season games. Kreiter was injured last Friday night in the game against Elgin.

In other games tonight Joliet will meet Elgin on the latter's field, Washington will face Froebel at Gary, Ind.; Rochelle and Freeport will meet at Freeport, and Libertyville will play at Wheaton.

St. Philip's lightweight team defeated St. Mel, 6 to 0, at Crevier stadium yesterday. Wilson caught a pass from Wall in the first period and ran 20 yards for the touchdown.

Jack La Rocco, star full back, will be unable to play when Proviso meets New Trier at Kenilworth tomorrow in the opening suburban league game. La Rocco was injured in Proviso's game with Roosevelt last Saturday.

Coach Norman Barry will lead 30 members of the De La Salle team to Joliet, where they will open their league schedule tomorrow afternoon. De La Salle was defeated in its first game of the season by St. George, 6 to 0.

Cards Change Starting Team for Bear Game

Only one man who played in the first meeting of the Bears and Cardinals in 1920 will be available for Sunday's contest. He is George Trafton, who has been in all 23 battles between the Chicago teams.

Expect New Record at Evanston Track Sunday

A new lap record for the Evanston motor speedway is expected to be set in the qualifying trials for the 100 lap midwestern championship Sunday. Since the opening of the half mile track the stock cars have been getting faster and faster, and the drivers have become more skillful each week in negotiating the flat turns. The lap time has been cut from 41 to 33 seconds.

SVABEKS PLAY PARROTS.

The Svabek Recreations, Midwest football league middleweights, runners-up for the last four years, will play the Berwyn Legion Parrots Sunday at 31st street and East avenue, Berwyn.

In the Wake of the News

MICHIGAN SPIRIT.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 6.—About three decades ago, when The Wake was entering newspaper work, University of Michigan alumni in eulogising their college democracy and strength in athletics were wont to call it "The Yale of the West."

That, of course, was at the time when the Big Three of Yale, Harvard, and Princeton were almost the last word in football, when the "Y" on those blue sweaters loomed much larger in a gridiron way than it does today. For since that time state universities have grown in numbers and athletic strength until many colleges are equal or superior to the football elevens of the once Big Three.

Now we assume Michigan alumni would be willing for Yale men, if they wished, to call the New Haven college "The Michigan of the East." Since such adaptation by the Elis is not probable, let's go on with our story.

Michigan spirit to us has been something to admire during our period of observation. It is different—we do not say better—from that of other middle western institutions, yet that difference is difficult to describe. Michigan spirit is not less loyal; indeed, no; it is not less partisan in the best sense of partisanship, and it is not less lasting. Again indeed, no.

Perhaps one might say this Michigan spirit is more tolerant toward athletic rivals, in a sense more cosmopolitan. Whether that is because of a student personnel from many sections of the country or whether it's because Michigan always has been a leader in sports activities we do not pretend to say. The most obnoxious undergraduates and alumni—that is, obnoxious to others—are those whose athletic teams suddenly arise to eminence. The experience is new and something to be talked about.

Michigan is more mature in its athletic triumphs. Because of that, an occasional off season does not call for a wailing wall. Perhaps several bad years, not likely with Michigan's wealth of material, might prove Wolverine adherents only human after all, but so far there have been few occasions when "fire the coach" was the campus and alumni cry. In this respect we must always except that time when the Grand Rapids alumni smeared up the picture a bit only to have the Wolverines take the next three contests on their schedule. And the Grand Rapids gentlemen never have lived it down.

In thus estimating Michigan spirit so highly there is no intention of invidious comparisons. There is perhaps more exuberant, more rampant enthusiasm elsewhere. That is a matter of opinion. Simply stated, Michigan spirit is different, possibly intangibly different, but we interpret it as wholesome and effective for both undergraduates and alumni.

Autumn Elegy.

There's an emptiness in fields where quiet herds
Now graze, and in the waysides flowers shorn.

Some pleasures, joys, and some fond hopes are flown,
Somehow it all seems quite a part of me—
The faded leaf across my pathway blown,

Wolverines Favorites.

Before we left Chicago Michigan had been installed favorite over Northwestern in the mild wagering of La Salle street on football contests. Wolverine supporters were offering even money and spotting Northwestern 6 or 7 points, according to the liberality of the spotter, for that one point often is most important owing to the point after touchdown hazard. In Ann Arbor student opinion is confident up to the point of two touchdowns margin. So far as we can see there is little wagering.

Saturday's contest. But just the same you can't keep a football bug from delving in the past performances.

The Badgers and Hawks have clashed 12 times since their rivalry began in 1894. Iowa won only three of the dozen clashes, but, strangely enough, all three victories were accomplished right here on the Badgers' home premises.

The "modern" series between the two universities, dating back to 1924, has been one of hard fought battles and heart breaking finishes.

The last six games have been divided, three victories for each team, the most exciting, perhaps, being the 1929 affair which Iowa won, 14 to 0, at Camp Randall.

The battle only began after the final whistle, for the visiting Hawks tried to carry away the Wisconsin goal posts, which had been weakened by saw wielders the night before the game. A memorable riot ensued. After the melee, in which townspeople joined with students, it was feared that the bitter feeling would wreck the relations between the two institutions. It is said now, however, that all has been forgiven, a claim which will be tested for the first time when Iowa appears Saturday.

IOWA TEAM OPTIMISTIC

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—University of Iowa's football squad entrained for Madison today full of optimism for its first Big Ten game of the season against Wisconsin Saturday.

The Hawkeyes displayed more than the usual pre-game spirit in the half hour of passing and signal practice early this afternoon. Loufek, Miller and Mott made some sensational catches. The first team had only fair success, however, in checking Badger passes executed by a freshman team.

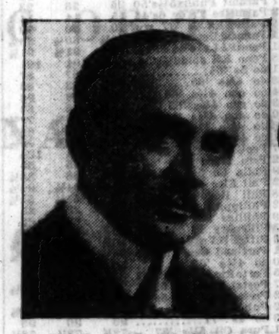
REGAL TURNS THE CORNER

with a NEW policy and a NEW price

Introducing Regal Budget Shoe at $3.95



E. J. BLISS
Chairman of the Board
Explains why

I believe this is a year when the policies of every company must be adjusted to meet present conditions.

Previous records of Manufacturing Costs, Operating Expenses, Sales Charts and Graphs are not worth much more than last year's Weather Reports to guide us through this storm.

If we are going to "Turn That Corner" we've got to start, and I thought we could get there quicker by having Two Prices instead of One.

I didn't know of any better way to feel the Price Pulse of the country than to ask our own customers from New York to San Francisco, and when we got their answer that settled our Price Policy for Fall.

More than one-half of our customers (51%) asked us to continue to reproduce the High Priced Custom Bootmakers' Exclusive Models, and I want you to compare these shoes this year with anything produced by anybody, at any price.

Almost one-half of the "votes" (42%) asked us to make a Regal Shoe for $3.95,—and I believe for Style, Quality, Workmanship, Finish, Fit and Wear the Regal Budget Shoe for $3.95 represents the greatest value in America today.

E. J. Bliss
Chairman of the Board

P. S. 36% increase in sales for September, 1932, is the average increase in all Regal Stores in every city from New York to San Francisco, from Sept. 1st to date, in comparison with the sales for the same days, in the same stores, for the same month last year. Regal has turned the corner!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—Pressure was relieved on the bond market today and issues of every description displayed rallying tendencies in contrast to yesterday's recessions. Most gains, however, were moderate.

Opening sales found the market still unsettled. Prices moved narrowly and indecisively as traders appeared reluctant to make commitments on the buying side, but there was no selling pressure comparable to the previous session and after the first hour the recovery got under way in earnest to hold fairly well throughout.

A feature of late trading was a drop of about 1 point in New York City issues after the announcement of the decision of the Court of Appeals ordering a mayoralty election here next month. The effect of the decision on long term bonds was reflected by the 4½s, which dropped to around 91.3 after an earlier 92.3.

U. S. Issues Improve.

Some improvement took place in United States governments, the group apparently paying little attention to the treasury's announcement of Oct 15 financing. The offering of $450,000,000 in 4½ year 3 per cent notes was more or less in line with what had been expected all along. The new issue was commanding a premium of five eighths of 1 per cent on the outside market at one time today.

Several rail issues which had experienced heavy pressure yesterday came back a fraction to a point or more, but the recovery was not so widespread as had been expected in bond circles this morning after the broad declines of the previous day.

Central refunding 5s, St. Paul 5s, Great Northern 7s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, and Chicago and North Western 4¾c made moderate gains. On the other hand, losses were sustained by Southern Railway 6½s, Frisco 4½s, and Nickel Plate 6s.

Foreign Liens Dull.

The foreign section moved in a dull and irregular trend. Australian issues perhaps were the leaders in strength. Advances were made by the 5s and 4½s as well as New South Wales issues. Germans were also in demand, the 7s moving up more than a point.

Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper.

I own a number of shares of Calumet and Hecla Copper. Your information regarding this stock will be greatly appreciated.—E. L.

Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper company is the leading copper producer in the Lake Superior region. Earnings in recent years have been adversely affected by the sharp decline in copper prices. In 1931 the company received 8.71 cents a pound for the metal, against 12.09 cents in 1930, and 17.69 cents in 1929.

Because of this decline the company has shut down its higher cost producers and has concentrated production on low cost mines and reclamation of mill sands. In the company's early history much ore with low mineral content was discarded. New refining methods have enabled the company to resmelt this waste economically.

As a result, average production cost per pound of copper in 1931, before depreciation and depletion, was 9.77 cents, against 10.56 cents in 1930, and 11.43 cents in 1929.

Depreciation and depletion charges in 1931 were about half of those in 1929.

Net loss for the first half of 1932 was $699,000, against loss of $1,319,000 in the corresponding 1931 period.

Net loss for the full 1931 year, after all charges, was $2,573,000, against loss of $7,000 for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $5,827,000, or $2.66 per share, against net of $3,111,000, or $1.55 per share, for 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $13,219,000 and current liabilities were $1,896,000. Cash was $320,000. Working capital was $11,323,000, against $12,543,000 the year before.

There is no funded debt. Profit and loss deficit at the close of 1931 was $25,610,000 and paid in surplus was $23,502,000. There are outstanding 2,005,502 shares of $50 par capital stock.

Although a detailed statement of the company's ore reserves is not available, continued production from low priced mines will eventually deplete them and force the company into the ranks of a high cost producer.

No dividend has been paid on the stock since the 50 cent payment in June, 1930. It is just a speculation.

French Conversion Offer.

Can you give me some details on the recently enacted law governing the conversion of French bonds?—A. G. S.

The French government offered to redeem its 5s of 1915 and 1916; 6s of 1920; 6s of 1927; 5s of 1928, and 7s of 1927 [all payable in francs] at par. Those who did not ask for redemption by Sept. 24, 1932, were considered to have agreed to the conversion of their bonds into 4½ per cent rentes.

CITY NATIONAL, GEN. DAWES NEW BANK, LAUNCHED

Takes Over Central Republic Savings.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The City National Bank and Trust company, the new institution formed by Brig. Gen. Charles Gates Dawes and associates to take over the savings, commercial, and checking savings departments of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, began business yesterday.

This institution has a capital of $4,000,000 and a surplus of $1,000,000. It is headed by Gen. Dawes as chairman and Philip R. Clarke as president.

Official announcement of the new bank was planned for Wednesday night, but due to a technicality arising at the last minute it was withheld until 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, a half hour before the bank began to function.

Transfers Its Deposits.

The Central Republic Bank and Trust company in retiring from commercial banking has transferred its deposits to the new national bank. The Central Republic, however, will continue operation of its trust and real estate loan departments. The City National Bank and Trust company, although it is an entirely separate corporate entity, is sharing banking quarters with the Central Republic at 208 South La Salle street.

Gen. Dawes has retired from the chairmanship of the Central Republic to assume a like office with the new bank. Mr. Clarke has resigned from the presidency of the Central Republic to become president of the new national bank.

Joseph E. Otis, vice chairman of the Central Republic, has succeeded both Gen. Dawes and Mr. Clarke as chairman and president of the Central Republic.

Directors of New Bank.

Donald S. Boynton, Pickands Mather & Co.

Charles S. Dewey, vice president, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company.

Straws Borne by Trade Winds Show Business Tide Is Rising

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Improved earnings were reported today by the board of directors of the Union Oil company of California at a meeting in which a dividend of 25c a share was declared. Net earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 20, after all charges, amounted to $1,250,000, equivalent to 29c a share. This compared with $550,000, or 12c a share, in the second three months of 1932.

Akron, O. — (AP) — President William O'Neill of the General Tire and Rubber company announced today that his company had increased its advertising appropriation for next year 25 per cent.

Des Moines, Ia.—(AP)—The Bankers' Life company reported today that its September paid-in business was $6,107,000, the largest total in any September during the last four years.

A marked upturn in the business of Bunte Brothers was reported today by F. A. Bunte, vice president, who said the company is working twenty-four hours a day with 1,700 workers on the pay roll.

Richmond, Va.—Coal dumpings by the Chesapeake and Ohio in September showed an increase over August and are expected to make a still greater gain in October, officials here report. Total coal handled in September amounted to 75,900 cars, compared with 68,600 in August.

Boston, Mass. — (AP) — More native wool was consumed in August than in any month since August, 1931, Walter Humphries, secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, said today.

Baltimore, Md.—Riggs, Distler & Co. of this city has closed a contract for about $2,000,000 worth of air conditioning, heating, ventilation work, etc., in federal buildings in Washington.

Sales of 27 firms in the drug and allied industries showed an appreciable pickup in September, according to reports made to the Drug Trade News.

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Increasing for each 10 day period of September, Cadillac-La Salle sales finished the month with a volume equal to August, which was 40 per cent greater than July.

Foreign shipments of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation were larger in September than in any month since July, 1931.

The De Soto Motor corporation shipped 1,336 De Soto cars in September, an increase of 27 per cent over August and a gain of 13 per cent over September of last year.

An upward trend in business and a seasonable increase in employment during the next several months was forecast today in an announcement by Mandel Brothers.

Connersville, Ind.—(AP)—Roots-Connersville-Wilbraham company, makers of blowers and pumps, reports that orders looked in September were 26.5 per cent above August and 43.5 per cent larger than July. Last month also showed a 32 per cent increase over September, 1931, the first comparative rise of the year.

HOSIERY ORDERS REPORTED HEAVY IN SEPTEMBER

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Earl Constantine, managing director of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, said today that in September the hosiery industry enjoyed one of the biggest months in its history on the volume of business signed up.

"Most of the mills are operating at full, or near full capacity and their orders on hand will keep them thus occupied through November and in many instances, throughout December.

"With commodity prices going up slowly, but firmly, it is to be expected that prices of hosiery will similarly rise. This increased demand on the mills has, of course, increased the number of men and women given employment by the industry."

BAKER SUPPLY GROUP REPORTS SALES UPTURN

Business with the bakers' supply houses which deal in food products and bakery equipment has increased from ten to fifteen per cent since July, it was reported at the annual convention of the National Association of Bakers' Supply Houses at the Palmer house.

"We are greatly encouraged by this pickup," commented Edwin C. Johnson of Boston, a member of the executive committee of the association.

"The demand for the ingredients of bakery products such as bread has been strong all during the depression," Mr. Johnson said, "because bread is a necessity. However, there has been a falling off in the demands for luxuries, such as pies and cakes."

"The demand for machinery used in baking has not been very strong, but that is only a matter of time."

REDUCE TAXES FOR PROSPERITY BANKERS TOLD

Rail Chief Sees Hope in Public Trend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Not the "forgotten man" but the "unforgotten man, who is the victim of society's assault on his pocketbook by taxation" is the person who needs succor in this time of crisis. Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the Southern Pacific railroad, told members of the American Bankers' convention at their closing session today.

Mr. Shoup said American taxpayers at present were laboring under a burden of taxes which had become confiscatory and asserted taxes exceed the value of property on which they are assessed in some districts of the United States. Mr. Shoup's picture, however, was not all painted in broad black lines. The railroad executive

Sales of Mail Order House Gain Sharply

The monthly sales report of Montgomery Ward & Co. confirms earlier evidence of sharp seasonal increase in the movement of merchandise.

The September sales of mail order and chain store houses expanded 12.7 per cent over the August volume. The spread from last year's sales volume narrowed down to 16.38 per cent, which is the best comparative showing made in several months. The showing for September as compared with last year is materially better than for the nine months period. Sales for the first 9 months show a spread of 21.89 per cent below 1931.

September sales aggregated $14,638,277, against $12,988,264 in August and $17,505,467 in the corresponding month last year. Nine months sales volume totaled $122,657,041, against $157,024,734 in the comparable months of 1931.

America's Stock of Gold Is Increased $1,000,000

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The country's monetary gold stock gained $1,000,400 today through a net decrease of that amount in gold earmarked for foreign account, the New York federal reserve bank statement disclosed. There were no imports or exports.

President of Belt Line Sees Brighter Days for Roads

There are a number of factors which hold a possibility of brighter days for the railroads provided business and the public can move them along the desired lines. This hope for improvement of the rail situation was expressed by A. N. Williams, president of the Belt Railway Company of Chicago, in a talk yesterday before the mid west advisory board at the Palmer House.

Mr. Williams detailed the problems facing the roads and then outlined the various favorable influences which may affect the future of the industry.

Among the things favorable to the roads Mr. Williams mentioned the following: the Reconstruction Finance corporation; the Railroad Credit corporation, a voluntary organization of railroads to pool earnings derived from increases on freight rates; favorable legislation in some states, such as Kansas, where a gross ton mileage tax on all trucks, with certain exceptions, has been imposed.

Other Favorable Aspects.

Other considerations he mentioned were: the growing demand throughout the country for a reduction in taxes; better service being given to the rail customers; the more reasonable attitude shown by the public in its demands on railroads by not insisting that new stations be built and not objecting if some lines are abandoned; the coöperation of the railroad employés in helping the cause of the industry, and the favorable attitude toward the railroads by both major political parties.

"All that is now needed," Mr. Williams said, "is coördination and leadership to bring these various inclinations to a focus to make them felt in a constructive way. I feel that the future of the railroads of the country will be decided within the next two or three years.

"The American people will have to take hold of this problem and see that their political representatives assure these properties a fair field, a just handling of their problems, and an opportunity to meet the competition as it arises without a mass of restrictive details; that the tax burden will be eased.

Government Ownership.

"The only alternative is government subsidy or government ownership. I am convinced that the American people do not want government ownership."

F. E. Winburn, a special representative of the freight claims division of the American Railway association at Washington, D. C., reported the changing trends in methods of handling shipments.

The mid west shippers' advisory board is an organization composed of representatives of shippers, receivers, and railroads, whose chief aim is to promote efficiency in the handling of freight.

STOCKS WAVER; LEADERS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

Weakness in Wheat Brings Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—The stock market was inclined to recover today after yesterday's severe shakeout, but some further bad news from the grain pit upset it and the recuperative efforts went for naught. Final prices were irregular, with the leaders showing little change from their previous closings. Trading volume was about 2,000,000 shares.

From all accounts the professional bear contingent is becoming increasingly active as the so-called October "test period" passes without bringing any striking evidence of the autumn trade revival so confidently forecast by the July-August rally in share prices. With the list apparently unable to extend its recovery without

EFFECTIVE TODAY

EFFECTIVE TODAY the Commercial, Savings, and Checking Savings Departments of this bank have been transferred to the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

The new bank is located in our present banking quarters at 208 South La Salle Street.

Customers of these departments will experience no inconvenience in transacting their banking business, as they will deal for the present with the same employees who have served them in the past. Checks drawn on the Central Republic Bank and Trust Company will be honored at the City National Bank and Trust Company.

The services of our Trust Department and Real Estate Loan Department will be carried on by the Central Republic Bank and Trust Company as heretofore. Our Investment affiliate, The Central Republic Company, will also continue its business in its present quarters as in the past.

We invite you to make use of these departments and their services.

Starts Selling Wave in All Grains Here.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Supporting orders to buy December wheat at Winnipeg at 31¾c were suddenly withdrawn yesterday and the Canadian market plunged downward to a low of 48⅛c for the October, the lowest price in the history of that exchange. While the break there was only ¾c from Wednesday's finish, it started a wave of general liquidation in all grains on the Chicago Board of Trade that carried all deliveries of wheat, corn, oats, and rye to new low figures for the season, with the exception of December wheat.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in all grains and at the inside figure wheat showed 2c under the finish of the previous day, with corn, oats, and rye declining around 1c. December oats sold at 15⅜c on the break, the lowest price ever quoted for that delivery on the local exchange, falling ¼c below the heretofore record low of 15⅝c established on Sept. 8, 1896.

Stop Orders Cause Break.

Aside from the withdrawal of strong support in the Winnipeg market, which had been sufficient to hold the December delivery within a range of 51¼@51⅞c for nearly a week, there was little in the news to account for the wave of liquidation which developed. The Canadian wheat market had been regarded by the trade as "pegged."

The sudden break in the Winnipeg wheat was not altogether surprising, as it was generally felt that it would have been extremely unwise for Canada to attempt to hold up the market in the face of the persistent decline this side of the international line and the increased competition with new crop wheats from Argentina and Australia which has developed abroad in the last few days.

An increase of 500,000 acres seeded to wheat in Argentina was officially reported during the day, as compared with the preliminary returns, the total being placed at 19,735,000 acres against 17,287,000 acres last year. On the basis of an average yield this suggested the crop might turn out well in excess of the 225,000,000 bu harvested last year.

According to pit observers the heaviest selling of wheat futures during the day represented liquidation of a stale long interest which had accumulated during the last few weeks, especially during the period when there was concentrated speculative buying credited to eastern account.

Wheat Rallies Near Close.

This class of buying was effective in checking the decline in wheat, but the December sold at 50c at the inside figure, and only ¼c above the season low established on July 16, while the May touched 55c. In the last two days the December shows a decline of 4½c. It is 16¼c under the best figure reached on April 26. The loss since that time has been equal to about $135,000,000. Based on local estimates there are still 850,000,000 bu cash wheat on hand. Closing trades were on a fair rally from the inside, with net losses of 1¼@1⅜c. Closing prices were, December, 50⅝@50¾; May, 55⅝@55¾c, and July, 56⅞c.

Heavy buying made its appearance for December wheat at Winnipeg at 50½c, with a Chicago house leading, and the net loss there for the day was only ¼@½c, with October at 48⅝c, and December, 51c. Liverpool closed ⅝@¾c lower, with December at 56c, or 4⅜c over the same future in Chicago. Export demand was much better, with sales of around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas estimated in all positions, including a cargo to China.

Corn for Export.

Stop loss orders carried December corn off 1c to 25⅝c, the action of wheat being the main influence. The break brought in good support and there was also a report of 90,000 bu cash grain having been sold to exporters at Montreal. A fair rally followed, but the close showed net losses of ⅝@⅞c, with December at 26⅛@26¼c, May at 31¼c, and July at 32¾@32⅜c. The country sold 100,000 bu to arrive, while shipping sales were 130,000 bu with charters for 500,000 bu to Buffalo.

Liquidation was under way in oats and rye, the former closing ⅝c with December 15⅝c and May 18⅝c. Rye was off ⅝@¾c with December 33c and May 36⅛c at the last.

CITY NATIONAL, NEW DAWES BANK STARTS BUSINESS

Takes Over Deposits of Central Republic.

Statement by Dawes.

Gen. Dawes yesterday gave out the following statement:

"Central Republic Bank and Trust company withdrew last evening from the strictly banking phases of its operations by the transfer of all of its deposits to another bank, the newly organized City National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

"The readjustment of the affairs of Central Republic was dictated by sound business principles. The nation wide decline in bank deposits which reached a peak last June, resulted in heavy withdrawals from Central Republic, so that it was necessary to borrow a substantial sum of money."

This referred to the $90,000,000 loan obtained by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company from the Reconstruction Finance corporation late in June and the $5,000,000 borrowed from other Chicago banks.

"While this restored the favorable cash position of the bank, it imposed severe burden in the form of interest on the money borrowed.

"Drastic reductions had been made in overhead and salaries, but the shrinkage in earning assets due to declining deposits was making it increasingly difficult to meet fixed rental obligations and other charges.

Cost of Borrowed Money.

"When the cost of borrowed money was added to the other operating expense, the continuation of Central Republic Bank and Trust company without some plan of readjustment could only have the effect of a steady impairment of its assets.

"The problem of how to remedy this uneconomic condition has for the last two months had the constant attention of the Central's board of directors. Every effort was made to devise a plan that would retain intact the business of the bank.

"A careful analysis, however, of all of the factors involved and particularly the high fixed rental charges, made it apparent that continued operating losses were inescapable and could only result ultimately in forced liquidation. This would have meant a sacrifice of the bank's assets.

"Therefore it was finally concluded that the Central Republic Bank and Trust company could only be enabled to remain in existence by divesting itself of its deposits and having them assumed by an outside and distinct institution.

Adjusts Fixed Charges.

"In the process Central Republic was able to adjust many of its heavy fixed charges on a more reasonable basis. By thus permitting the continuation of operation there is opportunity for realization of its assets to be made carefully during a prospective period of business recovery."

Joseph E. Otis, new board chairman of Central Republic, answered inquiries concerning that institution with the following statement:

"The commercial business, savings department and checking-savings departments have been taken over by City National, but our trust, real estate loan and investment departments will continue to do business."

The change brought no inconvenience to customers. For the present they are being served by the same tellers at the same location. City National bank is honoring all checks drawn on the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. The same check forms and passbooks are being used temporarily.

Outgrowth of Merger.

Central Republic Bank and Trust company was the outgrowth of a merger effected July 27, 1931, between the Central Trust company and the National Bank of the Republic. The Central Trust, long known as the "Dawes bank," was founded thirty years ago by Gen. Dawes after he had retired as controller of the currency.

Gen. Dawes several months ago returned to take active charge of the Central Republic after many years of service with the government. When he was elected Vice President of the United States nearly eight years ago he became honorary chairman of the board, a position that he retained while he was serving as ambassador to Great Britain.

Gen. Dawes resigned as ambassador to become president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation early this year. In June he resigned from the latter position to return to the Central Republic as chairman of the board of directors.

further help of an extraordinary nature, the bears are busying themselves on the side of the decline, reflected in a brisk borrowing demand for stocks.

Mail Order Shares Hit.

Weakness in wheat, however, furnished the excuse. The farm implement and mail order shares were the first to feel the effect of the fresh slump in pit prices, Case taking a tumble for more than 3 points in the early afternoon. International Harvester after having risen to 25⅝ broke to 22½, off 1⅝, and both Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward sold off, the first named for about a point, both groups rallying to recover most of their losses before the close.

The midday weakness in the so-called agricultural issues spread to the pivotal industrials and then to the railroad and utility groups. United States Steel common broke to 37 after a forenoon high of 39¼, but later

Other Groups Mixed.

Other groups steadied, backed, and filled, and finally moved up again on precautionary short covering in the final thirty minutes or so of trading.

Corporate news of a caliber to influence price movements was meager. Some concern was manifested over the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation due next Monday, but estimates on the figures differed widely. Iron Age in its mid-week review had predicted an increase of 100,000 tons in the figures, but a Dow Jones statement today said that the gain would probably be small.

Railroad shares offered some resistance to pressure but the leaders finished generally behind minus signs.

LARD MARKET STRONG

Buying of lard by shorts and spreaders against sales of cotton oil was a feature of the provision trade, creating a firmer feeling and net gains at the close of 2½ on futures, while bellies were given little attention with prices unchanged. Cash lard was steady with a moderate export and domestic trade, regular being $4.52½, loose $4.40 and leaf $4.37½. Cash bellies were $5.32½. Moderate business was done in fresh cuts of pork, with loins 8c to 11½c. Liverpool lard 6d to 2s lower, the latter on January. There were no exports of lard, and only 90,000 lbs of bacon. Hog prices were sharply lower, with receipts heavier than last week and smaller than a year ago at western points. Prices follow:

made several concrete suggestions and said one of the brightest trends of the present situation was the rise in sentiment leading to the compulsory halt on squandering public money.

Sisson Sees Improvement.

After Mr. Shoup's address, and a public statement by Francis H. Sisson of Guaranty Trust company of New York, the newly elected president of the association, the convention adjourned.

Mr. Sisson stressed what he described as "signs of improvement in the economic situation, forerunners of a more tangible recovery that will gradually lift business activities, earnings and employment to the levels that our natural and human resources give us the right to regard as normal."

He expressed opposition to legislative interference with the country's present banking system and said that the bankers themselves can institute more beneficial changes in the banking structure than would result from anything attempted by congressional enactment.

"But it is the bankers' duty to see that sound banking principles are conformed to," he warned his hearers.

Cites Report on Policy.

Mr. Sisson's optimistic address cited the report of the convention's economic policy commission, which was presented earlier in the day. The report read:

"No need is seen for any major legislative enactment to prevent the return of the evils of overbanking or of the entrance of unqualified persons into the banking business. Full consideration of the advisability of granting new charters can be exercised under existing laws."

The disappearance of 11,300 American banks, reduced from 30,800 in 1921 to 19,500 in 1932, was described as "salutary while painful," and the economic commission urged against the imposition of federal control over all banks in place of the present dual system of state and national banking control.

Urges Reserve Extension.

As alternative to federal control over all banks, which the commission opposed, but which, it acknowledged, might take place as the result of current American political pressure, Rudolph S. Hecht, second vice president of the A. B. A., advocated that the federal reserve system be extended into the commercial banking field.

"This," he said, "would incorporate all the virtues claimed for a unified system. It is our conviction that the federal reserve system constitutes the most promising instrumentality for building up the kind of banking structure for the nation that can be desired."

Sheup Demands Cut in Taxes.

Mr. Shoup's platform for general business betterment, with suggestions as to how banking industry could help lead the way, had as its keynote this comment:

"In 1932, with one-fourth to one-third of all the national income taken by taxes, the way to start encouraging effort in every line of industry is, first—to lessen taxes."

This, the speaker said, might be started by a study of the California State Chamber of Commerce and California Taxpayers association joint program, which is to be pushed in the California legislature. It provides for the consolidating of present overlapping tax collecting and tax creating bodies and for a study of the tax bodies' present total of funded obligations and current debts, to decide upon a tax reform program which would refund and consolidate interest charges and in some cases provide for the extention of maturities.

Assails Soldiers' Bonus.

Involved in this general suggested plan, Mr. Shoup said, would be the consolidation of school and sanitary districts, imposition of rigid control over other special districts by central bodies, and the removal of laws requiring employment of a fixed number of employes at fixed salaries in public service.

The railroad executive also said that one of the most disturbing questions in business rehabilitation was injected by the soldiers' bonus.

"The people do not know that $1,000 due in 1945 has no such value as $1,000 in cash today and to pay it now, is to over pay," he said. "The people confuse the lending of money which is to be returned with the giving of money which is not to be returned."

To Discuss Depression Influence on Accountancy

The influence of the depression on the practice of accountancy, the compulsory audit of corporations and the election of auditors by stockholders are among the topics which will be discussed at the national convention of the American Institute of Accounts. The convention will be held in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 17 to 19. Among the speakers who will address the accountants are George O. May, New York accountant, and Frederick B. Andrews of Chicago. A delegation of leading Chicago accountants will attend.

CHEMIST DOES A COFFEE TRICK.

One month ago	5.00@6.25
One year ago	5.00@6.25
Top yesterday, $5.70; average, $5.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 10,000.

The hog market yesterday received a crushing blow that wiped out all semblance of the better feeling noted in the mild rally on the preceding session. Prices fell mostly 25@30c under the hammer, with uneveness for the day ranging from 15c to 40c lower, the new crop of spring pigs showing the full loss. The failure of the wholesale market for fresh pork to strengthen under the influence of cooler weather was blamed for the abrupt change in the attitude of buyers.

Packing houses had been confidently expecting a good clearance into retailers' hands toward the end of the week and had allowed some accumulation of pork without exerting much pressure on the hog market until yesterday. Only a scattering of selected light butchers reached the $4.00 top. Few got above the $3.85 line later, while the majority of high quality, 180@300 lb averages, sold at $3.75@3.80.

Armour, Swift and Wilson obtained about 4,700 of the latter kinds, keeping well away from the poorer grades. The general average price of all hogs dropped 25c to $3.60, being only 45c above the low spot last May. Current quotations are $1.25@1.55 under the high point of the year and $1.60@1.80 lower than on the corresponding date in 1931. Outside hog markets were slashed, too, five of the leading points in the west quoting peak prices at $3.50@3.60.

Cattle Market Slow.

Yesterday's 6,000 cattle were principally the kinds that buyers have been reluctant about buying. Sharp discounts in prices the last few days have not improved the demand because the movement of the medium grades of beef has been draggy. Consequently trading in the cattle yards proceeded slowly, keeping to a crawling pace practically all day. At the close a number of loads had to be carried over for lack of decent bids.

The low level of hogs and lambs is having some effect on the demand for beef and has had a tendency to weaken the cattle market still more. Many classes of steers are selling 50@75c lower than a week ago, and a big share of the good to choice yearlings and light steers show $1.00 loss for the week. The meager supply of prime medium and weighty steers held steady yesterday and show only 25@35c decline from the high spot of the season. The trade is carrying a $10.00 quotation for the latter kinds, but nothing in yesterday's offerings was good enough to sell above $9.40. The bulk brought $5.50@8.15, with plain quality steers down to $4.50 and inferior grassy kinds at $3.00@4.00.

Lambs Hold Firm.

Lambs held firm despite the slump in cattle and hogs. Choice range lambs sold to city butchers as high as $5.70, while packers bought the majority of high grades of rangers at $5.60 and below. Natives to packers and city butchers reached $5.35 occasionally during the day, but the bulk of these were sorted at $5.00@5.25, the buck lambs in the shipments selling at $4.00@4.25. Old mutton sheep were steady considering quality. A band of 130 lb western ewes sold at $2.00. Yearling wethers brought $4.25. Country demand for feeding lambs was only fair at $4.75@5.00. Yearling breeding ewes sold up to $4.25 and mixed ages brought $2.75@3.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 1,502 cattle, 17,814 hogs, and 5,965 sheep the previous Friday, and 3,497 cattle, 22,810 hogs, and 15,591 sheep a year ago.

COTTON TRADERS AWAIT CROP REPORT

Disposition on the part of those most interested in the cotton trade is to even up for the government crop report due on Saturday. Breaks run into buying support and bulges induce selling, keeping prices within a comparatively moderate range. Wall street houses were covering shorts and a fair amount of trade buying was in evidence.

Freezing weather at a number of points in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana was not taken seriously, and the announcement by the department of agriculture agreeing to liberalize terms of production loans on the 1932 crop appeared to restrict selling on the part of numerous traders as the new terms would permit the south to hold their cotton for higher prices.

Prices moved within a narrow range and at the close futures in Chicago were 4 to 9 points net higher with other markets 4 points lower to 2 points net higher. Spots in New York were 5 points net lower at 7.05c; New Orleans unchanged at 6.95c; Galveston, 6.85c; and Houston, 6.90c. Liverpool closed 3 to 4 points net lower. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—A moderate but steady upward trend in general business conditions during the late summer and early fall was pictured today by the department of commerce in its October issue of the survey of current business.

"Business activity since the latter part of August," said the department in summary of its observations, "has been moderately improved, with a number of the major indicators moving upward by more than the seasonal amount. The movement has been generated largely by the demand for consumer goods as reflected in the rapid gains in the textile industry and an upturn in the leather and food processing industries. So far the heavy industries have felt little stimulation and show a continued tendency to lag."

The department's survey of business is based on data received from more than 200 organizations. It is designed, according to the department, to "present the available statistical measurements of economic activity, together with the necessary analytical comment which will enable readers to obtain a comprehensive picture of the business situation."

Commodity prices, the department reported in its latest issue, showed an advance during August for the second consecutive month and the upward movement was continued during early September.

Professor Sees Business Gain, More Jobs in '33

Prediction that the volume of business and employment in 1933 will exceed that of this year was made tonight by Prof. Garfield V. Cox of the University of Chicago business school in a lecture at the Art Institute.

Prof. Cox said the depression had run its course, and gave as evidence "the world-wide easing of interest rates, the success of both British and French debt refundings, the domestic decrease in hoarding and increase in gold deposits, and the rise of prices in the principal commodity and security markets of the world."

Enters $699,997 Judgment Against Four Foshay Aids

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A judgment for $699,997 against four former officials of the W. B. Foshay company, now in receivership, was entered in County District court today. It was the outcome of a suit brought by minority stockholders to recover for back salaries and bonuses they charged the defendants, W. B. Foshay, H. H. Henley, C. W. Salisbury, and H. E. McGinty, had voted themselves fraudulently.

Tell of $2,500,000 Kreuger Paid for Turkish Monopoly

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—Payment in 1930 of approximately $2,400,000 toward obtaining the Turkish match monopoly, in connection with which about $14,000,000 of bonds is now held by the trustee in bankruptcy of the International Match corporation, was by money supplied by the Kreuger & Toll account with Lee, Higginson & Co. This was testified today at a hearing in the bankruptcy of the Kreuger & Toll company.

Food Price Shows Normal Seasonal Drop

Bradstreet's weekly food index dropped one point to $1.77 last week, this being a normal seasonal recession. The index stood at $2.15 a year ago.

CAREY EXPLAINS HOW GRAIN PITS HELP FARMERS

Cites Close Touch with the Growers.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The vital relationships which grain exchanges have with the business and agricultural interests of the nation were described today in an address by Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade before the Rotary club here.

Grain exchanges, he said, are in close touch with practically every farm home in America, a situation illustrated recently when the board of trade was deluged with letters from farmers and dealers asking that the daily radio market reports be continued.

"From one little town not ten miles from Bloomington a petition signed by more than sixty farmers asked us to continue the service," Carey said. He explained the value to commerce, banks, millers and farmers of the constant market prices on grains.

Assails Attackers.

Attacks on short selling of commodities, he said, were being placed before the public as the "last resort of those who make a mountain out of a mole hill to gain some sort of popularity." Short selling does not increase a crop one iota, Carey declared, pointing out that for every seller there must be a buyer.

The exchange leader also spiked the report that board of trade presidents received high salaries. Instead of being the recipient of $100,000 a year, he said, the office carried no salary at all. In fact, he took time from his business, at his own expense, to make today's address, he said.

Under normal conditions, it was pointed out, shipments of grain received in Chicago are handled with greater rapidity and more economy than any other commodity in which the farmer is interested. Such authorities as Sir Josiah Stamp and the United States Supreme court were cited to show the value of futures commodity markets.

Charges Farm Board Fails.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The federal farm board was charged not only with having failed in its intended aid to farmers, but of injuring business and commerce, in an address by Fred H. Clutton, secretary of the Board of Trade, before the chamber of commerce of Hammond today.

Clutton said that the grain exchange had previously refrained from criticizing those named to carry out the farm marketing act at its "Quixotic" duties, having recognized that it was unsound.

"But here and now we charge that the farm board has failed utterly in its duty of reclaiming agriculture or to benefit it," he asserted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 6.—A bid of $105,000 for the Durant motor plant here, offered by Ransom E. Olds, automotive pioneer, was rejected today by the Central Trust company, receiver, after a creditors' committee had protested its acceptance.

The plant was up for disposal at a receiver's auction sale, the second one to be held, but Olds' offer was the only one so far received. The property's reproduction value was recently appraised at $2,244,260, disregarding the cost of the 47 acres of land it occupies.

It was reported here today Olds was representing a Chicago concern, but he would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Gain in Bank Clearings Is Larger Than Seasonal

Bank clearings last week rose to $5,152,632,000 from $4,123,140,000 in the preceding week, Bradstreet's reports. The increase was considerably larger than the usual seasonal gain, due to heavy month-end and quarterly payments.

SO. PACIFIC HIRES 1,000 TO REPAIR FLOOD DAMAGE

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific Railroad company announced today more than a thousand men had been put to work repairing the main line over the Tehachapi mountains, badly damaged by floods last Friday night, and that it appeared the road would be reopened to traffic next Wednesday.

Experienced bridge and track builders, many of whom had been unemployed many months, were called back to service. Work is progressing from both ends of the 25 mile area, day and night. The company said it expects the work to cost nearly $500,000.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Wisconsin—Cloudy, somewhat cooler in north portion Friday, probably followed by showers at night and on Saturday; cooler in east and south portions Saturday.

Indiana—Fair and warmer Friday; Saturday unsettled, followed by showers and cooler in north and central portions.

Lower Michigan—Mostly cloudy, warmer in south, scattered showers in north portion Friday; Saturday local showers and somewhat cooler.

Upper Michigan—Scattered showers, cooler in west portion Friday; Saturday unsettled.

Missouri—Fair, warmer in south and east portions Friday; Saturday unsettled, probably showers and cooler in north portion.

Ohio—Fair and warmer Friday; Saturday partly cloudy, warmer in extreme south portion and colder in north portion in afternoon or at night.

ANNOUNCE PLAN TO REORGANIZE WOODLAWN FLATS

Plantation Bond Issue Is Called.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans for refinancing the $176,000 bond issue on the Plantation apartments, at the northeast corner of Kimbark avenue and East 56th street, were announced yesterday by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company, reorganization manager. The issue, dated Jan. 1, 1924, was originally $275,000, at 6½ per cent, and has been reduced by principal payments to $176,000. It was underwritten by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company.

For the year 1931 the property produced a net income of $25,338, while the principal and interest requirements for the year were $26,440, according to Edgar N. Greenebaum, vice president of the Greenebaum Sons Investment company. The net income for the first six months of 1932 was $8,276, while principal and interest requirements for that period were $13,720, he stated.

Will Give Income Bonds.

The reorganization plan provides for the exchange of bonds, par for par, for new securities maturing July 1, 1942. The new income bonds will have a maximum rate of 6 per cent. This interest is to be cumulative. It is provided, however, that three-quarters of the income from the property shall be used each year to pay interest and one-quarter shall be used annually to retire the new bonds.

"Arrangements have been made by which interest at the rate of 6½ per cent per annum due Jan. 1, 1933, will be paid to the bondholders at the time they deposit their bonds," said Mr. Greenebaum. "Securities should be deposited with the Central Republic Bank and Trust company."

Reports on Two Issues.

Reports on the Sherman apartments, at 909 Sherman street, Evanston, and the Highlands hotel, at the southeast corner of Greenview and Birchwood avenues, were made public last night by the protective committee for issues sold by the Straus Brothers Investment company. It also announced that the Metropolitan Trust company is now the depositary for these bonds, formerly deposited with the Chicago Bank of Commerce.

From Sept. 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, receipts for the Sherman apartments were $17,830. Total disbursements were $9,755. Cash held by the trustee for the bondholders was reported to be $8,074. Taxes unpaid, however, total $11,442. The original bond issue was $185,000, with $160,000 now outstanding.

Gross receipts for the Highlands hotel from Sept. 1, 1930, to July 31, 1932, are reported to have been $87,128. Disbursements were $78,823, leaving a cash balance of $8,304. Taxes totaling $13,941 are unpaid. The original issue was $325,000, since paid down to $273,500.

Legal Rate Is 7 Per Cent.

TO THE EDITOR: I own a brick bungalow at ——— street, burdened with a first mortgage of $3,000, due Oct. 1, 1932. The interest rate is 7 per cent. The holder of this mortgage refuses to renew the loan unless I pay 8 per cent interest. Do you think this is fair?—J. P.

ANSWER: The legal rate of interest in Illinois is 7 per cent. We suggest you request an extension on your payment loan and offer to pay 1 per cent commission.

Get a Good Lawyer.

TO THE EDITOR: As a last resort, I am seeking your good advice regarding a $6,000 first mortgage that I hold on a bungalow located at ——— court, Cicero, Ill. The owner has failed to pay January taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930, and also special assessments for three years. A tax shark recently has called my attention to the fact that he has purchased all unpaid special assessments and general taxes for 1928 and holds a tax deed. He demands $850 to release his claim.

I have taken the matter up with the owner but he absolutely refuses to redeem any unpaid taxes. The mortgage expires May, 1933, and the interest is paid to date. Will you please advise me if this property is worth the amount of the mortgage, as I am past 60 years of age and have three dependents. I will appreciate to the fullest extent your frank opinion as to what should be done—J. Z.

ANSWER: The writer inspected your property and it is worth more than $6,000. Regarding your problem, with the owner who refuses to pay the taxes as well as the tax shark, we suggest you secure the services of a good attorney to assist you in straightening out these matters. This department does not recommend attorneys or real estate brokers.

Don't Give Names.

TO THE EDITOR: Would you please give me the location of and information on the cottage of writer H. S.?—J. A. C.

ANSWER: We regret being unable to furnish you with the name of the owner and the address of this property. Our policy does not permit a writer's name to get out of this office.

Wholesale Price Index Holds Firm for 3 Weeks

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—The bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor announces that the index number of wholesale prices for the week ending Oct. 1 stands at 65.4, the same as for the two preceding weeks. This index number includes 784 commodities, weighted according to their importance, and is based on the average prices in 1926 as 100.0.

Chase National Bank Reports Gain in Deposits

The Chase National bank statement of condition as of Sept. 30 shows deposits of $1,420,221,000, compared with $1,302,456,000 three months previously. Cash amounted to $377,211,000, against $299,944,000 on June 30, while United States government security holdings totaled $249,899,000, compared with $218,073,000. Total resources amounted to $1,855,617,000, compared with $1,731,509,000 on June 30.

U. S. TAXES TURN AUTO BUYERS TO USED CAR MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—Since the federal excise taxes on motor vehicles went into effect three months ago, the public has purchased a higher proportion of used cars and fewer new ones. Alvan McCauley, president of the national automobile chamber of commerce, told members of the organization today.

Mr. McCauley cited records showing "a marked drop" in the ratio of new to used car purchases for July and August, the first two full months in which the federal levies were in effect. In July, he said, retailers sold 291 used cars for every 100 new cars, and in August 244 used vehicles for every 100 new ones, as compared with the ratio of 100 to 188 during June as well as during July and August of 1931.

"The effect of these taxes is most regrettable, coming at a time when the maintenance and expansion of employment is of

WALGREEN STOCK FEATURE TRADE IN MARKET HERE

Closing on the Chicago exchange yesterday represented only small change from the previous day's final quotations. Price movements were erratic during the day, but prices steadied near the close.

Walgreen was active and over a point higher. Rumors in the financial district for several days have linked Walgreen in merger talk with Liggett company. Officials state that conversations between the companies have been carried on at intervals for several years, but that no new developments have taken place recently.

Commonwealth Edison moved forward to 75 after the declaration of the usual quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share. Marshall Field and Swift were up moderately.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Cotton goods were in moderate demand today with gray goods prices barely steady. Shipments continued large. Sample orders for tropical suitings are coming along for spring cutting purposes. Overcoatings are in better call. Silks continued steady, with the movement on past orders still fairly large. Burlaps were unchanged. Rayon yard scarcity continues.
